ON-SPOT STORY OF RED RULE IN BALKANS TOLD

Soviet Road Blocks Halt U. S. General

BY DAVID DARRAH

[Tribune correspondent who has just completed a tour of the Balkans and returned to Italy to write without censorship.]

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

NAPLES, Italy, Sept. 28—Russia, with the bluntness of a bulldozer, is building up a deep defensive barrier of satellite states on its western frontier from the Baltic to the Aegean, with an advance line from Stettin to Trieste, a tour of eastern Europe disclosed.

Moscow has set up puppet governments in Poland, Romania and Bulgaria, with loyal Reds always in the ministries of interior and justice. Concentration camps are filled with thousands of the opposition.

Under the armistice terms, the Russian army must be fed by the occupied country and there are 150,000 soviet troops in Bulgaria and more than a million in Romania. The Russians lack food at home, and Moscow is described as impoverished. It is cheaper to keep an army abroad. Romanians and Bulgarians say the Reds requisition food and other supplies for a far larger number of troops than they have in either country and send the excess to Russia.

Russians Don't Mix

In neither Bulgaria, which is Slav, nor Romania, which is Latin, is there any mingling of Russian troops with the local populations. One sees few Russians in the streets of Sofia. More are seen in Bucharest, but none with girls.

Ostensibly, an allied control commission of Russians, British, and Americans is administering the armistice terms imposed on these two Balkan countries. Maj. Gen. John Crane heads our mission in Bulgaria and Brig. Gen. Cornelius Van Rensselaer Schuyler is in Bucharest.

Actually, the Russians treat both the Americans and British in a high handed manner. They hold sessions of the commission among themselves and pass measures without even troubling to inform the Americans or British, who learn about it days later. Since the Potsdam conference, conditions have improved slightly.

Sends No Excuses

A few days ago Gen. Schuyler had an appointment with the Russian commanding general to discuss relaxing the censorship in Romania, which is exercised by both the Russians and Romanians. The Red general failed to appear and sent no excuses.

Schuyler made a second appointment two days later, and this time the Russians came.

In Bulgaria, Gen. Crane's car is held up by Russian road blocks when he travels about the country.

An iron curtain of censorship obscures what is going on in Romania. The Russians allow no news giving background or facts on the constituency of the present government or the present national crisis to leave the country. News considered critical of Russia and its policy toward the Balkans is not tolerated.

The Russian censor speaks no English and poor French. He has a girl assistant who translates all dis-

Berlin Cold Snap Adds to Civilians' Woe

BY HENRY WALES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BERLIN, Sept. 28—An early autumn cold snap has hit Berlin and it is cold in army billets, but they are better off than most of the 3,000,000 Berliners because the army is supplying glass for the shattered windows and repairing the fire bombed roofs of homes where soldiers are billeted. Beginning in October it will supply coal for all billets.

The rest of the civilian population is shivering in roofless, windowless, ripped and shattered buildings. The majority of the populace has been subsisting on bread and potatoes since February, when air raids disrupted the supply routes and the invading Red army carried off the live stock and supplies to feed the famishing Russians.

Pneumonia already has broken out in serious proportions all over the city as underfed women, children, and emaciated men are unable to offer any resistance to the cold.

Typhoid Crisis Serious

Altho an allied bulletin states that cases of typhoid have dropped sharply in the last week, official figures reveal 99 deaths compared with 88 in the preceding week, and there were 797 cases compared with 823 the week before. Authorities insist it is not epidemic, but more than 14 deaths daily is a serious total by whatever name it is called.

The allied bulletin says meat is available to every one twice a week, but some families and shops have not had meat for months and the same is true of powdered milk, sugar, lard, and other fats.

American authorities hint that one reason the distribution of foodstuffs broke down is the rigid elimination from any job of any one ever a member of the Nazi party.

No Food on Shelves

Most of the wholesale retail grocers, shippers, jobbers, truckers, and market men who carried on the task of feeding Berlin joined the party to escape discrimination, and soon grabbed all the important posts. Now these food merchants are barred from operating and are replaced by former clerks or outsiders ignorant of merchandising—hence, the breakdown.

However, not even an efficient American chain store could sell food without any on the shelves, and the basic answer is that there are insufficient supplies. There are no prospects of an appreciable improvement.

Germany relied on slave agricultural labor from conquered nations during the last three years and with the defeat, these millions of Russians, Poles, Czechs, Jugoslavs, French, and Dutch grabbed the farmers' horses and carts, loaded them with edibles and objects they desired, like farming implements, and hit the trail for home. Germany cannot replace this man power with Germans because millions of prisoners of war are being held by the victorious nations.

Another factor is the crippled transportation. The Russians seized hundreds of locomotives, thousands of freight and passenger cars, even

Outlaw? Sure! but Al Didn't Rob a Cradle

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 28 [Special]—Al Jennings conceded he had been an outlaw—a pretty good one if he did say so himself. He had robbed trains, stolen cattle on the range, and been quick on the draw with his six shooter in many encounters in the old southwest. But never did he try to induce a beardless boy to join his gang. Not ever!

Jennings, now 82, small, wiry, and colorful, explained his indignation to an enthralled jury of 11 women and one man in Superior court where his $100,000 defamation suit against a radio chain was on trial today.

He sued the Don Lee Broadcasting company and the Weber Baking company, sponsor of the Lone Ranger program, for portraying him in a radio play a year ago as seeking to recruit a boy, 17, for his band. Bad as he was in the wild raw days, he wasn't that bad, he insisted.

His Pride's Hurt:

And it hurt his pride when the radio sketch depicted the Lone Ranger shooting Jennings' gun out of his hand.

"Imagine, and me an expert!" he said. "It was always the man who was quickest on the draw who won. That was the law of the range."

Once a prosecuting attorney in Oklahoma and later a candidate for governor of that state, Jennings said he turned into a tough hombre after two men fatally shot his brother, Ed, in the back.

Swearing vengeance, Jennings trailed them and, in a gun fight, killed three men, wounded another, and robbed a store.

"That was my first act of banditry," he explained, "that is, except for mavericking.

Rob Trains? Well, Yes

"There was little established law in those days. We used to steal cattle on the range—mavericking, we called it. We took unbranded, motherless calves. It got so we took any calf if its mother looked the other way."

Captured by a posse, Jennings was convicted of robbing a mail train—falsely convicted, he contended.

"Did you ever rob a train?" the court asked.

"Well, yes," Jennings replied, "I robbed some trains, but not that train."

After serving five years in prison he was pardoned by President Theodore Roosevelt in 1907. He turned evangelist and lecturer, went to Hollywood and acted in pictures, and tried his hand at politics but contended that "a train robber wouldn't associate with the average politician."

SURVEY SHOWS AUTO, OIL, COAL, AND WOOD OUTPUT IS DISRUPTED

New York, Sept. 28 (AP)—A survey by the National Conference of Business Paper Editors today showed that strikes in four basic industries are costing daily in lost production thousands of automobiles, nearly half of the nation's oil output, 168,000 tons of coal, and 40 per cent of the northwest's production of timber.

Automotive—63,000 idle workers have lost 900,000 man days of work and 9½ million dollars in pay.

Coal—42,000 idle, closing 77 mines with daily pay roll of $325,000.

Northwest lumber—Strike of 60,000 workers closed 450 plants with loss of 2½ million man hours and $2,640,000 in pay to date.

4 CONVICTS FLEE JACKSON PRISON IN HAIL OF FIRE

Jackson, Mich., Sept. 28 (AP)—Four convicts escaped tonight from Southern Michigan prison by climbing over the prison wall.

More than 100 prison guards and state police searched for the quartet after firing as they fled.

The convicts used a ladder made from a pipe to gain the top of the wall and lowered themselves to the ground by rope.

Acting Warden Ralph Benson said the four are: John Ronald Kuchulan, 29, August Bernard Doak, 28, and Phillip Gill, 28, all sentenced to 10 to 20 years for robbery armed, and Merwin L. Young, 23, sentenced to 4 to 5 years for automobile theft.

FROST FORECAST FOR SUBURBAN AREAS TONIGHT

High winds drove 10 foot waves against lake breakwaters yesterday. Along sections of the Outer dr. on the south side waves crashed over the rocks and flooded the road to depths of 3½ feet. By 4:30 p. m. water had closed the drive from Oakwood blvd. to 47th st. Traffic was rerouted west at those points.

In other sections of the city trees were blown down and underpasses were flooded.

Order Strike at G. M. Diesel Motor Plant

The United Automobile Workers [CIO], which has threatened a blockade of strikes against General Motors corporation in an attempt to force its capitulation to a 30 per cent wage increase demand, apparently launched the first of its strikes last night.

Two thousand night shift workers of the corporation's huge Electro-Motive diesel division plant in McCook, near La Grange, received instructions not to return to work after they left the plant on two staggered lunch hours beginning at 8:30 p. m.

None returned after a meeting in National hall at 3911 Prairie av., Brookfield, where leaders of local 719 told the workmen that "their strike against General Motors is on!"

Ordered on Picket Line

"Go home and get a good night's sleep and be on the picket lines at 5 a. m.," their leaders instructed them. Employes who work in the paymaster's office, boiler and power rooms were exempted from the order.

Local spokesman asserted that the walkout was precipitated by an accumulation of grievances which caused the local on Aug. 15 to vote almost unanimously to strike after the 30 day cooling off period. It received impetus, it was reported, when the company, upon learning of the strike preparation meeting, discharged the local's shop committee.

Referring to the strike vote by the diesel plant employes, union leaders said this local had complied with the procedure other UAW locals in Detroit, Mich. contemplate before a nation-wide strike is launched against the other 95 General Motor units in the United States, which employ about 325,000.

Others to Get Orders

These spokesmen urged that the diesel plant workers comport themselves in such manner as to prevent their strike from "becoming detrimental" to strike blockade plans.

Approximately 4,500 employes on the day shift, scheduled to report at 8 a. m., have been directed to report at that hour in a field near the plant for strike instructions.

New Zealand to Send 4,000 Troops to Japan

CASERTA, Italy [Reuters]—New Zealand troops will help to occupy Japan, Lt. Gen. Bernard Freyburg, commander in chief of the New Zealand expeditionary force, said today. The occupying force will be drawn from volunteers.

URGES U. S. TO LET GENERAL ALONE IN JAPAN

Calls Criticism of Him Undeserved

HONOLULU, T. H., Sept. 28 (AP)—Adm. Halsey, famed commander of the United States 3d fleet, announced today he had requested retirement.

Adm. Halsey

The picturesque admiral whose fleet sparked the drive that chased Japan's navy from the seas, told a press conference he was taking the step to give younger officers a chance. He is 13 months short of the statutory retirement age of 64.

"I'm an old man; let the young fellows take over," Halsey said, adding that the navy had not yet taken him into its confidence on whether his application had been acted upon.

[Halsey has been in active service for more than 30 years and therefore is entitled to full retirement pay. This gives him three-quarters of the base pay ($8,000) or $6,000 even if he takes a job in private industry. By retiring, however, he loses rent and subsistence allowances.]

He has no particular plans for the future, he added.

Talks Under Wraps

Then he talked on various subjects, but obviously "under wraps," because, he said, "my wife told me to be more dignified in my expressions. You don't know how much trouble I get into every time I talk."

Halsey came out for compulsory military training and reaffirmed his support of Gen. MacArthur.

"If they will leave MacArthur alone and tell him what they want, he will conduct the occupation so that Japan never will get beyond a fifth rate nation, which it now is," Halsey said.

Asked what he meant by "leaving him alone," the admiral said the newsmen surely read the newspapers and had noted "entirely undeserved criticisms of the general."

Will Counter Atom Bomb

The admiral said compulsory military training would help men physically, mentally, and morally.

"I see no reason why men who enjoy the privileges of our country should not take part in keeping it going by doing their share in military training," he added.

"The atomic bomb is pretty potent, but every weapon developed since fighting was done by throwing stones has been hailed as a weapon to end all wars. They all have been countered. I expect to see the atomic bomb countered. The doughboy and the navy always will be needed."

Halsey said he wasn't surprised by the sudden end of the war because he knew it was about over last July 10, after his 3d fleet roamed for six weeks as it pleased off the coast of Japan.

Missed Keeper of Zoo

Halsey displayed his old time form in saying that the person he most wanted to see when in Tokyo was the "keeper of the zoo," but he couldn't find him.

During one of Japan's celebrations of the mythical sinking of the United States fleet, a number of prominent military and civil officials were interviewed, Halsey said.

"One was the keeper of the zoo, who said he hoped that Halsey fellow was rescued alive from the sea because he had a special cage in the monkey house for him," the admiral said, showing his familiar wide grin.

The admiral will leave for San Francisco Oct. 9 with the fleet for Oct. 27 Navy day celebrations on the west coast.

Globester Off to Azores on 2d Leg of Flight

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Sept. 28 (AP)—Climbing from the C-54 Globester after it landed here tonight on the first leg of its round the world flight, Capt. John Ohlinger of Toledo, O., said the army transport plane flew at 9,000 feet and encountered no bad weather all the way from Washington, D. C.

The plane landed at Kindley field at 8:15 p. m. Chicago time, four hours and 15 minutes after leaving Washington national airport to inaugurate a scheduled weekly service around the globe. It took off for the Azores at 9:21, after refuelling and taking on a new relay crew headed by Capt. Roderick Elliott, with Lt. Robert Ruarch as co-pilot.

OFF IN FANFARE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28 (AP)—A great C-54 winged away from the Washington National airport today, inaugurating 'round the world flight on regular, time table basis.

The take-off marked the opening of weekly 151 hour service by the army's air transport command, over a 23,000 mile route. Flights will start each Friday, getting back to Washington the following Thursday midnight.

Eight passengers—three reporters, four ATC officers, and a war department photographer—among those aboard the big 40 passenger Douglas Skymaster will make the complete circuit.

An hour-long program, commemorating both the start of the new schedule, which ATC has named the "Globester," and the 21st anniversary of the army's first 'round the world flight, preceded the take-off. There were speeches, a band concert, and a plane christening ceremony.

Off Two Minutes Ahead of Time

The plane was off the ground at 4:58 p. m., two minutes ahead of schedule.

The only passenger aboard other than those making the whole circuit was Arthur Mayer, assistant to the chairman of the American Red Cross, who will go as far as Calcutta. About 3,000 pounds of mail and cargo went on the flight.

The giant plane officially got its name "Globester" in the ceremony before the takeoff. Mrs. Harold L. George, wife of the commanding general of the ATC, released seven colored balloons from a speaking platform at the nose of the ship to conclude the christening.

The plane, No. 49054, is a standard C-54E except for decorations on the fuselage—a yellow nose from which lightning strokes of red and narrow blue lines run back to the tail.

Not Stunt Flight

The flight is not a stunt, but the opening of a regular route for military personnel, military and diplomatic mail, and civilians certified as traveling in the national interest.

Reporters are being carried as would be done on any "first" in aviation where it could be done, but they also have agreed to act as "guinea pigs" in a test of reactions to protracted air travel at the altitudes and under the conditions to be met. No special equipment is being used.

In normal use of the route, passengers would not get aboard and fly the full way around without intermediate stops for business. Establishment of a circle route, however, provides air links between points which might not be regularly connected. This will be demonstrated during the initial trip, with passengers enplaning and deplaning at most of the 15 intermediate stops.

Army crews are being used for the full route, with about a dozen changes in crews and three changes of planes.

Trip Will Cost $2,692

The first stop is Bermuda. After refueling there the plane will continue to Santa Maria, southernmost of the Azores, and then complete the Atlantic crossing with a relatively short hop to Casablanca.

From there the route goes by way of Tripoli, Cairo, Abadan in Iran, Karachi and Calcutta in India, Luliang, which is not far from Kunming, China, Manila, Guam, Kwajalein Island, Johnston Island, Honolulu, and San Francisco, with a final nonstop flight across the continent to Washington.

CALLS FOR TAX PROGRAM AND WORK ESTIMATE

Budget Balancing Is Included

BY WILLIAM MOORE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28—Scrapping the spending theories of Commerce Secretary Wallace and the soviet constitution, the senate passed the so-called full employment bill this evening—after writing into it a provision for a balanced budget.

The vote was 71 to 10. Many of the fiercest critics of the misnamed bill [it does not guarantee jobs] were willing to vote for it on the ground that it is a relatively harmless administration fraud, now that it requires a balanced budget. However, four Democrats and six Republicans voted against it.

Provisions of Bill

The bill in brief:

1. Lays down the principles that "it is the responsibility of the federal government to foster free competitive private enterprise and the investment of private capital."

"All Americans able to work and seeking work are entitled to an opportunity for useful, remunerative, regular, and full time employment."

2. Directs that, to achieve these principles, the government shall "develop and pursue a consistent and carefully planned economic program" in coöperation with local governments and private enterprise.

3. When full employment cannot be achieved otherwise, the government shall provide investment and expenditure, consistent with other obligations and national policies, to assure full employment.

4. Directs that the President transmit to congress each January a jobs budget. This would estimate the prospective number of private and state jobs and job seekers.

Sets Up Job Study Group

With the budget, he would submit a program for any needed federal spending to provide jobs, together with a tax program designed to prevent any net increase in the national debt over a "reasonable period of years."

5. Establishes a joint congressional committee of 15 senators and 15 house members to make a "continuing study of matters relating" to the job budget.

6. Specifically prohibits: Operation of manufacturing plants by the government, compulsory measures for distribution of man power, any change in present appropriation procedures, and any appropriation for any program set up under the national budget, unless authorized by a law other than the full employment act.

Splits Administration Ranks

Administration forces, mindful of the determination of Wallace, President Truman, and the Congress of Industrial Organizations, held their ground until midafternoon under the hoarse and desperate pleas of Majority Leader Barkley [D., Ky.] not to "water down this bill."

Then from the ranks of the Democrats arose Chairman George [D., Ga.] of the finance committee. In a lecture as brief, as moderate, as it was dramatic, he smashed the administration forces wide open.

George spoke in defense of an amendment proposed by Senators Taft [R., O.] and Radcliffe [D., Md.] to require the President to submit a taxation program to finance the spending provided by the bill in case of expected unemployment, along with the spending program. This amendment meant that the budget must be balanced, not annually, but over a period of years.

Called Protection Against Theories

Taft said it was the nation's protection against the "compensatory government spending" theories of Wallace, the soviet constitution, and British financial radicals.

Sen. Murray [D., Mont.] and other sponsors of the spending bill were beaming. But it was no pot of gold at the end of the rainbow to make spending joyous and eternal that George had come to promise.

"I do not see," he said, "how any one can oppose this amendment unless he wishes to admit right now that this is a program for deficit spending. And if that is the program, then it does not make any difference what law we pass here, we're are not going to have full employment. We are going to have national bankruptcy."

Barkley, at the next desk, looked the other way as George went on: "If we are living in a world of reality, if our heads are somewhere down in that atmosphere where men have to live and move, if we have not lost all sense of reality, then there can be no just opposition to this amendment. . . .

Hits Intent of Bill

"Any man who opposes this amendment announces to the world that the whole scheme is fraudulent, and is not intended to do anything but fool the American people."

Senators have been complaining that the administration regarded the text of the bill as sacred. But Chairman Wagner [D., N. Y.] of the banking committee that brought the bill into the senate and the administration leader who had been opposing the plan proposed by Taft, spoke the words which sent even Barkley and Murray clambering aboard the band wagon:

"I accept the amendment."

The Taft proposal, anathema to the bill's sponsors and regarded by many as beaten until George spoke, was put to a roll call vote. It was adopted 52 to 0.

Defeat Two Amendments

Once they had yielded the cornerstone of their bill, the spending advocates made a comeback. They beat, 30 to 49 and 35 to 44, respectively, amendments by which Sen. Hickenlooper [R., Ia.] sought to ban government competition with private business and "avoid unnecessary governmental restrictions." Senators said the bill might have received even more votes had Hickenlooper's proposals been accepted.

Despite its name, the bill never guaranteed jobs. Much of the opposition was based on fear that Americans would be tricked into thinking it was a job guarantee rather than, as some critics said, empty political promises.

British Vicarage Seized in British Housing Crisis

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Sept. 28—Housing shortages are so serious that when the Rev. Leonard Newby, for 29 years vicar of St. Julian's church in Shrewsbury, who is retiring next week, found himself new accomodations, town authorities requisitioned his vicarage. The authorities explained they had to seize whatever houses they found empty to house needy families and could not discriminate in favor of any one, even the church.

TRUMAN GETS SENATE REBUKE FOR CRITICISM

Donnell Warns Against 'Domination'

BY PHILIP DODD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28—President Truman's first brush with congress over administration legislation resulted today in a rebuke in the senate of his declaration that the senate had let him down on unemployment compensation legislation.

Sen. Donnell

The rebuke came from a fellow Missourian, Sen. Donnell, former Republican governor of Mr. Truman's home state, who asserted in a senate speech that the senate is not subordinate to the President and warned against executive domination of congress.

The President's criticism of senate action came at a conference yesterday with Democratic members of the house ways and means committee at which Mr. Truman urged passage of the unemployment compensation bill with maximum weekly benefits of $25 for 26 weeks.

Knocks Out $25 a Week

Ignoring the President's recommendations in his message to congress, the senate last week knocked out the $25 a week provision and the house committee has refused to consider the bill.

"From the statement of the President," Donnell told the senate, "that 'the senate let him down' there follows reasonably the inference that the senate was under some obligation to the President with which the senate failed to comply. . . .

"I think it proper that the senate pause at this time to remember now and for all future time that it is not a body subordinate to the President of the United States or subject to the duty to follow his desires irrespective of the judgment of the members of the senate. . . .

"We have had in past years many illustrations of executive domination over congress. It is to be devoutly hoped that no repetition of such domination will ever again occur in our national history."

Tells of Proper Function

Donnell said it is a proper function of the President to make recommendations to congress and for congress to give them thoro consideration. "This, however, is entirely different from the view that congress owes an obligation to the President to follow his recommendations blindly," Donnell asserted.

The only obligation congress has is to the people of the United States, Donnell said. Failing to follow the opinions of the occupant of the White House does not mean the chief executive has been "let down," he declared.

Donnell concluded his speech by quoting from Washington's farewell address the warning that administrative officials of the government should confine themselves to their constitutional duties and refrain from encroaching upon the powers of other departments of government.

Jap Admiral Confined for Retaining His Sword

LONDON, Sept. 28 [Reuters]—Rear Adm. Ichiro Sato and an unnamed Japanese officer have been confined to barracks in New Guinea for breaches of orders on the surrender of arms, Melbourne radio reported tonight. A sword 12 inches long, part of the full dress uniform of a Japanese general, was found on one of the officers.

Polish Consul

Stefan M. Rogozinski, acting consul general appointed by the Polish provisional government in Warsaw, yesterday took over the Polish consulate, 49 E. Cedar st., from his predecessor, Dr. Julius Szygowski, a representative of the former provisional government in London.

Rogozinski originally was scheduled to take over the office last Monday, but Dr. Szygowski refused to admit him until Rogozinski could present his credentials from the state department. A representative of the state department accompanied Rogozinski yesterday but refused to identify himself.

As Rogozinski entered the building yesterday four men paraded in front of him carrying signs protesting his appointment. They did not say what group they represented but said they were protesting against Russian domination of the Warsaw government.

WARNS FIGHT FOR FEPC BILL WILL CONTINUE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28—Rep. Norton [D., N. J.], chairman of the house labor committee, said today the effort to get house approval of a bill to establish a fair employment practices committee will be continued, despite the failure of the proposal to date.

Mrs. Norton predicted the FEPC bill, which is supported by the CIO and a bloc of northern Democratic congressmen, will be brought to the house floor thru a discharge petition, which would require a majority [218] of members' signatures to make it effective.

The measure, approved earlier this year by the labor committee, was halted by the rules committee, which failed to clear it for house consideration.

Mrs. Norton left the capital today en route to the international labor organization's conference in Paris, but she said the move for a permanent FEPC will be carried on by other members who are in favor of it. Congress has ordered the present FEPC, operating under Presidential order, liquidated by next July 1.

GLOBAL POLICE DUTY PLANNED FOR U.S. MARINES

BY LAURENCE BURD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28—Plans to use the United States marine corps to help police the world under the world league program were disclosed today by Gen. Vandegrift, marine commandant.

Testifying before the house naval committee in support of post-war marine corps of 100,000 enlisted men and 9,200 officers, Gen. Vandegrift said that more than half of this total is to be held as "minute men" to put down any attempts to disrupt world peace.

"In the event that present efforts toward international organization to prevent war are successful, the scope of the fleet marine force will be expanded," he explained.

Mobile Force Planned

"It is a force of minute men, and it will be held in readiness to be moved instantly with the fleet to any part of the world to strike hard and promptly to forestall at its beginning any attempts to disrupt the peace of the world."

He said the planned strength of the fleet marine force for the post-war era is 59,289 officers and enlisted men, including 44,190 in the ground force and 15,099 in the air force.

"The basic navy post-war plan provides for two fleets, Atlantic and Pacific," he said. "In support of this plan, the fleet marine force will be composed of two reduced strength divisions, one brigade, and necessary supporting troops and aviation elements."

Deployment Plans Told

One division will be deployed on the east coast, one on the west coast, and one brigade in the central or western Pacific, he explained. Gen. Vandegrift said marines will provide the entire aviation complement of eight escort carriers, which will be manned by navy crews.

Discharges from the marines, which had a peak strength of 482,500 on V-J day, should reduce the corps to its planned post-war strength of 109,200 by Sept. 1, Gen. Vandegrift said.

The marine corps reported today that discharges up to Sept. 21 totaled 6,286, including 1,200 returned from overseas. It predicted that a rate of 8,000 releases a week will be reached next week under its point system.

Officials said the slowness of releases to date is largely explained by the fact that most marine units were en route to new assignments in the Pacific when the point system was announced Aug. 15.

Plan Nobel Peace Award First Time in Five Years

Marine Recruiter

MAJ. ELBERT. D. GRAVES

Col. Chester L. Fordney, in charge of the marine corps central procurement division, said yesterday that starting today the marine corps will accept enlistments for a three year period instead of the previous four year term. He said men from 17 to 25 years of age will be accepted for the three year term and men of 26 to 32 if they have had previous military service. He announced that Maj. Elbert D. Graves of Solsberry, Ind., has been named officer in charge of the Chicago recruiting district.

ARMY WAR BOND OFFICE TO MOVE FROM CHICAGO

Army officers will meet next week in St. Louis, Mo., to allocate space in the old St. Louis ordnance plant, built by the Defense Plant corporation, to the army war bond office and other army installations now located in Chicago, an army spokesman said yesterday.

Removal of the army war bond office at 366 N. Adams st., located here since April 1, 1943, is expected to take place next month. A thousand employes of this office have been offered jobs in St. Louis if they care to move there and another 1,000 employes of other army offices which will be moved also have been offered jobs.

The St. Louis ordnance plant has 3,600,000 square feet of floor space. Several army offices in the nation will be moved there to centralize their activities, it was learned.

Slayer, 15, Faces Sentence of 10 ot 20 Years in Prison

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Sept. 28 (AP)—Jed Howells, 15, was convicted of second degree murder today by a jury in the slaying last month of Willard Frey, 44, and faced a sentence of 10 to 20 years' imprisonment. Howells testified he was hunting crows and that he shot Frey three times after the latter had molested him. He said Frey had knocked him down and kicked him when he resisted the man's advances.

BRITISH REJOICE AT RESIGNATION OF FEA DIRECTOR

BY WALTER TROHAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28—Word that the British are rejoicing over the resignation of Leo T. Crowley, the man who turned off the 42 billion dollar lend-lease faucet, was received in the capital today with misgivings.

In London the retirement of Crowley, head of the foreign economic administration, which controled the lend-lease pipe line, was acclaimed as the greatest event since V-E day.

The British press and radio characterized Crowley as the evil genius who is withholding the grant of billions of American dollars to Britain. The rejoicing was mixed with some concern that Crowley would carry to congress his fight to keep American dollars at home.

Termed Power Behind Throne

Crowley was described in editorials in the London press as the power behind the throne against Britain on the matter of that nation's request for a gift of 3 to 6 billion dollars for post-war rehabilitation and economic revival.

It was said he is the one man who has prevented America from being as generous as America would like to be toward Britain. It was said Crowley had lost his behind the scenes fight to prevent the flow of money to Britain.

Fears were expressed, however, that he would not rest after his unsuccessful fight in the executive branch of the government but that he would appeal to congress in his determination to thwart Britain.

Congressmen Concerned

Reaction of the British press and radio was reported in the capital in radio broadcasts. Crowley declined to comment on the reports, but members of congress expressed concern that his resignation should be regarded as a British triumph.

Crowley reportedly had opposed extensive grants to Britain during the current negotiations between American and British fiscal experts on the request for billions. In sitting in on the conferences Crowley did not oppose all help from Britain, but insisted that any aid be given in the form of an interest paying loan.

In these negotiations Crowley has been one of the leaders of a group which has insisted that Great Britain must scale down its sterling debt, revamp trade restrictions, and make other concessions before receiving even an interest bearing loan.

26 NATIONS TAKE ACTION TO RATIFY UNITED NATIONS PACT

LONDON, Sept. 28 (AP)—Edward R. Stettinius Jr., head of the United States delegation to the united nations preparatory commission, announced tonight that 26 nations have taken action to ratify the San Francisco charter.

Seven—Argentina, Brazil, the Dominican republic, France, Nicaragua, the United States, and New Zealand—have deposited their ratifications in Washington, he said at a meeting of the commission. Twenty-nine ratifications must be received in Washington before the united nations organization becomes effective.

A step toward regulating international armaments was taken when a subcommittee drafting the tentative agenda for the first general assembly of the united nations world security league gave top priority to the job of creating a security council. The assembly will meet here in early December.

French Baby Deaths Rise to 75 a Thousand Yearly

PARIS, Sept. 28 [Reuters]—Forty thousand French children under the age of 1 are dying each year, an annual rate of 75 a thousand as against 63 a thousand in 1939, and the death rate from tuberculosis has increased 10 per cent in certain age groups, the latest statistics disclose. To deal with the situation Health Minister Francois Billoux is studying the possibility of nationalizing all hospitals.

LAKES' LAST SUB ARRIVES TODAY; OPEN TOMORROW

Public inspection tours of the submarine Mero, last such craft to be built on the Great Lakes—at Manitowoc, Wis.—will begin tomorrow. The ship is due in Chicago today from Detroit, Mich., will dock at the Tribune parking lot east of the Michigan av. bridge. The sub will be illuminated by THE TRIBUNE.

Barrett Wendell, president of the Chicago council of the Navy league, which is sponsoring the eight days of public inspection of the sub, said that more than 2,000 of the 6,000 available tickets have been distributed. Tours of the ship will begin tomorrow. Tickets may be obtained free at the Victory center in the Marshall Field & Co. 1600 store.

The submarine is 311 feet long and displaces 1,500 tons. It is completely equipped for battle service but was completed too late for use in the Pacific war. More than half the crew of 81 are veterans of the Pacific.

Report British to Scrap Big Ships Over A-Bomb

LONDON, Sept. 29 (Saturday) (AP)—The Daily Sketch said today that as the result of the atom bomb the British navy has decided to scrap giant battleships in favor of a large fleet of small, heavily armed craft with a long operational range.

HAILS TRIBUNE AS CHAMPION OF FREE PRESS

Editor Thanks McCormick for His Help

New York, Sept. 28 [Special]—THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and its editor and publisher, Col. Robert R. McCormick, were hailed today in a message in Editor and Publisher for championing the cause of freedom of the press.

The message in the newspaper trade magazine was signed by William Prescott Allen, publisher of the Laredo [Tex.] Times. It was contained in an advertisment addressed to Col. McCormick and headed: "Thank you!" It said in part:

"Your Chicago Tribune story of Aug. 6 concerning the political conspiracy of the politicians with the Rotary club was the main factor in bringing about a settlement of all civil suits by this group against William Prescott Allen and the Laredo Times."

Tells of Probe

THE TRIBUNE story told of an investigation being made by the justice department in Washington, D. C., into a reported collusive attempt by means of libel suits to put the Laredo Times out of business and to drive Allen out of Laredo. Forty libel suits for $10,000 each, in addition to criminal charges, were filed against Allen.

The conspiracy, as described by Allen, grew out of a series of editorials and articles in his paper denouncing the Laredo Rotary club for its efforts to collect loans advanced to soldiers from the club's student aid fund.

One of the articles included a letter of reproach from a mother whose son had died on Guadalcanal. She enclosed $60 for repayment of a loan advanced the soldier, for which he was being dunned at the time of his death.

Settled Out of Court

The American Civil Liberties union supported Allen, asserting the evidence indicated a "clear conspiracy to force the sale of his paper to his political opponents."

Following the publicity given the case, the libel suits were settled out of court Sept. 13. Allen agreed to pay $3,500 to settle legal costs incurred by the plaintiffs.

A conviction on charges of criminal libel was obtained against Allen, but will come up for a rehearing Oct. 3 in Austin, Tex., on an appeal. "We are asking the coöperation of all news services and all publishers in this case," Allen's message in Editor and Publisher said.

The Laredo Times has a circulation of 15,000, of which 3,500 is in Mexico. Laredo has a population of 40,000, approximately 90 per cent of it Mexican.

ELLIOTT ENJOYS RENT FREE HOME ON WEST COAST

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 28 [Special]—Elliott Roosevelt, who has enjoyed many extraordinary bounties as the son of President Roosevelt, has been living rent free since last May in the Beverly Hills home of Grenville W. Stratton, wealthy industrialist and race horse owner, it was disclosed today.

Elliott's movie actress wife, Faye Emerson, has been living there with him, according to a deposition filed in Superior court by Stratton, who was replying to his wife's mention of the incident in her suit for separate maintenance.

Mrs. Cora Stratton, 65, cited the Roosevelts' free occupancy of the residence as an example of her husband's waste of family assets while refusing to pay her hospital bills of $11,000.

"Merely Guests" Since May

In his deposition, Stratton admitted the Roosevelts had occupied his residence since last spring but insisted they were merely guests. He revealed he had moved his own furniture out so the Roosevelts could move theirs in. He conceded, under questioning in making the deposition, that there were no financial obligations on either side.

Stratton said he invited the late President's son and his wife to live at his place while Mrs. Stratton was away. Nothing was said, he disclosed, about how long the couple was to occupy the house free of charge.

Mrs. Stratton has been ill in a hospital for more than a year. Her estranged husband denied that she is without funds for her support.

Elliott retired from the army as a brigadier general on Aug. 15 and recently has been under congressional scrutiny as a result of his heavy borrowings. It was disclosed that in the period since his father first entered the White House he had garnered more than $1,175,000 in loans, salaries, and commissions.

Elliott admitted he had borrowed more than $600,000 to finance a Texas radio network. The congressional inquiry was concerned mainly with his loan of $200,000 from John Hartford, president of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, which was made after a telephone conversation between Hartford and President Roosevelt. The debt was settled at 2 cents on the dollar and was paid by Jesse Jones when he was secretary of commerce.

The names of Elliott and Stratton were linked as far back as 1934 when they assertedly were involved in a scheme in which the President's son was to get $500,000 for the sale of 50 military planes to Russia thru Anthony Fokker, Dutch airplane manufacturer.

Russians Meet Elliott

In a communication to Herbert A. Reed, associate of Fokker and the man who signed a contract with Elliott for his commissions, Elliott referred to his conversation with Stratton about the agreement and said he was sending his note to Reed by Stratton.

In an affidavit, Reed told of Stratton meeting a delegation of Russian engineers on their arrival in Los Angeles and taking them to the Lockheed plant, where they met Elliott.

It was reported some months ago that Elliott shipped his Arabian horses from Texas to California, where they were said to have been quartered on Stratton's ranch.

Stratton, now 60, once was in the automobile business in Chicago with a Harry Newman. For five years before the war he was sales executive for the Douglas Aircraft company. At one time he was president of the new defunct Douglas Oil and Refining company, with which Donald Douglas of Douglas Aircraft was connected.

Stratton's recent business investments include Conners-Joyce, a catalog compiling firm, and High Standard company, manufacturer of windshield wipers and miscellaneous small auto parts.

NAMES GOVERNOR OF RHODE ISLAND SOLICITOR GENERAL

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28 (AP)—President Truman today nominated Gov. J. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island for solicitor general, the No. 2 job in the justice department. Only the attorney general will outrank him.

J. H. McGrath

Swift senate confirmation is expected for the 42 year old, three-time governor who was reelected in 1944 by the largest plurality ever given a Rhode Island candidate. He is a Democrat.

McGrath, who spent seven years as a United States district attorney, would succeed Charles Fahy, who resigned.

McGrath said at Providence, R. I., that the appointment "comes to me suddenly and quite unexpectedly."

FEAR IS WEAPON OF COMMUNISTS, DE MILLE WARNS

Fear of subversive elements in labor unions is one of the greatest dangers to the preservation of individual freedom, Cecil B. de Mille, pioneer motion picture producer, warned members of the Executives' club of Chicago at their meeting yesterday in the Hotel Sherman ballroom.

Already, he charged, communistic leaders within unions have implanted fear in congress, in state legislatures and in the courts.

"They think you will remain on the defensive," De Mille said. "That will give them the opportunity to pick you one at a time. You must not be terrorized. You must stand up and be counted."

"I need not tell you business men what communism is or of its infiltration into labor unions," he said. "The ownership of your business, your own individual freedom, the successful functioning of our government are threatened by the monopolistic and un-American leaders in certain unions."

Opens Home to Yanks; Now He's Divorced

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Sept. 28—A Briton who threw open his home on Sunday evenings to American officers because his wife was joint secretary of the Association for Promoting Good Will Between Britons and Americans, was granted a divorce today on the grounds of his wife's adultery. The suit of D. R. Hardman named Capt. Nelson Briggs Jack, an army surgeon stationed near Cambridge. Mrs. Hardman, who admitted being with Jack, said she wanted to marry him and go to America.

GEORGE BARRETT OPENS DRIVE FOR VETERAN BONUS

Regarded as Aspirant for Governor in '48

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Atty. Gen. George F. Barrett last night opened a campaign for immediate payment of a state bonus to veterans of World War II. Petition forms were mailed thruout the state so that citizens may join in what Barrett said was a movement to give veterans a "new start in life."

Barrett's action left no doubt to observers that he intends to run for governor in 1948, even if Gov. Green decides to seek a third term. Next spring, therefore, will see preliminary battles over the Republican nominations for state treasurer and possibly for superintendent of public instruction and congressman at large.

Green Shelves Bonus Bills

Gov. Green's forces, in coöperation with many Democrats, shelved various bonus proposals during the 1945 legislative session. A commission appointed to study the problem will have its first meeting Oct. 3. The next regular session of the legislature starts January, 1947.

Atty. Gen. Barrett demanded the immediate calling of a special session to enact an Illinois soldiers' bonus. Gov. Green, the only official with power to call a special session, told reporters last week that he knew of no pressing need for one.

"We cannot and we must not fail our returning service men and women," the attorney general said in a speech delivered last night before Chicago chapter No. 2 of the Disabled American Veterans at 185 W. Madison st.

Asserts People Favor Bonus

"The people of this state want the Illinois veterans treated generously. In my judgment, the overwhelming majority of Illinoisans favor payment of an Illinois soldiers' bonus, not as an act of charity, but as a token of heartfelt gratitude for services well and honorably performed."

Barrett urged that any veteran or other interested person write to him for petition forms. When signed by thousands of citizens, these will present a mighty demand for action at once, he said.

Asked whether he proposed using the state's 142 million dollar surplus, now earmarked for public works, to pay the bonus, Barrett replied that the legislature must decide.

BONG'S WIDOW SAYS MAJOR NOT FORCED TO FLY

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 28 (AP)—Maj. Richard Bong, Pacific air ace who crashed to his death Aug. 6 in a jet-propelled Lockheed P-80 fighter plane, was flying as test pilot for the new type ships by his own choice, his widow, Mrs. Marjorie Vattendahl Bong, said today.

"He said he wanted to see what the boys overseas were getting," she explained.

Mrs. Bong confirmed a statement by former Secretary of War Stimson that Maj. Bong knew that he was eligible for less hazardous duty or discharge from the army, as holder of the congressional medal of honor. In a letter to Sen. Wiley [R., Wis.] the former war secretary said Bong had "eagerly sought" to test the plane because he intended to accept a postwar position with the Lockheed Aircraft company.

Italy to Try 'Axis Sally' Today for Aiding Nazis

ROME, Sept. 28 (AP)—The trial of Rita Zucca, 33, accused of making "Axis Sally" broadcasts during the war, is scheduled to open before an Italian miltary tribunal tomorrow. She is charged with intelligence with the enemy. The native of New York was arrested at Turin June 5 following the allied sweep into northern Italy. Allied authorities turned her over to the Italian court after investigation showed she was of Italian citizenship.

DAILY NEW YORK SHOWERS HAVE A SILVER LINING

New York, Sept. 28 (AP)—Every day it rains pennies from heaven—and nickels, dimes, and quarters, too—on 51st st. at Rockefeller Center.

A mysterious philanthropist has been throwing between $7 and $10 in change from the 15th or 16th floor of the International building each day between 12:30 and 1 p. m. The showers have been coming down since sometime in July.

Today was no exception. A crowd of about 100 was on hand, including Joseph Walker, 57, Negro doorman at a nearby club, who said he averaged at least 50 cents a day.

Some passers-by were worried about being struck by the coins, but Walker said: "Let 'em keep coming. They can hit me all they want to."

Glacier in Iceland Again Erupts Fire and Smoke

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Sept. 28 (AP)—Smoke and flame again are spewing up thru the Vatnajoekull glacier. The spectacle, which occurs at intervals of from five to 10 years, is caused by frost and fire, as volcanic action develops under the glacier. When the glacier has melted for a number of days the ice on the surface becomes thin enough for the fire to escape and the eruption becomes visible.

FIREMEN TAKE RUN TO BLAZE NEAR OWN DOOR

Firemen of engine company 13 of 209 N. Dearborn st. went on their shortest fire run yesterday. When the alarm came in the station's engine, truck, and rescue squad car pulled out—but not too fast. The fire was next door at 207 N. Dearborn st. at the Dearborn-Lake garage at 207 N. Dearborn. The three fire units stopped a few feet from the fire house, the firemen dashed into the garage, and in a few minutes extinguished a small fire in a gasoline pump. Then they drove back to the fire station. Time from departure to return: 11 minutes.

COAL OPERATORS SPURN LEWIS BID TO STRIKE TALKS

Demand Foremen Return to Work First

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28 (AP)—The possibility of a walkout by the 400,000 United Mine Workers led by John L. Lewis broke tonight on a strike harried government.

Soft coal mine operators rejected Lewis' invitation to a showdown parley here Monday on a mine foremen's dispute, saying they would talk only if the UMW chief ordered 36,000 striking miners back to work.

Lewis' request for a conference read like a summons and warned that the operators' failure to accept would free the UMW to "take such independent action as may be required."

This was not a specific strike threat, but Ezra Van Horn, chairman of the operators' negotiating committee, in Cleveland, termed it an "implied threat to call the miners of the country out on strike directly."

NLRB Voices Concern

Labor department officials had no immediate comment on the development in UMW's efforts to gain recognition of the foremen's union. UMW headquarters was silent on the Van Horn reply.

Officials of the national labor relations board voiced concern, however, lest Lewis call for another federal strike poll of his soft coal miners. It would cost $200,000 and tie up other NLRB activity, as did last spring's UMW vote.

Upon return to work of the men already on strike, Van Horn said, the operators would sit down immediately with Lewis.

"You have been and are now engaged in an attempt to rob the employers of every vestige of control of their operations of properties," Van Horn's telegram said.

Earlier, a UMW spokesman cautioned reporters "not to read too much" into the warning issued by the union's leader, but the dispute already had closed 79 mines in Pennsylvania and West Virginia, contributing almost one-tenth to the nation's total of 412,777 men idle in strikes and shutdowns.

CIO Leader Booed

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 28 (AP)—Strikers of the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel company left a mass meeting tonight, at which President R. J. Thomas of the UAW-CIO was booed into silence, without making a decision whether to return to their jobs.

Nearly 2,000 members of the CIO United Automobile Workers crowded a high school auditorium to hear back-to-work pleas from Thomas and other high union officers. For a time bedlam reigned.

When Thomas took the floor, boos broke out almost immediately and he was unable to make himself heard.

As the booing grew in intensity, men and women in the audience rose to their feet and began parading in the aisles. Some came down to the edge of the speakers' platform and gestured with their hats in an effort to silence Thomas' further attempts to speak.

46,000 Textile Workers Out

Newark, N. J., Sept. 28 (AP)—An estimated 46,000 CIO workers seeking a 15 cents an hour wage increase in the textile printing and dyeing industry were on strike today, closing down more than 200 plants and shops in six eastern states.

Print and dye workers in New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina joined today in the walkout which started yesterday as 6,000 workers in 70 Paterson [N. J.] area plants left their jobs.

An additional 16,000 employes in Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island who were expected to join the walkout failed to do so.

DEWEY ORDERS N. Y. ELEVATOR STRIKE ENDED

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Sept. 28 (AP)—Gov. Dewey tonight ordered building owners and union officials to restore elevator service in New York City buildings by Monday morning and to begin arbitration or he would appoint an arbitrator himself.

The failure of federal and municipal agencies to settle differences between landlords and operators necessitated his action, he said. "The well-being of our state is in jeopardy and the situation is wholly intolerable," he added.

In telegrams to realty and union officials, Dewey said his arbitrator, if it became necessary for him to name one, would be directed "to proceed immediately with hearings and to hand down his findings and award within 10 days."

Cable Is a Landing Field

REVEAL PLANES AT IWO LANDED BY TROLLEY WIRE

'Grasshoppers' Took Off Same Way

Dayton, O., Sept. 28 (AP)—Artillery spotting planes took off and landed by an overhead "trolley wire" off Iwo, while others of the army's grasshopper fleet made use of the same strange device in jungles of the China-Burma-India theater during the last stages of the war, the air technical service command disclosed today.

By use of the plan—known as the Brodie system, after its inventor, Capt. James H. Brodie of New Orleans, La., the wheels of a plane need never touch the ground except for refueling, overhaul, or parking.

For their work in developing the system, Brodie and Flight Officer Raymond A. Gregory of Cleveland, O., 23, a test pilot, were awarded the army's legion of merit. Both were artillery men at Fort Sill, Okla., when they conceived the idea.

Elevated Runway

The overhead trolley arrangement in reality becomes an elevated runway, materially easing the problem of clearance over near-by trees or other obstructions.

Modifications—such as those employed off Iwo—permit use of the system aboard cargo or landing ships.

The apparatus consists of a loop of steel and nylon suspended from a taut, 500 foot length of cable, held horizontally in place by "stretchers" from four 65 foot poles or masts.

A light plane, making its approach at just above stalling speed, snags the loop with a 25 pound overhead hook. A friction-brake gradually halts the plane as it rolls down the wire.

"Any pilot capable of handling a plane in normal flight can land and take off from the rig with a minimum of training," commented Gregory as he completed the first public demonstration of the system.

Suspended in Air

For takeoffs, the plane suspended 60 feet in the air, begins to move after its engine is sufficiently "revved up." When enough power is attained, the pilot yanks a lanyard, releasing the plane.

An emergency release functions if the plane is not free from the takeoff sling and trolley before the end of the cableway is reached. This allows the plane to fly free, taking the takeoff sling with it.

Davits at the main cable's end support a rigger whose job it is to prepare the sling and connect or disconnect the plane hook and trolley.

All equipment and a nine man crew can be carried in cargo planes and landed by parachute. With only hand-operated tools and tackle, the rig has been set in place in far less than 24 hours.

130 to End CIO Strike in 2 Auto Parts Plants

One hundred thirty employes on strike since Sept. 10 in two plants of Clawson & Bals, automotive parts makers at 2508 Michigan av. and 4701 Lake st., have agreed to return to work Monday. Neither the com- union [CIO], to which most of the pany nor the United Steelworkers' strikers belong, would divulge the terms of the settlement.

MacARTHUR ORDERS JAPAN'S GOVERNMENT TO END CENSORSHIP

TOKYO, Sept. 29 [Saturday]—(AP)—Gen. MacArthur, in the strongest action he has taken against the Japanese goverment, today ordered it to immediately cease all efforts to censor, suppress, or control all forms of public opinion whether spoken or written.

MacArthur acted within a few hours after the home ministry had seized all copies of newspapers publishing accounts by American correspondents of interviews with Emperor Hirohito. The government acted on the pretext that the interview contents "would have a bad effect on the Japanese people."

Thru his civilian censorship section, MacArthur directed:

"The Japanese government forthwith will render inoperative procedures for enforcement of peace time and war time restrictions of freedom of press and communication."

RADIO ENGINEERS AND TWO CHAINS SIGN WAGE PACT

New York, Sept. 28 (AP)—The National and American Broadcasting companies and the National Association of Broadcast Engineers, an independent union, today signed an agreement providing salary increases and graduated pay scales based on periods of service of from one to six years.

The new contract is retroactive to Sept. 1, 1944, and will continue in effect until May 1, 1947. It provides overtime pay based on an eight hour day, rather than a 40 hour week.

MONTREAL MEAT STORES REOPEN AS STRIKE ENDS

BY FRANK HUGHES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 28—Montreal's anti-meat ration strike ended early today. Striking butchers were frightened off, their leaders said, by yesterday's rioting in which three policemen were injured and 78 strikers arrested.

Mayor Blames Communists

Camillien Houde, mayor of Montreal, blamed "subversive elements"—obviously Communists, altho he did not name them—for inciting riot by the city's labor population.

Today every butcher in the city sold meat without intimidation for the first time in four days. At Eaton's department store, scene of a strike riot yesterday, meat counters were doing a big business selling 2¼ pound porterhouse and tenderloin steaks at 56 cents a pound plus one coupon. Ninety-nine per cent of the shoppers were women.

Ask Voluntary Rationing

The Food Distributors' association of Quebec, which is said to represent 800 independent butchers, today asked the war prices and trade board to permit voluntary meat rationing for a trial period of two or three months. The proposal will be discussed in Ottawa with government officials Wednesday. Meantime, association members have voted to keep their meat shops open.

In Alberta 5,000 miners who quit work Wednesday demanding double meat rations for themselves, remained on strike. They are members of the United Mine Workers. The miners contend they cannot dig coal on the meat ration of 1¾ pounds a week.

$5,000,000,000 IS SET AS CANADA'S NEED FOR YEAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 28—Requirements of the federal government for the fiscal year 1945-'46, which will end on March 31, 1946, will amount to more than $5,000,000,000, J. L. Ilsley, minister of finance, told commons today.

War appropriations, including mutual aid to United Nations up to the end of the war, will cost $3,365,000,000, he said. These, together with war service gratuities to veterans and rehabilitation costs, and more than $1,000,000,000 in civilian expenditures, will bring the total to about $4,700,000,000. The difference between that and $5,000,000,000, he said, will result from cash requirements of the foreign exchange control board.

Ilsley said that in the 12 months from November 1, 1945, it would be necessary to spend some $4,000,000,000, of which $2,000,000,000 will be borrowed. "This will include hundreds of millions," he said, "for loans to allied nations for supplies from Canada. The government will ask parliament for authority to make the loans."

Appeal of Conviction Filed for Lord Haw Haw

LONDON, Sept. 28 [Reuters]—Notice of appeal against the conviction and sentence of death passed on William Joyce, "Lord Haw Haw," who broadcast for the Germans, was given today by the solicitors acting for him. Joyce, who was convicted for high treason, will be represented by the same counsel who defended him at his trial.

"Frankly, I think you're moving in too soon."

SCHWELLENBACH OIL CONFERENCE SET FOR TODAY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28 (AP)—Hard work confronted Labor Secretary Schwellenbach in tomorrow's oil conference testing the government policy of persuasion for handling reconversion labor disputes. The new secretary, hoping to avoid seizing oil properties to get the 35,100 CIO unionists back on the job, will open a conciliation conference at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

The union has threatened to expand its strike and claims 250,000 oil workers would be off their jobs if negotiations fail. Strikers are demanding a 30 per cent wage rate increase.

Before leaving Chicago where the conciliation was deadlocked for three days, two government conciliators said they were "hopeful" the impasse would be broken in Washington.

The union president, O. A. Knight of Fort Worth, Tex., said in a statement "no military or naval operations will be hindered for lack of oil if the companies will coöperate with our efforts to provide it."

VOICE ON NAZIS, JAPS ASKED FOR WORLD UNIONS

PARIS, Sept. 28 [Reuters]—The international trade union conference in Paris today heard demands that world labor be represented in the councils of the nations.

Sidney Hillman, leader of the American CIO delegation, offered a resolution that the new world federation of labor, which the conference was called to launch, request representation in an advisory capacity on the allied control commissions in both Europe and Japan. It also proposed that the federation send investigating committees into the occupation zones to study conditions to see if the allied decisions are being carried out.

Hillman charged that American "big business" in the occupation zones of Europe was tending to preserve Germany's industrial power to make war.

U. S. RETURNS 11 TRUCKING LINES SEIZED ON OCT. 12

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28 (AP)—The office of defense transportation today terminated government possession of 11 midwest truck lines.

Those released were A. G. Henneman Transfer, Bloomer, Wis.; Brashear Freight Lines, St. Louis, Mo.; Midwest Express, Bismarck, N. D.; Buckingham Transportation company, Rapid City, S. D., Frank H. Prucka Transportation company, and Red Ball Transfer company, Omaha, Neb.; Lee Cartage company, St. Paul, Minn.; United Shipping company and Tri-State Transfer company, Minneapolis, Minn.; Dairy Dispatch company, Dubuque, Ia., and the McCoy Trucklines, Waterloo, Ia.

These companies were among 103 seized by the government last Oct. 12 when labor disturbances threatened to suspend truck transportation in the midwest. Thirty-eight others previously had been returned to private operation.

PROTEST USE OF INDIANS TO NIP FREEDOM ACTION

LONDON, Sept. 28 (AP)—The India league charged in a protest to Prime Minister Attlee tonight that Indian troops were being used against the people of Indo-China, Malaya, and other liberated Asiatic territories to suppress national independence endeavors.

V. K. Krishna Nenon, league secretary, declared the use of Indians against peaceful peoples is "not only inflicting a further humiliation upon us, but makes a mockery of the proclaimed purposes, both of the war in the far east and of the united nations.

"The Indian people have no quarrel with the peoples of Malaya, Indo-China, or Indonesia, but on the other hand have every sympathy and a feeling of solidarity with these peoples, striving to liberate themselves from imperialism as we ourselves desire and strive to do."

TUOHY AID HALTS DUAL PICKETING BY RIVAL UNIONS

The pickets of two rival AFL unions that claim jurisdiction over two watchmen of the Lanzit Corrugated Box company, 2425 S. Rockwell st., were chased away by state's attorney's police yesterday. Capt. Daniel Gilbert, chief investigator for State's Atty. Tuohy, ordered leaders of the AFL unions to report at his office today for questioning about the two picket lines maintained at the plant since Sept. 4.

"I will not allow these two unions to let their dispute interfere with the business of an employer who is not involved in their argument," Capt. Gilbert said after having the picket lines disbanded.

Two Unions Claim Watchmen

The Lanzit company has a contract with the Ace Detective-Patrol service, 2341 S. Leavitt st., which provides the two watchmen for the premises. The detective-patrol service has a union contract with local 21485, a federal local of the AFL.

Another AFL union, local 73 of the Building Service Employes International union, claims the watchmen belong to that organization.

"The AFL is definitely at fault for allowing two union charters covering watchmen to exist in Chicago," Capt. Gilbert said. "I received a promise from Harry O'Reilly, regional director of the AFL, who is in charge of federal AFL unions, that he would recommend that local 21485's charter be revoked.

Pledges to Halt "Racket"

"I have informed O'Reilly and other AFL officials that local 21485 has been operated strictly as a racket.

"I have information that the president of this union collected sums varying from $50 to several hundred dollars from the Central Watch service, altho the local had never signed up any of the 500 watchmen employed by that company. If the AFL thinks that I am going to let this kind of racket continue any longer it is mistaken."

RAILS BRING GAS TO REDUCE LOSS DUE TO STRIKE

Gasoline to keep Chicago's automobiles and industries running was arriving by tank car yesterday as major oil companies tried to replenish supplies running low as the strike of Oil Workers' International union [CIO] in north Indiana refineries neared the end of its second week.

The Gasoline Retailers' association reported that all filling stations were open, altho the supply in bulk stations had been reported sufficient for only two weeks.

As federal conciliators, OWIU representatives, and oil company executives left for Washington, D. C., to continue mediation talks today after they bogged down here, there were varying opinions as to the success the talks might have under the eyes of Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach and Edgar L. Warren, head of the conciliation service.

1,490,000 YANKS TO QUIT PACIFIC BY NEXT APRIL

120,000 Will Came Back Next Month

TOKYO, Sept. 28 (AP)—The allied command embarked today on a program to get 1,490,000 Pacific veterans home within seven months.

An announcement by MacArthur's headquarters said the war department had advised that shipping would be available to return troops to America at a rate begining with 120,000 in October and rising to 280,000 in April.

Monthly estimates for the return of troops are: October, 120,000; November, 150,000; December, 185,000; January, 270,000; February, 240,000; March, 245,000, and April, 280,000.

43d on Way Home

The 43d division, relieved of occupation duties, already is loading at Yokohama for the homeward voyage.

The 31st division will leave the Philippines Oct. 31, the 38th Nov. 1, and the bulk of the 37th division, part of which already is home, on Nov. 15.

A new schedule of landings was announced which will place 265,000 American troops on Japanese soil by October's end.

American control over Japan's inland sea will be extended Oct. 3 to the Kure area, when the 41st division moves into that former naval base. The 32d division will join marines at the western naval base of Sasebo Oct. 15.

Japs Can't Come Home

The 77th division will move into the Island of Hokkaido Oct. 5. The industrial cities of Nagoya and Osaka, southwest of Tokyo, will be occupied before the end of October by the 25th and 6th infantry division, respectively.

On the Chinese mainland, the 1st marines, now at Tientsin, will send units into the port of Tsingtao Oct. 10. The army 96th and 20th divisions will move into southern Korea.

Japanese hopes for early return home of their huge armies abroad were exploded by MacArthur's "no" on the use of shipping, altho his subordinates in southern Korea announced that Japanese troops there would be shipped home at the rate of 4,000 daily, using ferries.

Orders Health Survey

Domei agency admitted that the 6,300,000 tons of shipping with which Japan entered the war had shrunk to only 300 vessels totaling 580,000 seaworthy tons. Yet the Japanese had requested the use of nearly half of these ships—260,000 tons—for the return of their soldiers. The Japanese were bluntly informed that the shipping could not be spared. Only passenger ships unsuitable as cargo vessels can be used for repatriation.

With Japan's millions needing food and clothing in the bitter winter ahead, MacArthur prohibited the use of ships for trips by Japanese officials.

A health survey was ordered for all Japan, in many prefectures of which contagious and deplorable health conditions have been reported, particularly in northern Honshu. The Japs were ordered to immunize civilians in districts where disease threatens and to make weekly reports on the incidence of communicable disease. Port quarantine controls were established.

Socialists Organizing

The Japanese announced that in an attempt at liberalizing their homeland a new Socialist party and a federation of labor were being reorganized. Domei said a preparatory committee met today to begin organization of the new Socialist party. Two of its leaders, Komakichi Matsuoka and Suehiro Nishio, are leading the movement to revive the federation of labor.

Toyohiko Kagawa, Christian social worker, headed the new Socialist labor party, which is reported calling for the elimination of capitalism.

Domei reported Japan's seamen's union planned its formal inauguration Oct. 5 at Osaka. Tokyo's street car and bus employes were said to be reorganizing. Nearly 500,000 employes of the government owned railways will form a separate association.

Gen. MacArthur announced an order for the seizure of 34 Japanese officers and men suspected of complicity in the fiendish torch massacre of more than 100 allied prisoners of war at Palawan in the Philippines Dec. 11, 1944.

The prisoners, many of them Americans, were driven by their captors into a large air raid shelter. Buckets of gasoline and lighted torches were hurled in after them. A few who escaped the inferno were mowed down by machine gun fire or hand grenades, or were bayoneted by the Nipponese.

FRENCH CHARGE JAPS ARM NATIVE SAIGON RIOTERS

Yanks Act; Guard the Refugees

SINGAPORE, Sept. 27 [Delayed]—(AP)—Maj. Gen. D. D. Gracey, British commander of allied forces in southern Indo-China, reported today that the riotous native uprisings in Saigon had subsided somewhat but the senior French officer there accused the Japanese of supplying arms to the natives and with participating in the disorders in disguise.

Gracey issued orders to Field Marshal Count Juichi Terauchi, commander of the Japanese southern armies, to keep the peace. [The New Delhi radio said Terauchi had been arrested by the British.]

Some American army personnel took a hand in the situation. Fifteen army transport command soldiers stood guard with tommyguns all night Monday at the Continental Palace hotel, where several hundred French men, women, and children took refuge.

The Americans—ordered to shoot defensively only—acted after American officers had been fired at on three occasions Monday.

Lt. Col. A. Peter Dewey of Washington, D. C., was shot fatally Wednesday by Annamese who later said they thought the jeep in which he was riding was French.

Dewey carried an American flag on the jeep until recently, when he ceased at the request of the British, who preferred that Americans not fly the flag since protocal permitted only general officers that privilege. It was suggested that the flag be painted on jeeps but the Americans refused because they said it could not be seen.

Admits Japs Supplied Arms

The Japanese, who have kept their weapons altho their country has surrendered, were accused of instigating the Annamese uprising. Lt. Gen. Takazo Numata, chief of staff and spokesman for Terauchi, conceded that Nipponese soldiers had supplied arms to the Annamese after Japan's surrender.

The French, however, credited Japanese guards with preventing the natives from attacking and killing most of the 20,000 French in Saigon, a city of 600,000 population.

Col. H. J. Cedile, highest ranking French officer here, said the Annamese rioted against the French Sept. 2, killing five, including an elderly priest. From then until the British arrived Sept. 12, there were only 25 Frenchmen who had arms—American carbines—and they depended upon the Japanese for protection from the threatening natives.

Cedile asserted that Japanese soldiers had furnished the Annamese with mortars, light machine guns, rifles, and grenades, had taught the natives how to use them, and in some cases had deserted the army, posed as natives, and participated in the fighting.

REPORT CHIANG, REDS AGREE ON UNIFYING CHINA

LONDON, Sept. 28 (AP)—The Moscow radio said today that a central unified government would be created for the whole of China under an agreement reached between Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and Mao Tse-tung, communist leader. Moscow said the new government would contain wider political representation and that an early election would be held thruout China.

[The broadcast gave the same outline of terms as was reported on Sept. 20 by the Chungking, China, newspaper Ta Kung Pao. The newspaper said Chinese government and communist negotiators had agreed on reconstruction of China under Chiang's leadership, with equality between the Kuomintang and Communist parties.]

The broadcast said the agreement provided for demobilization of armed forces, but did not specify whether it meant only the Chinese communist armies.

FRANCE MOVES TO LIBERALIZE SOCIAL SECURITY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Sept. 28—The council of ministers today approved an ordinance liberalizing and vastly expanding France's social security plan which has been in effect for the past 10 years.

Benefits of health insurance were extended up to three years, thus permitting sufferers from tuberculosis and other prolonged maladies to receive insurance payments thru a long period of treatment. Moreover, if a patient is obliged to return to a poorer paid job at the end of three years he will continue to receive government insurance payments sufficient to compensate him for his loss. Under the present system sickness benefits cease at the end of six months.

The new ordinance also is the first step in implementing the recently adopted ordinance providing for the extension of social insurance from a limited class of workers to the entire population.

CHINESE SEIZE BUSINESSES OF SHANGHAI NAZIS

SHANGHAI, China, Sept. 28 (AP)—Chinese troops today seized several German business firms and placed guards outside most houses and flats occupied by Germans in a step reported a preliminary to interning all Germans in Shanghai.

A spokesman for Shanghai's 2,400 Germans said that among office buildings taken over were those of the German bank, which played an important role in the Japanese occupation, and I. G. Farbenindustrie, dye trust.

Three to eight Chinese soldiers were placed in front of a number of buildings occupied by Germans, primarily in western districts of the city. Germans said the only reason given them was "to protect us."

Corregidor Captive Set Free at Prison in Japan

Marine Pvt. Truman J. Deede, 25, who was taken prisoner at Corregidor, has been freed from a prison camp in Japan, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Deede, 1511 E. 61st st., were notified yesterday.

GEN. WAINWRIGHT TO HEAD EAST DEFENSE UNIT

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28 (AP)—Gen. Wainwright, hero of Corregidor and Bataan, has been appointed chief of the eastern defense command in the United States.

The war department announced today that Wainwright would assume his new duties upon completion of a rest.

Wainwright, liberated from a Japanese prison camp in Manchuria, returned to the United States recently. He went to his home in Skaneatales, N. Y., last week.

He will replace Lt. Gen. George Grunert, who is retiring. Headquarters of the command are in New York City.

JAPS SHELL OUT YEN TO GET HOLD OF U. S. CIGARETS

BY ROBERT CROMIE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

TOKYO, Sept. 28—American food, candy, and cigarets are more highly regarded by the Japanese than are their own yen.

On the streets of Tokyo our soldiers and sailors do a brisk business, illegally, selling their cigarets to the Japanese while keeping one eye open for American military police. The current price is 200 yen a carton which, at army finance office exchange rates, means about $13, or better than $1.25 a pack.

Offers Doll in Trade

But when it comes to trading cigarets have an even higher value. Yesterday one American showed me a lovely old wooden doll handsomely clad in a Japanese costume. Asked what he paid for it, he said that "they wanted either 1,500 yen or two cartons of cigarets."

When one buys ivory, kimonos, or other mementoes of Japan a shopkeeper often asks: "Have you any chocolate?" The answer usually is negative since even the soldiers are having trouble getting candy altho the navy ships in the harbor keep their men supplied.

As for food, it is necessary to take rations along when traveling thru the rural areas or stopping at outlying hotels because the residents have only enough for their own use.

Sometimes, however, it is possible to purchase fish or eggs and have a hotel cook them.

Writers Buy Trout

Yesterday Don Starr of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and I paid 12 yen [less than one dollar] for two 18 inch rainbow trout plus three eight-inch brown trout at a mountain lake near Nikko, once a popular mecca for American tourists.

Here are a couple of advertisments from the Nippon Times, an English language newspaper which point up the situation very well:

"Wanted: Imported soap and canned provisions in exchange for attractive Japanese kakemono [hanging scroll] painted by well known artist," and this:

"Japanese man graduated from middle school, speaks a little English, desires to work with foreign family in any capacity. No salary desired if meals supplied by employer."

Baseball Makes Comeback

Baseball is making a comeback in Japan, at least among school boys. On the grounds of a rural school 50 miles from Tokyo we saw a spirited contest in which two successive youngsters clouted home runs.

We also managed to prove during the same trip how many Japanese school boys one American jeep will hold and still leave room for two adult Yankees. Starr offered a ride to a group of eight or nine year olds trudging up a long hill on the way to school, carefully holding up four fingers and saying sternly, "Four only. Four only."

We drove into the school yard and unloaded 14 of the proudest kids you ever saw.

BOMBAY RIOTING FLARES ANEW; TENSION MOUNTS

BOMBAY, Sept. 28 (AP)—Police opened fire on rioters in three crowded areas of Bombay today as tension mounted and sporadic acts of violence raised the toll of two days of communal rioting between Hindus and Moslems to 23 dead and 104 injured.

Despite efforts of Hindu and Moslem leaders to end the strife, officials said the situation was worse. A 10 p. m.-6 a. m. curfew was enforced in affected areas.

Thousands of Moslems attended prayer at mosques this afternoon and dispersed without incident. Leaders urged them to hurry home quietly. Police guarded the mosques in anticipation of clashes there.

A mysterious fire gutted the Girguam mosque, 50 year old Moslem house of worship, but the trustee there said simply: "Our neighbors are Hindus. They are our friends. They help us feed the poor people who come here."

One knifing victim was found dead this afternoon, and another succumbed in a hospital. Three coolies were stabbed when they went to a grain ration depot for food. Police dispersed groups of Moslems and Hindus, armed with stones, shouting threats at each other from opposite sides of the street.

[A Reuters dispatch from Bombay said police had opened fire at two points in the northern area of the city to disperse crowds.]

Police said the military had no active part yet in maintaining order.

FALL FROM FIRE ESCAPE FATAL

Charles Ungermann, 61, of 2120 S. Pulaski rd., died yesterday in St. Anthony's hospital of injuries suffered in a fall Sept. 5 from the fire escape while painting a window on the second floor at 3135 Cermak rd.

JAP 'ZAIBATSU' ALARMED OVER LOSING WEALTH

Barons Stalked by Fear of Reparations

BY DONALD STARR
(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

TOKYO, Sept. 28—The members of Japan's five wealthiest industrial families are waiting in fear tempered by fatalistic resignation for the details of the allied reparations plans, which threaten to destroy the financial empires of the "zaibatsu" or money class.

After a month of hide and seek with the barons who control Mitsui and Mitsubishi, the two largest trusts, in unsuccessful attempts to interview them, a meeting with officials of their companies was finally arranged.

Top family members were unavailable, due to illness or absence from Tokyo, altho the circumstances suggested that the illness was induced by the declaration by the American member of the reparations commission that external assets will be seized in part payment of reparations.

"No Profit from War"

The company officials entered denials to suggestions that these powerful interests were engaged in politics, profited from the war, or enjoyed monopolies.

Typical of their dependence on American gullibility was a statement by Kwanzo Tanaka, chairman of the board of the Mitsubishi Trading company, who also is a director of the Mitsubishi holding company. He said no undue influence was exercised by the holding company on the affairs of a subsidiary.

However, when asked if the trading company advertised for competitive bids in the purchase of new ships, for example, he replied that this was unnecessary, because the Mitsubishi Shipbuilding company automatically got the order.

"Hands Are off Politics"

"Our stockholders know that we always act in their interest, and they also know that Mitsubishi builds the best ships," he concluded.

On the question of public affairs, he said it is a "tradition" that Mitsubishi keeps its hands off politics. But it is known to the Japanese that this family controled the Minseito party, once one of the two most powerful in the country.

He likewise ignored the matter of the composition of the house of peers, 66 members of which are selected constitutionally as representatives of large tax payers.

Tanaka, as well as Tatsuo Sumi, managing director of the Mitsui holding company, said that whether or not the companies are broken up by the allied reparations plans, neither could regain their former position. They cited losses from bomb destruction and disappearance of their holdings thru the loss of Korea, Manchuria, and Formosa.

"Emperor Has No Stock"

Tanaka said Mitsubishi already has taken steps to convert the heavy industry, in which his firm was the largest investor in Japan, to peace time production of necessities.

Both denied that the emperor has stock in their companies, declaring his fortune is wrapped up in the South Manchuria Railroad company, Yokohama Specie bank, and the Bank of Japan. The emperor also owns all the forest land in Japan, and the central business district of Tokyo.

The five wealthiest families and their business affiliations are as follows:

Mitsui—Textiles, mining, banking, foreign trade.

Mitsubishi—Heavy industry, banking, trading.

Sumitomo — Banking, mining, heavy industry.

Yasuda—Banking, industrial finance.

"Would Violate Potsdam"

Sumi said the statement by Edwin Pauley, American representative on the allied reparations commission, came as a complete surprise. He said seizure of Mitsui assets would be a contravention, in his understanding, of the Potsdam declaration.

"The Potsdam declaration guarantees retention by Japan of such industry as will be necessary to maintain her economy and pay reparations," he said. "We did not own any heavy industry making war materials, and we did not think we would be affected. There has been a great misunderstanding. However, if, after close study of our concern, the decision means seizure, we will have nothing to say. Judgment will be up to the allies."

The president of the holding company is Baron Takami Mitsui, who, with 10 other Mitsui family members, are the largest stockholders.

Profit Only 7 Per Cent

The direct affiliates include 10 companies—trading, mining, trust, life insurance, industrial chemicals, real estate, steamship, agriculture and forestry, dockyard, and precision machines.

Tanaka, of Mitsubishi, was nervously philosophical in his comment on Pauley's statement. "If they want to take some part of our assts," he said, "I do not see why they shouldn't."

He admitted Mitsubishi built warships and planes, but said profits were limited to 7 per cent. He said this restriction and many others were ample proof that Baron Iwasaki and other members of his family did not engage in politics.

But when asked to list other restrictions he was unable to do so.

"And his best suit! See, we shouldn't have let him stay home from Sunday school."

POLICE OF SIDNEY BREAK UP MARCH BY DOCK STRIKERS

SYDNEY, Australia, Sept. 28 [Reuters]—Police today broke up a dockhand demonstration here in support of the Indonesian nationalists' "struggle for independence."

Thirty banners were carried among a crowd of about 3,000 bearing such inscriptions as "hands off our allies, the Indonesians" and "down with Dutch imperialism."

After a scuffle with the demonstrators, the police tore up the banners and dispersed the crowd.

Dock workers here and in Brisbane have continued to refuse to load Dutch ships for the East Indies despite assurances by Dutch officials that the vessels do not carry arms.

Harry Bridges, leader of the International Longshoremen's union in the United States, cabled the Australians supporting their stand and congratulating their federation, the Sydney Sun reported.

ARMY'S RESCUE SHIP BLOCKED BY GREENLAND ICE

NARSARSSUAK, Greenland, Sept. 28 (AP)—The army transport Belle Island was menaced by huge icebergs today as she sought to reach the open sea off Greenland's east coast and take to safety 11 soldiers, including Sgt. Chester A. Mileski, 2217 N. Kildare av., Chicago., rescued from an isolated radio weather outpost in the Arctic.

Huge chunks of ice swept into the mouth of Skjoldungen fjord by winds and tide blocked the ship as she tried to put out from Skjoldungen, where the soldiers had been marooned eight months, for headquarters of the Greenland base command at Narsarssuak.

Yesterday the coast guard cutter Storis battled five hours, using 500 pounds of explosives, to blast a path past an iceberg weighing an estimated 1,000 tons which blocked the exit to the narrow fjord.

COLD SNAP ADDS TO SUFFERING OF STARVING BERLIN

Civilians Shiver in Roofless Homes

ripping up hundreds of miles of track and sending the rails home. Berlin is the hardest hit because it is the biggest city.

Take the case of Henrietta Day in the Wartburg strasse, a dressmaker. She lives with her 5 year old daughter and her mother next to the top floor. When it rains she places pots, pans, and soup plates on the floor to catch the rainwater because a 500 pound bomb blew off the roof last April. All three are suffering from a skin disease from the lack of fats and vitamins.

The family is putty faced and bent over from colic caused by contaminated water, but they cannot buy chlorine tablets. They gather acorns from the park, grind them and brew them into an abominable concoction called coffee.

Henrietta and her mother sleep in their clothes and wrap a carpet around themselves these bitter nights, placing their only blanket over the child. Now business has slowed down because a Russian soldier pinched the dressmaker's thimble and she cannot buy another, which seriously hampers her sewing.

Populace Is Hopeless

The final vital factor in the situation is the mental apathy, lassitude, and hopelessness pervading the civilian populace, who believe the allies will occupy the country forever.

With living conditions complicated by four different occupation armies and with four military governments imposing new restrictions and regulations constantly, and with nothing to do to occupy their minds, the inhabitants have become fatalistic and resigned to their doom.

Despite the gigantic task facing them to make the shattered buildings habitable during the freezing weather, practically no repairs are going on anywhere except in the quarters occupied by the various armies, where even landscape gardening is under way for next spring's flowers.

All opposition newspapers in Bucharest have been suppressed. The opposition cannot hold meetings. When King Michael wishes to get his viewpoint across, his supporters circulate handbills clandestinely.

Frankness Not Wise

In Bulgaria, censorship control of news going abroad has been lifted for the British and Americans but not for the Turks, Greeks and Yugoslavs. News to the United States and Britain was excepted following Secretary of State Byrnes' recent protest over the method of holding the Bulgarian elections. Nevertheless no British or American correspondent would be able to write with complete frankness about Bulgaria and remain long in that country.

Not only is the opposition press squashed in Romania by the Communists under Moscow dictation, but Moscow supplies the newsprint to the government's newspapers. Two opposition papers have been started in Sofia, but they have difficulty getting newsprint.

Moscow has just sent Ilya Ehrenburg to visit Bucharest and Sofia. As a result, Romanians and Bulgarians soon will be reading about themselves and how well they are faring in Ehrenburg articles published by the communist controled press of Premiers Georgiev and Groza.

HOTEL EMPLOYEE AIDS IN ARREST IN FRAUD CASE

The alertness of Mrs. Madge Sidney, assistant manager of the Evanshire hotel, 860 Hinman av., Evanston, brought about the arrest yesterday of Richard S. Hanlyn, 47, who is wanted by federal authorities in St. Louis, Mo., on a mail fraud charge.

Mrs. Sidney saw a government bulletin with Hanlyn's picture and recognized him as a hotel guest. She notified Evanston police, and Detectives Frank Mountain and Henry White arrested him. Police said that Hanlyn has been living in Evanston since April and has displayed large sums of money, including $100 bills.

Evanston police quoted Hanlyn as admitting that he has served terms in the federal prisons at Atlanta and Leavenworth on charges of impersonating a federal revenue agent. They said he has used the aliases of Ballard, Bowers, Handlon, and Royal S. Harris, among others. Hanlyn is being held for the government.

Flyers Solve Problem of How to Get Home Fast

Tampa, Fla., Sept. 28 (AP)—Two flying lieutenants, Bill Robinson and Bud Hamphill, got their discharges at Drew field today and quickly solved the problem of a long trip home to Corvallis, Ore. Failing to get immediate train or passenger plane reservations, the ex-bomber pilots each dug up $1,100 and bought tiny primary training planes for a leisurely trip westward. They spent nearly two years on bombing missions over Europe.

U. S. COLONEL TAKES OVER CUSTODY OF ISLE HELD BY JAPS

SEOUL, Korea, Sept. 28 (AP)—Formal custody of the Japanese-held island of Saishu, about 100 miles off the south coast of Korea, was taken today by Col. Roy Green, former dentist of Sacramento, Cal.

Green, commanding the 184th regiment of the 7th infantry division, landed by plane on the island which garrisoned 60,000 Japanese troops and had substantial air installations.

Since there are 224,000 civilians on the island, including many Koreans, the Japanese received permission to retain 5 per cent of their arms. Officers were allowed to keep their swords until occupation of the island is accomplished by United States troops.

CEMETERY CODE COMMISSION TO MEET ON OCT. 26

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 28 [Special]—State Rep. Canton [R., Stanford] said today the commission to formulate legislation to regulate cemeteries will meet Oct. 26 in Springfield to hear suggestions from spokesmen for cemetery associations on the kind of a code they favor.

At a session Tuesday Canton was elected chairman of the commission by a vote of 9 to 6. He opposed the bill which Atty. Gen. George F. Barrett had introduced in the last legislature to curb what he described as a "sordid multi-million dollar cemetery racket in Illinois."

Asked if Barrett will be invited to appear before the commission, Caton said the members want all the information they can get but must decide as a body on any invitations. Meetings will be held in southern and central Illinois, and in Cook county.

SHUTTER BUG PATTON DATES UP CAMERAMAN

WIESBADEN, Germany, Sept. 28 (AP)—Gen. Patton made a date with a newspaper photographer today to learn more about the art of picture taking.

While he was here to see Gen. Eisenhower Patton joked with Associated Press Photographer Peter Carroll and told him, "I'm an amateur cameraman myself, you know. I've got one swell camera, and I'd like to have you come down sometime and show me how to work it."

As he was leaving the building Patton turned and called to Carroll, "Don't forget, now." Whether they will keep their date in Europe or Massachusetts, where they both live, remains to be seen.

Hitler Ex-Aide Reaches Capital for Questioning

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28 (AP)—Capt. Fritz Wiedemann, former aide to Adolf Hitler and German consul general in San Francisco before Pearl Harbor, arrived by plane today for questioning by army officers. Reporters were not permitted to question him. Wiedemann was captured in Tientsin, China, where he had fled after leaving the United States in 1941.

U. S. ARMY PROPOSES GERMAN NEWS AGENCY ALONG LINES OF AP

FRANKFURT, Germany, Sept. 29 (AP)—The information control division of the United States army is planning to establish a German news agency along the lines of the Associated Press of America.

The division, under Brig. Gen. Robert McClure, is operating a news agency servicing Germany called DANA [Deutsche Allgemeine Nachrichten Agentur], an abbreviation for German allied news agency.

At the same time the division has been going ahead licensing German papers to operate in the American zone. There are seven such papers and between 20 and 25 are expected to be licensed by the first of the year. A meeting has been called of licensed newspaper publishers to lay foundations for taking control of DANA. The Americans proposed that the German publishers form a board of directors for the agency, elect a general manager to run the agency, and share costs of its operation on a coöperative plan.

ALLIED ENVOYS TAKE UP FRENCH RUHR PROPOSAL

London Parley Runs Thru Its Agenda

BY WILLIAM FULTON
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Sept. 28—The council of foreign ministers held two sessions today on the French proposal for internationalization of Germany's Ruhr industrial basin. It is now expected the conference will adjourn within the next day or two.

The French claim that if the Ruhr's annual coal production of 140 million tons, plus its huge industrial capacity, are turned back to Germany she may regain her economic power and ability to wage war.

The French point out that Ruhr coal is vital to Italy, Switzerland, Holland, Greece, Luxemburg, and, to a lesser extent, Belgium. They say Germany should have her share but should have no voice in how this coal is distributed.

All Items Considered

The foreign ministers have now exhausted every item on their agenda. Still to be decided is the question whether the Balkan peace treaties shall be drafted by the United States, Britain and Russia, thus excluding France and China, or whether all five nations will sit around the table. So far, Russian Foreign Minister Molotov has insisted that only the first three nations should map the treaties for the defeated nazi satellites, Romania, Bulgaria, and Hungary.

The official announcement of the fruits of the council will not necessarily reveal anything since the foreign ministers may decide to keep secret some of their agreements on future policy and procedure. They will meet again in about two months after their deputies, remaining in London, have done considerable spade work on the more contrpversial item...

What Was Accomplished

The work to date might be summarized as follows:

JAPAN—Both Britain and Russia are pressing for an interallied commission in Tokyo so that they will have a greater share in control of the conquered empire. Secretary Byrnes said flatly he did not have any instructions and, besides, the matter was not on the agenda for the current meeting.

[A dispatch to the New York Times said that Byrnes for the last four days has exercised his veto on the question of an interallied commission for Tokyo, but in the face of pressure the United States may offer to make concessions today unless there is a sharp break on the Balkan question. Apparently, the dispatch adds, something between an allied control commission such as now operates in Berlin and advisory councils like those of Rome and London is being worked out.]

GERMANY—The council has discussed French proposals for internationalization of the Ruhr and the Rhineland and also for postponing establishment of a central German administration. It is expected the deputies will continue this study.

ITALY—The deputies are to follow the directive for disposition of the colonies with the American trusteeship proposition in mind. The greater part of the Julian marsh [area surrounding Trieste] is expected to be awarded to Yugoslavia with internationalization of the port of Trieste.

THE BALKANS—Procedure to be clarified to determine who will sit at the peace table. The United States and Britain still insist that Bulgaria and Romania, which are under soviet influence, have undemocratic regimes. They are taking steps to recognize Hungary, however.

THREE BUS LINES TO BE RESUMED; NEW ONE ADDED

Bus service will be resumed by the Chicago Surface Lines Monday on three important lines which were discontinued in 1942 by government order. They are the Kimball av., Kimball av.-Homan blvd., and the Ogden av. routes.

John E. Sullivan, chairman of the operating board of the surface lines, announced that a new bus line would start in Harlem av. Tuesday. It will run north from Farragut to Touhy avs. and west in Touhy to Overhill av.

Kimball-Homan buses, which formerly ran in Homan av. as far south as Grenshaw st., thence to Central Park av. and south to 25th st., will under new routing follow Homan av. south to Roosevelt rd., turn west to Central Park, south to 26th st., west to Lawndale av., and south to a terminus at 31st st.

HUSBAND SUES; WIFE SEIZED ON BIGAMY CHARGE

A charge of bigamy yesterday was placed against Mrs. Frances M. Keith Holub, 38, of 825 Wadsworth av., Waukegan, after her husband, Walter Holub, 38, of the Wadsworth av. address, filed suit for divorce in Lake county Circuit court. Holub's bill alleged that his wife, whom he married Sept. 18 in Chicago, had another husband and three children in Salisbury, N. C. After her arrest Mrs. Holub admitted, police said, existence of the prior husband and children, and said she met Holub thru a matrimonial agency. She was placed under $2,500 bond.

BRADEN CHARGES ARGENTINA FAILS TO KEEP PACTS

U. S. Deplores Siege, Nation Told

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28 (AP)—Ambassador Spruille Braden tonight charged that the Argentine military government had failed to live up to its hemisphere and united nations obligations.

From Buenos Aires came word that John M. Cabot, the United States charge d'affaires, had officially told the Argentine government that its actions would have a "deplorable effect" on American opinion.

The state department here said, however, no Presidential or department directive had been sent to Cabot in connection with the current situation in Argentina.

Braden Back in Capital

Braden arrived by plane from Buenos Aires to take up his new duties as assistant secretary of state for Latin American affairs. Referring to the so-called Act of Chapultepec, adopted at Mexico City early this year, he said:

"Declaration after declaration, resolution after resolution, that document applies to the present situation in Argentina."

He referred particularly, he said, to passages in the act dealing with "the dedication to democracy, to the principles of the Atlantic Charter, and following down thru to promises for the suppression of nazi activities in this hemisphere."

Argentine Minister Explains

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Sept. 28 (AP)—The Argentine government, thru Interior Minister Hortensio Quijano, today said the present state of siege and arrest of prominent persons were necessary to put down conspiracy and avert "grave happenings."

Quijano said the scores of arrests were "investigatory and preventive," explaining that the government suspected those jailed of complicity in a subversive movement planned for the capital simultaneously with an abortive military uprising at Cordoba Tuesday.

[In Bogota, the Colombian chamber of deputies voted "vehement protest" against the Argentine arrests, and in Lima the Peruvian senate passed a motion voicing its hope of "democratic affirmation and institutional recovery" in the neighboring country.]

While some of the prominent Argentines rounded up in the last two days, including former Foreign Ministers Carlos Saavedra Lamas and Jose M. Cantilo and three newspaper executives, were released, arrests of others continued. Many educators were among them.

Protest strikes suspended classes in several universities.

REVEALS YANKS AIDED BAHAMAS IN LABOR CRISIS

BERLIN, Sept. 28 (AP)—A veteran of the old 6th cavalry regiment today said that 135 of its men were secretly flown to the Bahamas in 1942 to help keep order during labor troubles.

The cavalryman, now on duty in Berlin, said Edward Windsor, then governor of the Bahamas, had appealed to Washington, D. C., for assistance in the labor crisis.

On Presidential order, one troop of the 6th regiment moved out of Camp Blanding, Fla., during the night of June 4, 1942, and went to an air field near Jacksonville, Fla., he said.

NIGHT CLUB CAMERA GIRL, 20, FOUND DEAD IN GAS FILLED FLAT

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28 (AP)—An attractive brunette night club camera girl, separated from her service man husband overseas, was found dead in her gas filled apartment yesterday. Outside the apartment, the night club's master of ceremonies lay unconscious.

Mrs. Inez Boone

Detective Sgt. Richard Felber identified the girl as Mrs. Inez Sykes Boone, 20, and said she had left two notes. One was addressed to John James Michaelson Jr., master of ceremonies at the Trolka night club where she worked, and the other to her mother, Mrs. Irene Sykes of Kansas City, Mo. The note to her mother said she was "tired and sorry," Felber said.

Felber said Michaelson, also known as Johnny Sinclair, told him he had gone to Mrs. Boone's apartment yesterday and entered after he smelled gas. After turning off the gas, he fell unconscious. He was revived at a hospital.

LT. G. A. OTLEWIS OF PARK POLICE MADE A CAPTAIN

Lt. George A. Otlewis of the park district police has been promoted to captain and assigned to succeed Edward Redd, retired, as captain of the west police section, with headquarters in Garfield park, Park District Police Chief Roger F. Shanahan said yesterday.

The new captain was appointed a patrolman by the former south park commissioners on June 5, 1924, promoted to sergeant on April 1, 1934, and elevated to lieutenant on Aug. 19, 1943.

Capt. Otlewis, who is married, lives at 6518 Komensky av.

TREASURE HUNT LEADS TO KILLER CHEST OF GOLD

Chatham, Mass., Sept. 28 [Special].—The discovery of a "murderer's treasure," buried nearly 100 years ago—a story replete with the thrills of a hidden code, Spanish "pieces of 8" and the sinister death of a key informant—was told today by the finder, Edward Rowe Snow of Winthrop, a high school teacher and historian.

After months of concentrated work and 10 years of casual investigating, Snow yesterday was rewarded with the unearthing of about $2,000 worth of gold and silver coins.

Buried in the sands of Nauset beach on the peninsula off Chatham light, Snow and two helpers found a small copper chest. In it were nearly 400 coins of seven different nations bearing dates between 1694 and 1854. Included were several Spanish "pieces of 8" and numerous Portuguese and French coins.

Buried by Light Keeper

"I heard the story of the buried treasure as long ago as 1935," related Snow, 43, a discharged army lieutenant wounded in Africa. "It was said to have been buried by a lighthouse keeper who had fled here in 1854 after killing a man on the Great Lakes.

"For a period of about 11 years after his death in 1882 his brother made repeated trips here from Canada. Tho the brother was close mouthed, it became obvious to fishermen and lighthouse keepers, as he went around sinking shafts in the earth, that he was hunting for something and had information known only to himself.

"Several years ago, when I was writing a book on lighthouses, I heard the story retold by lighthouse keepers. About 1939 the caretaker on Great Brewster Island, John Nuskey, a colorful man who had a peg leg, gave me more helpful information. Oddly, about six months later Nuskey's body was found floating under his dory, a tow line throttling his throat.

Learns of Secret Paper.

"Nuskey had learned, apparently from the treasure hider's brother, that some kind of a paper bearing information of the treasure's whereabouts could be found in the northeast corner of some house on some island.

"Tho that was very indefinite, it gave me something to work on. I learned that the treasure owner had been a keeper of Bug light in the chain of Brewster Islands in Boston harbor, that he didn't have a boat and that he couldn't swim. It seemed likely, then, that he buried his treasure in a place reachable on foot.

"I found that at low tide he could have walked on a sand bar about 2½ miles to Little Brewster Island and about 2¾ miles to Middle Brewster. Little Brewster seemed too small, so I concentrated on the other island which had six abandoned houses and has had no inhabitants since after World War I.

Finds Trap Door

"About 10 days ago, in searching these houses, I came to one which had a trap door in the middle of the dining room floor. The door was off. I climbed down thru the opening and rummaged around. In the northeast corner, behind a rock in part of the foundation and up next to the floor joists, I found a book.

"The book was in Italian. I learned from the woman who owned the house that it wasn't hers, that she had never seen it. I took it to the Boston library and, in the rare book department, was told it was written in 1690 by Carafo, a papal delegate to European nations and that it probably was a rare volume.

"A librarian, leafing thru it, came to some strange pin pricks on page 101. It developed that they comprised a crude code. By noting the words over which the marks were made and then reversing their sequence, the librarian discovered they gave directions for finding the treasure.

Aided by Fisherman

"With electrical equipment for locating metal underground, I set out with my brother, Donald, a government electrician, and a Chatham fisherman, Good Walter Eldredge. The site to which we were directed was 105 miles from where the treasurer owner had cared for his light house.

"At first we were thrown off by our equipment locating metal spikes in the sunken wrecks of old ships. We had to dig them out to be sure the treasure wasn't there. We were also misled by the disappearance of a sight mark noted in the code—old Chatham lighthouse which was replaced with a light 150 yards from the old site.

"But last Tuesday we reached the right place, our equipment showed we were within half a mile of our object. For three days we worked hard digging. About 1 p. m. yesterday Donald's shovel hit the chest, about nine feet down. We pulled it out, broke open the lock, and there it was, hundreds of gleaming coins. They say bigger treasures are buried not far from here."

DOCTOR TELLS COURT OF 200 CANNIBALISM CASES AT BELSEN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LUENEBURG, Germany, Sept. 28—Dr. Fritz Leo, an internee who practiced in the concentration camp at Belsen, Germany, testified today he had seen 200 to 300 cases of cannibalism.

Dr. Leo, a German, appeared as a witness against 45 nazi officers and guards on trial for mass murder at Belsen and at Oswiecim [Auschwitz], Poland.

The camp hospital, Dr. Leo said, received three or four persons a day who had been shot for trying to escape or for trying to obtain a potato or a turnip. The facilities, he added, permitted treatment of only those with minor wounds.

14,500 YANKS ARRIVE IN N. Y. ON QUEEN MARY

Many Chicagoans Listed as Passengers

New York, Sept. 28 (AP)—The liner Queen Mary, carrying the main body of the 63d [Blood and Thunder] division, docked in New York harbor today.

More than 14,500 veterans aboard the giant ship received an uproarious welcome from harbor boats, service bands, and professional entertainers. Singer Jane Froman, injured in a plane crash at Lisbon in 1943, arrived on crutches to greet some of the men she entertained recently in Europe on a U. S. O. tour.

The troops cheered wildly when Miss Froman sang "Candy" and "Don't Fence Me In."

The following Chicago and vicinity veterans were listed as aboard the Queen Mary when it sailed from Europe. Where no town is given, the veteran is from Chicago.

DAY by DAY on the FARM
by BEN MARKLAND

September 28, 1945

A POOR corn crop usually indicates a prospective drop in beef supplies, but there are indications that an early frost this fall may actually increase the amount of beef to be marketed in the next six months.

The reason for this phenomena is that "in and out" cattle feeders—farmers who feed only when the market prospects are favorable—may be forced to buy feeder steers this fall if an early frost results in damage to immature corn. If their corn matures before frosts strike, they will store their crop and sell much of it for cash. On the other hand, an early frost would make the storage of soft corn too risky and the only way of using the crop would be to feed it from the shock.

Looking for Feeders

The men on the Fox River farm were saying the other morning that some of their neighbors, who haven't been feeding steers because of the unprofitable cattle market, are looking around for feeders. If frost does strike in the next 10 days in Illinois, Indiana, and Iowa, thousands of farmers will rush to buy young stock. With feeders in their lots, they would be able to salvage their damaged corn by putting it into shock and feeding during the fall and early winter.

Unfavorable weather already has resulted in heavier feeding in the Cedar and Clinton county areas of Iowa, where severe wind and hail storms last week dislodged most of the standing corn. The farmers in those counties, seeing they would be unable to pick their corn by machine, bought feeders to harvest the damaged crop.

Last Result Unfavorable

The immediate result of an early frost, therefore, would be the sending of more cattle to market in the next six months. The final result would, of course, be unfavorable because there would be less binned corn for late winter and spring feeding and also less corn to be processed for feeding poultry, hogs, and cattle.

Each day without frost improves the prospects for a heavy corn crop. The men on the Fox River farm believe 70 per cent of their corn would be safe from frost damage if there is a week of dry, warm weather. C. A. Hughes, Cook county farm adviser, said yesterday that 50 to 70 per cent of the corn in this county is fully dented and safe from light frost.

★The GARDEN★

[This is the third of a series of articles on composting.]

COMPOST matter can be used to improve the texture and fertility of any type of soil, but is most beneficial to heavy clay soils or light, sandy types. Added to clay soils, it makes the ground more friable and helps to prevent packing during hot, mid-summer weather. Spaded into sandy soils, it increases the moisture holding capacity and adds substance to the ground.

The compost pile can be the means of improving flower and shrubbery plots in this way: Many flower beds, particularly alongside house foundations, contain heavy clay left from the basement excavation. Three to five inches of this clay may be taken from the flower beds and gradually mixed into the compost frame between layers of leaves, grass clippings, animal manure, and vegetable refuse.

After a few months the contents of the frame can be mixed together, and the vegetable matter will disintegrate the clay particles. The resultant mixture will be sufficiently friable to be applied to other flower beds or the vegetable plot after a year of decomposition.

FILIPINO EDITOR RIBS CONGRESS; FACES INQUIRY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MANILA, P. I., Sept. 28—The Philippine house of representatives last night voted to investigate the editor of a Manila daily for having made alleged derogatory remarks in an editorial on the record of the Philippine congress. The editor is Abelardo Subido, owner of the Manila Post.

The Post editorial said members of the Philippine congress do not conduct themselves with the decorum befitting legislators and have not accomplished as much as the people had expected during the last two special sessions.

Several congressmen felt highly offended. The Post editor was denounced as irresponsible. A few congressmen pointed out that congress has no power to investigate a newspaper man for criticizing the law making body.

Assemblyman Cipriano Primicias of Pangasinan added that members should not be so thin-skinned as to be unable to stand a little criticism.

855 VETS DUE IN FRISCO TODAY ON BATTLESHIP

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Seven troop ships, with more than 6,600 veterans from Europe and the Pacific, are scheduled to dock today at four east and west coast ports.

Two ships, carrying about 750 troops, are due at New York, three with more than 3,000 at Newport News, Va., and one with more than 2,000 at Boston, Mass.

The Battleship Indiana is scheduled to dock at San Francisco, Cal., with 855 men from the Pacific theater.

Other ships and units scheduled to arrive today are:

At New York—aboard Robert Harrison—747 unlisted army personnel. Aboard Fort Royal—navy personnel.

At Boston—aboard Bienville—2,056 troops, including the 763d ordnance light maintenance company and 363d medical battalion of 63d infantry division; 359th airdrome squadron; 422d night fighter squadron and miscellaneous personnel.

At Newport News—aboard Cody Victory—1,962 troops, including cannon company of 253d infantry; headquarters and headquarters battery of 63d division artillery; 861st field artillery battalion; 863d field artillery battalion; 263d engineering company battalion. Aboard Sea Tiger—1,038 troops, including 99th signal company; 394th infantry regiment; 1596the headquarters and headquarters battery of 99th division artillery; 372d field artillery battalion; miscellaneous personnel. Aboard William Wilmer—39 miscellaneous troops.

Guard Units to Come Home

FRANKFURT, Germany, Sept. 28 (AP)—The last three national guard divisions in Europe will return to the United States in November and December, army headquarters announced today.

The 36th division, now in Bavaria, is due at the Oklahoma City staging camp Oct. 17 and will sail in November. The 29th division in the Bremen area and the 26th division in Austria are scheduled to embark in December.

FINLAND FACES A WINTER OF HUNGER, COLD

HELSINKI, Finland, Sept. 27 [Delayed] (AP)—Finland faces the winter in this situation:

Most of the people keep alive only by eating black market food, and their ration, a doctor said, is not adequate for a working man. There is almost no new clothing and many do without or improvise it from wood or paper. Wood is the country's one hope of rebuilding an export trade to pay off its war indemnity to Russia, and so the Finns are allowed only enough wood each month for cooking. The markka is worth only one-fourth its pre-war value of 4¼ cents. Because workers can buy little, said Prof. Bruno Suviranta, head of the department of national commerce, they do not care to work more than four days a week. He said industry was operating at 50 or 60 per cent of capacity, and agriculture was two-thirds normal.

Suviranta said recovery depended on keeping wages and prices down and getting raw materials.

Premier of Australia Voices Faith in M'Arthur

CANBERRA, Australia, Sept. 28 (AP)—Prime Minister Joseph B. Chifley of Australia today expressed "a lot of faith" in Gen. MacArthur's administration of the occupation of Japan. "If this country has no confidence in MacArthur," Chifley said at a press conference, "it would be a base ingratitude." His words were in response to the observation of a correspondent that Britain was not actively represented in the occupation.

GEMS, SILVER, CLOTHING STOLEN

Burglars stole $40 and a fur coat, silverware, jewelry, and a pair of shoes, all valued at $437, from the home of Peter W. Peterson, 8345 Loomis st., he told police yesterday.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Sept. 29—Hindenburg Line Severed

IN ONE of the fiercest engagements of World War I., the American 2d corps, serving with the British 4th army, smashed thru the Hindenburg line at Bellicourt, France, 27 years ago today.

The Americans, with the army's other assault divisions, stepped off at 5:50 a. m. The morning was foggy and dark. A great barrage thundered ahead of them, but all that the advancing soldiers could see were misty flashes of light in the gray.

The 27th [New York] division, which was on the left of the American line, ran into bitter fighting immediately. The first 1,000 yards that the division had to cross were alive with German machine guns. The barrage had not been able to destroy these because many Americans who had been wounded trying to clean up the German outposts during the preceding days still lay in the area. The allied gunners did not dare lay their fire too low.

The advance thru this area was a nightmare. As groups of the 27th pressed along, Germans rose behind and around them. The great battle split into hundreds of little fights—group against group and man against man. So terrific was the resistance that only thin platoons succeeded in getting over the ridge of the tunnel thru which the St. Quentin canal ran. [The canal was part of the Hindenburg line.]

On the American right however, the 30th division had fewer difficulties, because there were fewer German outposts. These men, from Tennessee and the Carolinas, smashed into and thru the village of Bellicourt. By crossing the ridge of the canal and consolidating their position on the far side, they severed the Hindenburg line.

This operation was one of the key offensives in the series that led to Germany's plea for an armistice. At the same time, the American 1st army's Meuse-Argonne offensive was in progress to the southeast.

PURPLE HEART CARAVAN TAKES FORTY TO LAKES

Despite rainy weather, 40 wounded veterans left Vaughan General hospital yesterday for the Delavan-Lake Geneva [Wis.] area, to be week-end guests in the homes of prominent Chicagoans.

The Purple Heart caravan was driven to the lake area in automobiles supplied by the hosts. The veterans will return to the hospital tomorrow evening.

If the weather permits, the men will be free to use golf, tennis and other outdoor sports facilities. Indoor sports of pingpong, cards, and bowling also will be provided. The trip is sponsored by the Lest We Forget committee, headed by Dr. Melford E. Zinser, president of the Loyola Dental Alumni association.

FOUND HANGED IN BASEMENT

Edward Skala, 46, 6543 Halsted st., was found hanged yesterday in the basement of his home. He left notes addressed to his son, Edward Jr., and to his estranged wife, Jean, 6409 Green st., saying he could not live without her.

USO WILL CHART MEANS TO MEET GREATER NEEDS

State and national leaders of the United Service Organizations will convene at 333 N. Michigan av. today to chart means of meeting increased military demands for U. S. O. coöperation thruout the world. William E. Leigh, national director of overseas services, will fly here from Hawaii for the meeting. He conferred recently with Gen. MacArthur.

"U. S. O. is facing its most critical period in the days ahead," said Mrs. Maurice T. Moore, chairman of the national U. S. O. council. "Need for services has increased since V-J day, with military leaves being granted on a much greater scale."

Mrs. Moore said there are still millions of men in uniform whose entertainment needs didn't cease with hostilities.

"You don't have to make Poindexter that good"

● An old time Kentucky whisky man said that to our distiller—and gave his reasons, too: "What do whisky buyers care about your 40% small grains—that Red Rosen rye and fine barley malt you put in with the good yellow corn? What do they know about jug yeast or low temperature fermentation? I tell you, folks don't appreciate fine whisky any more!"

Our distiller replied, "We can't supply everybody. But there's a few men in every thousand who can taste the quality that has been put into Old Poindexter for 88 years. That few keeps our little distillery oversold right along."

Our distiller's rather old-fashioned. He says he'd rather be the best distiller in Kentucky than the biggest. We think he may have an idea.

PATTON ON IKE'S CARPET, BUT HE EMERGES JOKING

Ouster Reports Called Just Gossip

FRANKFURT, Germany, Sept. 28 (AP)—Gen. Patton reported personally to Gen. Eisenhower on the denazification program in Bavaria at a conference of two hours and 20 minutes here today.

Patton emerged in a joking mood. The 3rd army commander, who had been under criticism for his administration of the United States occupation zone's eastern military district, jested with reporters and posed for pictures.

Gen. Eisenhower, who left headquarters with Patton, said there was nothing unusual in his conferring with one of his army commanders.

Eisenhower Won't Talk

"When I have any information I'll let you know, so don't worry," he said. Eisenhower appeared surprised when he saw waiting newsmen.

"What do you want?" he asked, and then told them they knew he frequently talked with army commanders and did not give public reports on what was discussed.

"I'm running a job and doing the best I can with it," Eisenhower added.

Confers with Murphy

Informed officers said reports to the effect that Eisenhower might relieve Patton were unfounded gossip.

Before his departure, Patton conferred with Robert Murphy, Eisenhower's chief political adviser. Murphy and an army investigator have been examining the political situation in Patton's district following reports, denied by Patton, that the ouster of Nazis from public office was lagging in Bavaria.

The regional military government yesterday produced a new batch of statistics upon which one officer commented: "I think if the facts were known the 3d army is ahead of other occupation zones in denazification."

Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, head of the military government under Eisenhower, said the number of Nazis under arrest in the American zone was likely to rise to 100,000 soon from the current figure of 60,000 to 70,000. He said the American policy was complete denazification of Germany, "as ruthlessly as necessary."

TREASON TRIALS IN PHILIPPINES TO OPEN NEXT WEEK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MANILA, P. I., Sept. 28 — The newly created people's court, which will handle all cases of treason here, will sit next week and hold sessions separately in five branches of three judges each, or sit in full court. Judge Leopoldo Rovira, until recently judge of the Philippines court of industrial relations, has been chosen presiding judge.

Fourteen judges and 15 special prosecutors were named by President Osmena before he left for the United tSates two days ago. The names of the magistrates and special prosecutors were forwarded to the Philippine congress by the presidential secretary, Jose Reyes, for confirmation by the commission on appointments.

The people's court will have 15 judges. One more appointee will be named this week to complete the staff of magistrates.

Drug Seized

[TRIBUNE Photo]

Sgt. John F. Mangin with marijuana leaves (in basket), ground leaves in jar, and cigarets made of the drug.

Six men were arrested yesterday in a flat at 601 Madison st. by Sgt. John Mangin and Sgt. Frank Sheahan of the police narcotics detail, who also seized a bushel basket containing marijuana and 200 marijuana cigarets. Those arrested are Pete Martinez, 60, who police said has a record of narcotics violations; Frank Martin, 35, and Arturo Canales, 36, all of 601 Madison st.; Alberto Loyozo, 44, of 1458 Union av.; Eulalio Solorio, 18, of 620 Armitage av., and Gregorio Carranza, 44, of 617 Madison st. Mangin recalled that Martinez was the first person he arrested when assigned to the narcotics detail in 1931.

LARGE POULTRY CROP MAY EASE MEAT RATIONING

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28 (AP)—Poultry and turkeys may show the way for further easing—if not the end—of meat rationing by Nov. 1.

A bumper movement of chickens and a record turkey crop will add greatly to supplies of all meats to be available for civilians during November and December.

Agriculture department meat authorities expect at least a third of this year's indicated production of 4,200,000 pounds of chicken and turkey meat to become available during the last eight or nine weeks of the year. The great bulk of the poultry and turkey will go to civilian markets.

The supply of red meats—beef, pork, veal, lamb, and mutton—allocated to civilians for November and December is about 7 per cent larger than the increased October allotment. Thus, the larger supplies of both red meats and poultry may well be equivalent to consumer demands. Food officials have said they want to end rationing as soon as the supply becomes equivalent to demand.

U. S. Returns Czech Tank Corps; Heroes Honored

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 28 (AP)—An American regiment stood at attention in the old town square of Prague for the first time today. Maj. Gen. Ernest M. Harmon returned to Czechoslovakia and President Benes the first Czechoslovak tank corps, which fought under American command in the west. The 94th division band played "On Wisconsin" as Harmon, commander of the United States 22d corps, decorated several Czechoslovak heroes.

Bodies of 240 Victims of Nazi Atrocity Exhumed

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Sept. 28 (AP)—The bodies of 240 victims of nazi atrocities have been exhumed near Jumet, it was announced today. All except 19 have been identified and turned over to relatives. Most of the victims were members of the Belgian resistance movement.

BANDITS MURDER BRITISH GUARD IN PALESTINE

JERUSALEM, Palestine, Sept. 28 [Reuters]—A British constable was shot and killed by armed men in Tel Aviv today while escorting the Tel Aviv postmaster from a bank to a local postoffice. The postmaster was carrying 5,760 pounds [approximately $23,040] in cash at the time.

At least three armed men took part in the incident and stole the dead constable's machine gun, the police report said.

The murder occurred two days after the British government's introduction of revised legislation for securing public safety in Palestine.

WAR TROPHY DISPLAY STOLEN

A Japanese gun and two German knives displayed as war souvenirs were stolen yesterday from the barber shop of Moritz H. Reustel, 4111 North av.

HCL CUT FROM $250 TO $15 FOR AMERICANS LIVING IN POLAND

WARSAW, Poland, Sept. 28 (AP)—Americans in Warsaw, whose bed and board have been costing them about $250 daily, henceforth will get by for about $15.

The Orbis travel bureau, similar to Russia's Intourist bureau, announced today that it would exchange 100 Polish zlotys for each American dollar. The previous rate was 5.30 zlotys per dollar.

Most of the 100-odd Americans here—members of the staffs of the embassy, UNRRA and the Red Cross and of the military detachment of 35 men—have been signing chits while awaiting a more favorable exchange rate.

CHICAGO YANKS HELP KEEP DOWN CRIME IN BERLIN

BERLIN, Sept. 28 (AP)—The 6th cavalry squadron patroling the American sector of Berlin is helping to keep crime down to a level considerably lower than some places back home. Six wheeled armored cars cruise the streets around the clock, keeping constant radio contact with their command post.

Tanks stand in reserve, but they have been called for action only twice—when a couple of trainloads of displaced Russians got out of hand. In each case the trouble ended when the tanks arrived and there was no shooting.

In a demonstration of the squadron's ability to contact its cars in a hurry, the command post put in calls to patroling crews. Within 10 seconds Corp. Leslie G. Frye, 4830 W. Belmont av., Chicago, answered from a moving armored car. Also aboard was Pvt. Clarence G. Long, Drakesville, Ia., assistant gunner. From another part of the city Pvt. Buhl Brewer, Ottumwa, Ia., radio operator, contacted headquarters. With Brewer was Pvt. Hugh W. Hines, Indianapolis, driver. Driving a quarter ton vehicle which also reported was Pvt. Kenneth Erdman, 921 W. 86th pl., Chicago. The squadron is part of the 16th cavalry group, commanded by Col. George W. Busbey of Brazil, Ind.

U. S. Ship Reaches Dairen to Pick Up Freed Captives

MOSCOW, Sept. 28 [Reuters]—An American transport arrived in Dairen, Manchuria, today to pick up American and other allied prisoners of war liberated by the Red army from Japanese prison camps near Mukden.

BOLIVIA BREAKS RELATIONS WITH FRANCO SPAIN

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Sept. 28 (AP)—Bolivia today decided to break diplomatic relations with Franco Spain. The foreign ministry said Bolivian interests in Spain would be handled by the Peruvian legation.

Don Juan to Portugal

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, Sept. 28 [Reuters]—Don Juan, prince of Barcelona and pretender to the Spanish throne, is expected to leave here soon to live in Portugal, it was reported in monarchist circles today. Several Portuguese grandees who support the monarchists have estates on the borders of Spain from which Don Juan could make easy contact with his supporters in Spain should Franco resign or be deposed as chief of the Spanish government.

Attlee Frowns on Hint for Press Conferences

LONDON, Sept. 28 (AP)—Prime Minister Attlee rejected a suggestion from a member of parliament today that he conduct press conferences like those of President Truman. "Press conferences by the President of the United States are very largely a substitution of parliament over here," he told Lt. Col. M. Lipton, Laborite. "I think they should be used very sparingly and generally should be off the record to supply background."

WHO DID IT, AND WHY?

The Wall Street Journal commented recently that the reports on Pearl Harbor contain most of the elements of a popular murder mystery thriller, but adds that they lack the final chapter telling who "done it" and why.

"The diplomatic arm of the United States government," says the newspaper, "took the risk—indeed, it was almost a certainty—of war without adequate consultation with the army and navy as to whether they were prepared for war. Why that was done, and who did it, the reports do not clearly reveal. Whoever did it, and for whatever reason, it was a diplomatic error of the first water. That is one of the 'whys' and there are a good many others."

The story for which the Wall Street Journal calls is going to be found in Washington, not in Hawaii. The congressional investigating committee's trip to Pearl Harbor will, as Sen. Brewster says, give its members an understanding of what happened there which they might have difficulty in getting without visiting the scene of the attack. But the country knows with accuracy and in considerable detail what happened in Hawaii. If we are to know why it happened we have to search in Washington.

We know that Roosevelt and Hull, and Stimson and Knox, knew that Japan had decided on war. Our officials are supposed to have gotten the information by the cracking of the Japanese code. It is far more probable that the bulk of the information available to Mr. Roosevelt and his cabinet was obtained by English spies. That nation's intelligence service is the best in the world.

We know of the criminal negligence in Washington in warning commanders in the Pacific of the danger of Japanese attack.

We know that one admiral had to cable Washington to verify a plan of combined operations confided to him by the British, of which his own government had not apprised him.

We know that planes were sent out to Hawaii and the Philippines unprepared to fight, their machine guns unmounted and stored in grease in packing cases.

We know from the army and navy reports that Hawaii and the Philippines were inadequately supplied with troops and arms, and we know that the troops and arms to reënforce them were available in this country because they were rushed to Hawaii within a few days after Pearl Harbor.

We know that, apparently in accord with a previous agreement with the British and Dutch, the Philippines were stripped of their scanty force of bombers and those planes sent to defend British and Dutch possessions.

We know that Roosevelt, and Stimson, and Knox wanted this country to enter the war and worked steadily, both openly and in secret, to accomplish that end.

We know that they knew that we were going to be attacked; that they were warned several hours before the attack that it probably would be directed against Pearl Harbor and that nothing effective was done to warn the commanders in Hawaii. We know that even if they had not expected Hawaii to be surprised they could not escape knowing that Wake, Guam, and the Philippines were helpless in the face of attack.

We know that Oliver Lyttleton, the British cabinet minister, openly said after Pearl Harbor that the United States had "provoked" the attack by Japan.

Whatever details remain to be uncovered, the terrible crime of conspiracy against American lives is fully proved already, but it may take a fourth Pearl Harbor investigation to get the whole truth for the American people.

Mr. Hannegan, the Democratic national chairman, succeeded in vetoing the employment by the present committee of Hugh Fulton as its counsel. Fulton, as counsel for the Truman committee, showed himself to be too energetic for Chairman Hannegan's taste. Chairman Barkley even tried to prevent members of the committee from questioning any witnesses. It looks as if the whitewash has been mixed.

SOME COMMUNISTS CONFESS

The congressional committee on un-American activities, in its questioning of communist leaders, naturally didn't extract any admissions from them that they are working to overthrow the American government by violence, as they are.

The committee members, it is to be hoped, aren't so naïve as to have expected any such confession of criminality. They did, however, elicit from Earl Browder, former president of the Communist party; Benjamin C. Davis, party vice president, and John Stachel of the party newspaper, the Daily Worker, an admission that they are constantly preaching that Russia is the real champion of freedom in the world. All subscribed to the statement in Davis' campaign literature that: "The greatest, most powerful, and most dependable champion of freedom and equality for all peoples in the coalition known as the united nations is the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics."

That, by itself, is enough to make a case against every Communist in the United States. The viciousness of the American communist movement lies only half in the viciousness of communism itself, with, as it is practiced in Russia, its mass murders, its concentration camps, and its enslavement of the individual to the state and the hierarchy that runs the state. The American people are certainly under no illusions now as to how the Russian people live and are ruled. But what they sometimes fail to recognize is that every Communist in this country is, first and foremost, not an agent of communism per se, but an agent of the Russian government, whose primary object is to advance Russian foreign policy by activities within the United States.

The frantic scramble to reverse the Communist party line overnight, the facility with which the Communists turn on and turn off the spigots of vituperation and adulation as they are directed to do so by Moscow, is an old, old story. Every member of the Communist party in the United States should be registered with the state department as an agent of the Russian government, as the law requires.

A Communist is not only disloyal to the American form of government; he is disloyal to America itself. Browder and his comrades have so confessed. Russia owns them. Their confession could, in the hands of an administration devoted to the interests of this country, be made the means of deporting every foreign born Communist as a dangerous alien, and jailing every native born one as a traitor.

ABSENTEE MANAGEMENT

Perhaps it's only a coincidence that the strike in the oil industry in the Calumet area hasn't closed Standard of Indiana whose headquarters are here in Chicago, as close to Whiting as they can be. It may be only a coincidence, but there is a high inherent probability that it isn't. When a working force knows what the big boss looks like, it's hard to think of him as an ogre; and when the big boss is in close touch with his plant, petty tyrannies and injustices are frequently prevented before they lead to serious trouble.

It would be a fine thing for this country if it were the rule to establish the headquarters of a business at the center of its operations instead of in some distant city, commonly New York. Why should a western railroad nowadays have its main offices on Manhattan island, as many of them do? There was a good reason, once upon a time, when the railroads needed capital and New York was the place to get it from American banks or the agents of European banking houses. That excuse no longer is valid. The proper place for the top railroad executive today is not as close to the bankers as he can get, but as close to his operations as he can get. The great problem now is not how to get more loans but how to meet the competition of the planes, the trucks, and the buses. The place to solve today's problem is where the problem can be seen and studied at first hand.

Absentee management is bad for all concerned. It invites abuses by overzealous superintendents eager to make a record even at the expense of good labor relations and good customer relations. It leads, also, to unwise decisions at the top, resulting from an inadequate understanding of the problems and persons being dealt with. Many facts about a business can be gained by reading reports, but there is a great deal that can be learned best at first hand and an occasional visit isn't enough. When the head office is in New York, many opportunities will be missed for lack of authority to seize them and many mistakes will be made from failure to understand policies.

Some successful men think their careers have not been rounded out until they have set up shop in New York. That is one reason for absentee management in this country. Another is the ambition of the wives and daughters of these men to break into big time society. The price paid for gratifying these urges is a high one.

A CHANCE FOR MAYOR KELLY

The Woman's City club has invited other women's clubs and civic organizations to join it in investigating gross mismanagement and mistreatment of patients alleged to take place at the Municipal Tuberculosis sanatorium. The club has been promised the coöperation of a number of physicians of high standing in Chicago.

This action is a natural and expectable sequel to Mayor Kelly's appointment of a committee of restaurant men, headed by the former OPA administrator in Chicago, to look into the serving of food at the sanatorium. As we said at the time, this action was inadequate. Many abuses are alleged besides the poor quality of the food, and even restaurant proprietors are not authorities on proper diet for sick people.

With all respect for the energy and good intentions of the Woman's City club members and their collaborators, we doubt that much permanent good can come of their investigation. True, it will be better than nothing, since it may draw further attention to abuses at the sanatorium. But as one of the physicians advising the committee, Dr. George E. Wakerlin of the University of Illinois, said, the sanatorium has been the subject of nonofficial citizens' investigations before. The investigators uncovered deplorable conditions, but nothing was done to remedy them.

What is needed is an official investigation, with the coöperation and backing of the city administration. Mayor Kelly has a great opportunity for public service in arranging for such an investigation. It should, as we have said, be conducted primarily by experts from outside the Chicago area, to make certain that no local political prejudices influence its findings in any way.

The primary need at the M. T. S. is not the placing of blame on any person or persons. It is a cleanup of conditions there which will give the unfortunate patients a better chance for life.

MR. PEPYS IN SUSPENSE

29th Sept.—Have been in a dither over the baseball crisis and in a low state of mind over the equinoctial rains, but next week will be beaming and proclaiming that all's well with the world. For I have a book to be born come Friday, Oct. 5, and, of course, it is the Linebook 1945, with a fancy cover to catch the eye of the customers. Worked at it on my vacation, I did, to make sure it would be printed in time to reach the men in uniform overseas and elsewhere away from home, in Christmas packages.

In Chicago and vicinity it will be seen on the newsstands and in the bookshops, blooming like autumn flowers, and citizens hardly need to be told how to buy it. But the Linebook has many regular buyers who are scattered over the map, and they have already begun to write letters asking when and how. So here are the rules and regulations: Over the counter, 25 cents; by mail order, 30 cents; by order for overseas mailing to addresses supplied by purchaser, 40 cents. Mail orders should be sent to The Tribune Public Service office, 1 S. Dearborn st.

Dined among the literati the other night to hobnob with August Derleth, author and publisher of Sauk City, Wis. He is a merry soul who dotes upon tales of werewolves, vampires, ghouls, and wizards, and knows more about that branch of the writing trade than any man alive. Vincent Starrett, who has an equally great affection for the literature of crime, was also present, and so a fine, bloodcurdling evening was had by all.

Now for the Wildcats vs. Hoosiers—if the equinoctials have stopped.

She doesn't swagger, quiver, slink.

She doesn't get her peach bloom skin
From beauty shop, or drug store bin;
She doesn't reek of weird perfume
Intriguingly named "Fatal Doom";
She doesn't lace, she doesn't pad,
Or fall for every diet fad.

She doesn't take up with some lug
To rumba, conga, jitterbug;
She doesn't neck in campus cars,
Or hold hands in swank cocktail bars;
She doesn't drink, she doesn't smoke,
She isn't always saying "Oke."

Sixty Years After

Charles Newton French, claimant of the authorship of "Little Boy Blue" [Sept. 21], was in our shop recently. He says he wrote his "Boy Blue" in 1884. I asked him when it was printed for the first time and he replied, "In 1944." A mere 60 years later. He had no record of his original correspondence offering the poem to the News, nor the original mss., nor any other printing.

Charles H. Dennis says in "Eugene Field's Creative Years": "Field wrote it in bed one April night [1883] and read it to me as he reached the office the next morning. . . . I was enthusiastic about it, and his smiling satisfaction with the lines plainly told that he saw no way to improve them. However, as was his custom, he put the poem into his desk for further consideration. He had written it because he had promised Slason Thompson a poem for the first number of America, a weekly."

SISTER SHIPS

Where late upon the wide and shoreless sea
Of heaven, the burning frigate of the sun
Went down in flames, there moves resplendently
A fleet of vessels looming one by one
Upon the darkening tide, each galleon
Upon its course, serene and beautiful
With spars of silver and with silver hull.

O stars upon your vast, uncharted sea,
Fair sister ships of majesty and light,
So certain of the courses that you keep,
So sure of harbor at the end of night,
You teach the heart, a craft untried and slight,
To trust itself to waters strange and dark,
Who guides your fleet will steer the fragile bark.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks will answer questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents by mail if a stamped envelope is sent to 435 N. Michigan av. The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 S. Dearborn st., Superior 0200, gives personal interviews.]

Mrs. T. N. asks: "Can the allowance for a soldier's family be stopped if he is absent without leave? The father of my two children, for whom I had to request an allowance, was absent for five months. After he was returned to custody of the army, he was sentenced to prison for five years. No allowance has been paid to the children for a year. Why should they be penalized for the misconduct of their father?"

When a man in military service is absent for three months his family allowance for dependents is stopped because no pay accrues to him during the time he is absent. After the apprehension and trial by a general court martial which resulted in a five year sentence, which automatically carries the additional penalty of a dishonorable discharge and forfeiture of all pay and allowances, the soldier no longer had any pay status in the army. Therefore, because of his own misconduct, nothing could be deducted from his pay for his dependent children.

R. T. writes: "My son is divorcing a former WAC because she was married bigamously to another soldier four months ago. She says she returned her family allowance checks after the second marriage. How can my son get a refund of the $22 he has been contributing to her account monthly?"

He can't. After making an allotment toward the family allowance for his wife, the enlisted man must continue paying until the divorce is granted. He still is the legal husband, not the man married bigamously.

INVASION OF THE SCALP BY RINGWORM

RINGWORM of the scalp has received considerable publicity, especially during the last two years, and many victims have come to realize how stubborn the condition can be. Altho the cause is now well established, history tells us that old-timers had a battle royal over the finer points. The tiny parasites responsible for this fungous infection were first seen by Hooke in 1677—almost 200 years before we knew anything about bacteria. Using an ordinary magnifying lens, he discovered that certain yellowish spots on rose leaves could be traced to these spores.

Several varieties attack the hair. Of these, the microsporum group are the most frequent offenders. Unlike other species, they rarely invade the nails, skin, and the bearded regions. One variety can be acquired from young animals, especially kittens. The infestation is found chiefly in pre-adolescent children and, being contagious, may spread rapidly, particularly thru schools and institutions. Perhaps the habit of exchanging caps and mufflers in the course of play is to blame.

Once the organisms have gained access to the scalp, they advance until they find a hair follicle. Here they set up housekeeping, some living in the wall of the root itself; others actually penetrating the shaft. As the hair grows, it carries the fungus with it, out to the surface. Since the tufts are now weakened they become lusterless and brittle, breaking off at the slightest injury.

Patchy distribution of the lesions is characteristic and bald spots may develop which exhibit stubble. This differs from other scalp disorders in which the tresses are shed completely. The fungi which remain in the follicles can also do damage; the area may become red and covered with scales. A small proportion of victims may display angry, elevated, doughy, painful eruptions.

Should the ailment be neglected, practically the whole scalp can be involved. In the average untreated case the infection may continue for several years and, in time, the "bugs" lose their virulence and die out gradually. Occasionally spontaneous cure will take place at puberty. The hair usually grows back but may not be as thick as the remainder of the crop.

Because of its contagious nature, determined attempts at eradication must be made. Epidemics can be controled by daily inspection of all children of school age. Every section should be studied carefully and, if necessary, viewed under ultraviolet light which has passed thru a Wood's filter. The diseased locks shine with a greenish-white fluorescence which is in sharp contrast to normal. Suspected hairs can be removed and analyzed under the microscope.

Clipping will not eliminate the parasites from their hideout but it does facilitate treatment with various ointments. Loose hairs and crusts can be removed by daily shampooing. The wearing of a skullcap may aid in preventing transfer of the organisms to others. In many instances, fungicides are effective and preparations containing ammoniated mercury, sulfur, iodine, or thymol are those most frequently used. In stubborn cases, X-ray is demanded. This causes the hair to fall out temporarily but, in two to four months, regrowth begins.

REPLY

None that I know of but you might try giraffe meat.

—From "How to Keep Well."

O, Doctor Van Dellen,
What's this you're tellin'
Your patient to go and do?
Eat the forward half
Of a fried giraffe,
Or the rest of the creature, too?

For the vertical graph
Of the freak giraffe
Tells a terrifying story:
Tho quite high-fronted,
He's horribly stunted
When viewed a posteriori.

O, do not feast
On this malformed beast
Which, it is true, possesses
A lofty mind,
But its low behind
Disheartens and depresses.

Should your patient take
A chop or steak
From the upper elevation,
Or choose a ham
From the left rear gam—
After due consideration?

I've instinctive fear
Of food so queer;
And I'd bet a dime or quarter
That even a midget,
Thus fed, might fidget

Is Mr. Wallace Present?

I wish to congratulate you upon your publication of the sketch found among the personal effects of Halifax Gadley's departed Japanese houseboy. After a little research I have come to the conclusion that the drawing actually is a rather complete, if crude, copy of an ancient chart, dating back, perhaps, to the Arthurian alchemist, Merlin [not to be confused with Irving Merlin]. The existence of the sketch proves, mirabile dictu, that the old wizard [sometimes foolishly connected with Oz] did really achieve his fission ambition; for the drawing definitely indicates a method for transmuting a base metal [nipponeseum] into Goldberg [classification Rubecan]. This immensely important contribution to nuclear [or, more specifically, notsoclear] physics should be called immediately to the attention of Henry Agrarian Wallace [hybrid high priest of the come-on man].

COUNTERFEITING

Oshkosh, Wis., Sept. 23—The right "to coin money and regulate the value thereof" for the United States is given exclusively to congress by the Constitution.

If there is anything to the rumor that Russia asked for and was either loaned the original plates, or duplicate plates, from which the currency used in Germany is printed, and that they are now printing currency by the bale, buying up everything desired in their part of Germany, and paying for the same with this currency, price no object, we might ask who had the opportunity, had the audacity, and took the liberty to make this grant to Russia, and did they make similar grants to other nations or individuals?

Russia has not confined her purchases to her own territory but has poached on American territory, and has even been buying up items from American soldiers, such as watches, fountain pens, etc., at prices such as $500 for a cheap watch. The American soldier may think he made a good sale, but he is giving his watch away because he, and the rest of us, have to pay for that watch sooner or later in taxes to redeem American exchange bought with that same currency.

GAINERS BY INFLATION

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 20—Cannot labor see that it is being misled in the current campaign for 30 per cent wage increases—that extra money in the pay envelope is only worth what it will buy at the market place, and that large wage increases are certain to be reflected in corresponding price increases? The only true increases in earnings are those that come from greater efficiency in production, and these can only be passed on in gradual wage increases, as they are proved, or in lower prices.

But the important result is that the purchasing value of war bonds, savings accounts, and insurance policies decreases, and where will be all those savings that war workers have been putting aside for new automobiles, washing machines, homes, and so on? The average wage earner, if this CIO increase goes thru, will be exactly even on what his wages will buy, but he will lose 30 per cent of the value of his war bonds and other savings.

Who will gain? Not labor, nor the country as a whole. If anybody gains it will be certain big businesses which have large bond issues and bank loans outstanding. This borrowed money could be paid back at 70 cents on the dollar if the CIO had its way. Is labor leadership really working for the worker or it working for the big financiers?

"MISTREATED" WAR WORKERS

Paris, Ill., Sept. 17—President Truman's message to congress seems to indicate that the poor war time factory worker has been terribly mistreated. In fact, he seems to indicate that he has been more mistreated than our fighting men by the fact that he is agreeable to having the government pay $20 a week to the service man while unemployed and $25 a week to the war worker. I suppose that the service man should have saved more from his $50 a month than the war worker from his $1 to $3 an hour.

SOLDIERS BRAND DISCHARGE PLAN 'OLD ARMY GAME'

Stalling Laid to Brass Hat Ambitions

BY GUY GENTRY
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Harvard, Neb., Sept. 28—The desire of generals and colonels to maintain their temporary high rank and army red tape are blamed by many officers and enlisted men at the Harvard air base here for what they describe as a near breakdown in the army discharge system.

Nearly 6,000 men are stationed here, altho there were only about 3,000 in war time. Most of them are going thru a repetition of activities that rival a WPA project in uselessness. Conditions prevailing at the Harvard base, the soldiers insist, are common in many others of the 38 bases and fields of the 2d air force scattered over the plains states and the southwest.

Among those at the base are many men with enough points for discharge, a larger number with enough points to halt overseas service unless they volunteer, and a smaller number with only a few months' service.

Some Back from Overseas

Some have been returned from the 15th air force in Italy for redeployment. Others finished their B-29 training last January and have been shifted about since, going thru the "checking out" process repeatedly.

From these varied elements attempts are being made to form a B-29 group. The breakup of the group is rumored almost constantly. Its death knell was near a number of times, but each time Col. A. R. Walker, the group's commanding officer, has hopped into a B-17, rushed to Washington or to the 2d air force headquarters, and saved it.

Some officers say they would like to stay in the army if given assurance of some permanence even at a lower rank, but the regular army so far has made no offer of permanent commissions to any reserve officers. The reserves charge this policy is part of the West Point group's plan to keep control of the army.

Reject Extended Duty

Reserve officers in the 2d air force recently were asked to sign slips agreeing to "extended active duty." Most of the officers interpreted this agreement as waiving their rights to decline overseas duty. In one squadron only 23 out of 108 officers signed.

The officers say the army discharge schedule has been revised, amended, and changed so often that hardly any of them know exactly where they stand.

Officers say confusion is increased thru the overlapping jurisdictions and varied interpretations of orders by army air forces, the over-all organization; continental air forces, which has charge of training in the United States, and 2d air forces, which has charge of all B-29 operations in the United States. They contend the 2d air force is overstaffed with higher ranking officers because of the return of so many European flyers who rose rapidly because of war missions.

10 Colonels for Every Job

They tell of a colonel who rushed to the personnel officer to ask what happened to his group, which disappeared while he was on a weekend flight; and the personnel officer's reply that "you'll have to wait your turn; we've got at least 10 colonels for every job."

Col. William Lewis Jr., Harvard base commander, admits there is more confusion now than ever before, but insists that administrative work has increased many times. He said he was having plenty of trouble and assumed "they are also having trouble in Washington." The revised discharge point schedule that Gen. Marshall announced in Washington Sept. 20 reached Col. Lewis by official channels Sept. 26.

Few have a word of praise for the point discharge system. Enlisted men, as wary as officers of giving their names for fear of reprisal, are almost unanimous in condemning the plan or the methods by which it is being administered.

"No System at All"

Harvard is not a separation center and no discharges are given there except to men reënlisting. Furloughs and leaves are difficult to obtain, the men complain, and they are forced to remain at a base where they say not one man in 200 is of any value to the army.

"The point system is no discharge system at all," said a tall, sandy haired sergeant who was willing to talk anonyously. "It is the old army game for keeping us in a little longer.

"I've been in the army four years," he explained. "I've been kept in the United States so I haven't enough points for discharge but too many for overseas. As I see the point system, it was to let those with the longest service and who did the most fighting out first.

"How am I helping the soldier over in Europe by staying in the army over here? The answer is: I'm not. I'm just helping the brass hats maintain their rank."

Enlisted men are alarmed by statements in Washington that the unemployment total by next spring —when they expect to be discharged —will be in the millions. If they cannot be discharged now, they would like furloughs of 30 or 60 days so they can go home.

WAR I. FLYERS FETE GAINES ON NEW NAVY POST

Capt. Richard K. Gaines, former commanding officer at the Glenview naval air training station and recently deputy chief of naval air technical training, was entertained last night in Hotel Sherman by the World War Naval Aviators' association.

Capt. Gaines, now on leave, will take command of the naval training school at Pensacola, Fla. He and his wife and their four children formerly lived in Evanston.

A chest of silverware was presented to Capt. Gaines by the Glenview personnel and other friends. He is a veteran of 20 years in the navy and has served in the Pacific area for the last two years.

SGT. BUERGER, 63, GIVEN $100 BOND FOR FAREWELL

Employes in Commissioner Allman's office bade farewell yesterday to Sgt. Fred Buerger, who will be retired today under the 63 year age law after 20 years in the office and 36 years in service. He was given a $100 war bond. Allman was among those who wished him good luck.

Buerger served under five chiefs in the city hall. He helped break up a bank and tavern robbery gang headed by Jack [Three Fingers] White in the early '20s.

The sergeant lives at 840 N. Lockwood av. Asked if he would accept another public service job, Buerger said, "Nix." He'd been fighting crime for 36 years and that was enough.

SECRET RESCUE UNIT SAVES 898 FLYERS IN CHINA

CHUNGKING, China, Sept. 28 (AP)—The air-ground aid section of United States army forces in China, a group whose secret activities reached from the Gobi desert to the valleys of southern Asia, rescued 898 airmen from Japanese-held territory.

The service made the chance of escape a 9 to 1 bet if the airman survived his crash or bail-out in enemy territory. It also developed into a far reaching intelligence organization, which fed target data to American air forces. Espionage activities grew out of the original task of surveillance of Japanese camps.

Like other larger hush-hush American organizations from which the security lid has been lifted the record of air-ground aid section is replete with melodramatic material.

Japs Start Rumors

Lt. Col. A. R. Wichtrich of Wilcox, Ariz., who has just won the Legion of Merit decoration for his work as head of the section, said that while the records cite many instances of Japanese cruelty, there were no authenticated cases of atrocities such as burning men alive, beheading, crucifying, or maiming.

Wichtrich expressed belief the Japanese may have deliberately circulated rumors of such treatment for American airmen in hope that fear would reduce the flyers' combat efficiency.

"The Japanese liked to parade their prisoners thru Chinese towns for effect on the Chinese, and may actually have started rumors of cruel treatment hoping the tales would get back to American ears," he said.

Japs Shoot Rescuer

This doesn't mean the Japanese weren't cruel, as demonstrated in the example of one of air-ground section's own men, Capt. Henry C. Whittelsy of Philadelphia, captured in North China while he was trying to bring out a fallen B-29 crew. The Japanese snatched him away from communist guerrillas and shot him when the guerrillas counter-attacked. Whittelsy was awarded the distinguished service cross posthumously. The B-29 airmen escaped.

Another case was that of a fighter pilot who suffered brain concussion when he cracked up in an attack on Hanoi, Indo-China. He was confined in a Hanoi hospital where the Japanese got a nurse, a European woman, to tell the deranged man stories that his wife had been unfaithful, his brother killed, and his home burned.

Escape in Plot

In the hospital at the same time was another American, Lt. Elmo Hessler, navigator of a B-25 bomber. Hessler fell 30 feet from his crashing plane and survived.

Agents arranged with sympathetic members of the hospital staff to keep Hessler and the fighter pilot in the hospital until the stage was set for their escape. This took about a month, in which a doctor showed the Japanese a fake X-ray picture of Hessler's injuries to keep them from removing him to a prison camp. At last, word was passed to the men to leave the hospital by night and take refuge at a place in Hanoi.

After their escape from the hospital, rescue agents circulated reports that the two Americans were headed for the Chinese border. The Japanese scurried to try to catch them there. When the excitement died down, Hessler and the pilot easily made their way to Haiphong and crossed the border into China.

60,000,000 HONORED GUESTS

They're still going places—these men and women in Uncle Sam's uniforms. Many are still on their way to help enforce the peace. Others, happily, are returning from long and dangerous service.

Since February, 1942, when Surface Lines inaugurated its policy of carrying service men and women without charge on Sundays and holidays—and during non-rush hours on other days—we have enjoyed the company of more than 60,000,000 guest riders.

If this policy of ours has helped ease the burdens of war for those who sacrifice so much, that is all the reward we ask for our contribution.

During this time we have moved Chicago's war workers to and from their essential posts. Upwards of 4,000,000 rides a day have been handled by Surface Lines' street cars and buses. To move this busy army, your neighbors who operate CSL have been working extra hours, giving up days of rest.

Now—with Victory—our responsibilities do not lessen. As Chicagoans turn their energy to constructive peacetime industry, CSL street cars and buses will continue to transport them to and from their jobs.

And—Chicago Surface Lines will keep pace with our return to better living. New and modern equipment is already ordered—and is now in production. Loyal CSL workers will soon have the extra help they need to give you swifter, more convenient and more comfortable service.

While we are still striving to relieve present service inadequacies, every member of our big Chicago Surface Lines family says: "Thanks a million for your patience and understanding."

FAMILY HIRES DETECTIVES IN HORWITZ DEATH

No Suicide Evidence Is Found in Effects

Study of the business and personal affairs of Theodore Horwitz, 42, of 567 Roscoe st., wealthy real estate operator and plastering firm executive whose mangled body was found last Saturday night outside a north side hotel, yesterday heightened the mystery of his death.

Horwitz gave testimony in a civil suit in 1940 that led to the exposure of bribery in construction of the $8,300,000 Herman Gardens federal housing project in Detroit, Mich.

Criminal action after his disclosures led to the imprisonment of three Detroit councilmen and two Chicago contractors on charges of conspiracy to bribe.

Family Employs Detectives

No one saw Horwitz leap or fall from the hotel, and a coroner's jury was unable to determine how he had been killed. His personal attorney, Lawrence West, 1 N. La Salle st., who also represents the Belsan Plastering company, 407 S. Dearborn st., of which Horwitz was secretary, said a thoro investigation of his affairs disclosed no evidence that Horwitz ended his life.

Private detectives have been employed by the family to study the mystery, West said.

A survey of Horwitz's business records showed that his affairs were in order and that he was prospering, the attorney said. On Monday a check for $17,000, Horwitz's profit on a real estate transaction, reached his office.

Horwitz recently completed purchase of a north side building for $285,000 and already had received bids far in excess of that amount for resale, West said.

No Will Among Effects

No will was found among Horwitz's effects, a circumstance that supported other evidence that he did not contemplate ending his life, West asserted. Relatives and friends said he was closely attached to his wife, Lillian, and their children, Donald, 8, and Lois, 7, and that he would have left definite instructions for their welfare if he had expected to die.

A number of telephone calls from New York for Horwitz received last week by Miss Gladys Jordan Carr, operator of a secretarial and telephone service at 407 S. Dearborn st., while he was away from his office were explained by Atty. West. He said the calls related to a transaction with a New York firm.

Follows Usual Custom

In her home yesterday, Mrs. Horwitz related that she and her husband returned from an automobile ride at 9 p. m. Saturday. Before taking the car to a nearby garage, she said, he removed his wallet and most of his valuables and put on a jacket. This was his usual custom before garaging the car for the night, she said.

"He was a wonderful husband," Mrs. Horwitz said. "I know of no reason why he would take his life or why any one would want to harm him."

She said she and her husband had never been to the Eastgate hotel and that she had never heard him mention it.

880 ENGLEWOOD PUPILS REMAIN OUT OF CLASSES

Absenteeism among white pupils at Englewood High school rose to 880 yesterday, Principal Joseph C. Thompson, disclosed. This increase more than quadrupled the number who stayed away the preceding day in an effort to compel segregation of Negro pupils. These figures are exclusive of normal absences.

Thirty white pupils called on George F. Cassell, assistant superintendent of schools, and were told that segregation was illegal. He ordered them to return to classes. They declared they would not. Meantime, mimeographed notices were distributed at Morgan Park High school, urging pupils to follow Englewood.

During the day Mayor Kelly received a delegation from the Chicago Council Against Racial and Religious Discrimination. He assured them the Englewood incident was basically a prank, and would end of itself. Today at 2 p. m. a conference of educators and others, headed by Ira Latimer of the Civil Liberties league, wil meet in the Blackstone hotel to discuss the situation.

WLB APPROVES WAGE SCHEDULE FOR FOOD CHAIN

Five hundred National Tea company store managers, members of local 1555, Retail Clerks International Protective association [AFL], were granted a guaranteed wage of $45 a week plus commissions yesterday by the war labor board, William G. Brown, regional WLB chairman, announced.

Arthur Swanson, international officer of the union, said the company had approved and put into effect the new wage schedule.

The WLB approved payment of 1½ per cent commission on grocery and produce sales between $1,000 and $3,000; ½ per cent on sales between $3,000 and $5,000, and ¼ per cent on sales above $5,000, provided that no total salary exceeds $110 a week.

Cupid Takes Over

Cupid took over Judge Matthew D. Hartigan's Felony court yesterday in the case of Miss Florence Gross, 19, of Detroit, Mich., charged with grand larceny. She was arrested for taking clothes valued at $120 from the home of Mrs. Anna Dustin, 647 Barry av., where she was a maid.

In court Miss Gross' sweetheart, Bernard Fluaitt, 26, of Whitewater, Mich., former veteran, now employed as a truck driver, said he had hitchhiked from Indianapolis, Ind., when he learned Miss Gross had been arrested.

Fluaitt said he and Miss Gross met two weeks ago and that their meeting was a case of love at first sight. He said they planned to marry next week. Miss Gross said she had no money or nice clothes and that was why she took the clothing belonging to Mrs. Dustin.

Judge Hartigan dismissed the larceny charge. Court attaches pitched in $23 for the couple.

PUPILS' STRIKE AT GARY BACKED BY 400 PARENTS

Claim School Board Plays Politics

More than 400 parents of striking pupils of the Froebel school in Gary met last night and voted to support their children and not to send them back to school. At the same time they accused the Gary school board of playing politics.

The strike began Sept. 18 against the increasing enrollment of Negroes in the school. Of the total enrollment of 2,200 in grade and high school, 880 are Negroes. It was estimated yesterday that 500 pupils were on strike and that scores of other pupils were being kept home by their parents pending settlement of the dispute.

Discrimination Charged

Last night's meeting was the first of parents. They assembled in the Spanish Castle, a hall at 11th av. and Van Buren st., Gary. Speakers charged that the white pupils, rather than the Negroes, were being discriminated against.

One speaker asserted that Negroes living in other school districts were being concentrated at Froebel. To be fair, he said, the school board should require attendance at schools within their respective residential zones. Otherwise, he added, the zoning system should be abandoned.

Board's View Called Weak

Another speaker said that the school board's attitude in the matter was weak and shaped by political considerations.

The parents finally decided to back up their children by permitting them to remain away from school. They voted also to form a committee to deal with school authorities. Another meeting will be held tomorrow night.

In meetings with school officials, pupil spokesmen have urged a separate school for the Negroes, but they were informed that state laws prevent any such type of segregation.

GUEST IN HOTEL ROBBED OF $100 BY 'INSPECTOR'

Five minutes after Richard Ellis, 50, a representative of the Packard Motor company, Detroit, Mich., checked in and was taken to a 21st floor room in the Stevens hotel last night, a neatly attired young man knocked at his door and said he had been sent to inspect the plumbing.

Annoyed, Ellis proceeded to wash his hands and face as the "inspector" banged on pipes. Finally, the intruder, with one hand in a coat pocket, tapped Ellis and told him to hand over his wallet. Ellis did as directed, the man took five $20 bills, returned the wallet with $19, and said, "I'm sorry, but I need the money."

On the way out, the robber took Ellis' watch and topcoat, then locked him in a clothes closet. After hotel attendants had been disturbed by noise in the guest's room, they came and released him. They told Ellis that they did not know "the inspector."

HOME LOOTED BY BURGLARS

Burglars looted his home of furnishings valued at $477, Peter W. Peterson, 8345 S. Loomis st., reported to police yesterday.

BROKE EACH OTHER'S BONES TO DODGE JAP SLAVERY, GI REVEALS

American soldiers who were prisoners of the Japanese frequently broke each other's hands and arms and induced chronic leg ulcers with strong lime to escape the nearly always fatal slavery in the Japanese coal and copper mines on Kyushu, Marine Pvt. John S. Kliss, 34, of 2417 21st st., said yesterday.

Pvt. Kliss, who returned recently but was unable to tell his story before because of censorship, has an improperly healed fracture of his left hand and a deep ulcer scar on his ankle. He said he kept the ulcer active for months to remain on the hospital list.

Even broken bones failed to deter the Japanese occasionally, Kliss said. If they thought the fractures intentional, he said, the Japs would send the victims to the mines anyway. Death usually was the result of work in the mines, he said, because of the amount of work required and the food.

TRANSIT BOARD HEARS OF NEW GAINS IN DEAL

Members of the Chicago metropolitan transit authority, which proposes to buy and operate the surface and elevated lines under public ownership, were told yesterday by Chairman Philip Harrington that substantial agreement had been reached on price of the surface lines, but that many details were still to be ironed out with investor groups.

Under the suggested arrangement, the investors would get about 87 million dollars: 75 millions from the authority and 12 millions from funds in the lines' treasury. Elevated bond holders would receive 12 millions plus and retain real estate valued at two millions more.

Among details mentioned by Harrington were injury and pension funds, retroactive pay raises, the waiving of compensation by the city of Chicago, buying of current supplies from the lines, and assumption of present contracts. A hearing on traction matters will be held in the federal District court of Judge Michael L. Igoe Monday.

TAVERN ROBBER SENT TO PRISON FOR 3 TO 5 YEARS

Despite the pleas of his parents and a group of marines, Raymond Goralski, 18, of 3735 Nordica av., was sentenced yesterday by Judge Julius H. Miner in Criminal court to serve from 3 to 5 years in prison for armed robbery. Goralski was accused of being the leader of a gang of tavern bandits.

The marines said they had served overseas with Goralski's brother and asked for leniency for Raymond. "I appreciate what you boys are trying to do," Judge Miner answered, "but Raymond was not in service and even if he were I would have to punish him for what he has done.

"If I didn't send him to the penitentiary for his crimes, I might just as well declare a Roman holiday and close the courtroom. Society must be protected."

PORTER WOUNDS VISITOR

12 ARE PAROLED AFTER LOOTING VETS' BAGGAGE

Twelve teen age boys accused of stealing war souvenirs from the luggage of soldiers and sailors in the baggage room of the Union station were placed on probation for three years yesterday by Federal Judge William J. Campbell. The boys were employed in the baggage room.

The defendants were: Edward W. Mesik, 17, of 3139 S. Karlov av.; Patrick D. Bonfield, 16, of 2128 S. Ridgeway av.; Loren D. Ekl, 17, of 2345 Millard av.; Richard J. Preisler, 17, of 2447 S. Ridgeway av.; Merlin F. Krawczyk, 17, of 2529 S. St. Louis av.; Donald K. Lesak, 16, of 2403 S. Hamlin av.; Chester P. Olocki, 17, of 4146 Kenmore av.; Howard Risk, 17, of 1605 S. Homan av.; Richard M. Pederson, 17, of 3025 George st.; George S. Jarke, 16, of 1320 N. Claremont av.; Norbert Fiedler, 16, of 3654 N. Whipple st., and Frank J. Votava Jr., 17, of 1815 Wisconsin av., Berwyn.

Bernard Sokol, assistant United States attorney, said stolen property valued at $1,500 was recovered in the homes of the boys and in their lockers at the station.

THE COMPLETE STORY OF THE ATOMIC BOMB

A SERIES OF SIX ARTICLES WRITTEN BY A MAN WHO WITNESSED THE PIONEER EXPERIMENTS ON THE WORLD'S MOST TERRIBLE WEAPON

beginning in the Sept. 30 issue of

THE AMERICAN WEEKLY

Greatest Circulation in the World

The Broken Atom—and Our Destiny

Long Sought, an Incredibly Vast New Source of Energy, Now Released, Promises Permanent Peace and an Infinitely Better Life for Everyone

Key Figure in Atomic Research—Lise Meitner, a Refugee From Hitler's Reich, Whose Calculations Opened New Vistas.

WHAT of the atom bomb and atomic energy? Will evil genius probe their secrets and bring destruction to all of us, or will they be harnessed for the welfare of us all?

Today we are on the threshold of the atomic age.

What scientists see from this vantage point is the subject of this series of articles by Robert D. Potter, Science Editor of The American Weekly, the first of which appears here today.

Mr. Potter witnessed the pioneer experiments which brought the atom bomb into being. He knows as personal friends the men who did these experiments, and he is able now to reveal what physicists foresee as their possibilities.

Readers of these articles will learn the full, stirring story of all that has been done to bring atomic energy to its present stage, and they will be told plainly what can be expected of the future.

by ROBERT D. POTTER
Science Editor

NOW that we have the atomic bomb, it seems only natural to dream once in a while at night, or even by day, that world-wide destruction—the end of the human race—lies just ahead.

It seems natural to dream, too, that perhaps, instead, a new and wonderful industrial era is almost here.

But it is more practical to be awake—and see clearly.

The plain truth is that atomic energy is not going to bring to pass either chaos or huge benefits right away.

It can't, and the reason is simple.

First, because the only chemical elements from which scientists up to now have obtained much atomic energy are too scarce, too expensive to purify, and too hard to control.

Indeed one of them is man-made and does not exist in nature at all.

Second, because scientists, don't know yet how to release any great amount of atomic energy from anything except those chemical elements which are rare uranium and plutonium.

So much for the immediate future. What lies in store a little farther on is another story. It is one that permits more than guesswork. There is a sound basis of fact on which to build predictions.

Here are five such predictions of the shape of things to come:

1—Scientists will be able to develop the destructive forces of the atomic bomb. Coupled with an improved V-2 rocket, it will be a weapon so terrible that its mere existence will make out-of-date all the present methods of waging war. In fact, it will be a means of destruction so fearful that all the people of the world will find that peace isn't just something deeply desired. They will see it as a necessity to avoid their own end on this planet.

2—Let's presume the same vast amount of research know-how and money that has gone into the atomic bomb in the last five years is put into development of the idea of releasing atomic energy in the next 10 years. If it is, scientists will be able to release and control atomic energy for some peaceful and useful purposes. Probably it first will be used for such special purposes as rocket flight, for it will not be cheap.

3—Now look ahead for, perhaps, 20 years. Within that time scientists will be able to use substances besides uranium as sources of atomic energy. They will learn how to extract tremendous amounts of energy from tiny amounts of materials as common as rock, air and water, just as The American Weekly predicted 21 years ago. The cost, with the source-substance at hand everywhere, will be very small.

4—Atomic power then will be so cheap that civilization throughout the world will be changed. There will be truly a revolution in the great industries that generate electric power and those that provide means of transportation. Many of the ways of living will be as different for people in every part of the civilized world as today's ways are different from those of 1700 when James Watt invented his steam engine.

5—New wars will break out only if one thing now unforeseen happens—if scientists learn how to make something to offset the atomic bomb. Until they do that, the human race, fearful of destroying itself, will stay at peace.

THESE wonders which are coming up in the future, and the awful marvel of the atomic bomb of the present, are the result of scientists' search for what used to be regarded as their most fantastic dream. That ambition—to split open the tiny particles of matter called atoms.

Atoms are in all matter. Together, they are the building blocks of the universe. While of anything there are only one of the 92 chemical elements which atoms have been able to build, each is composed of its own particular kind of atoms.

They used to think of atoms as the smallest particles of matter, "the building blocks of the universe." Several hundred millions of them placed side by side would measure less than one inch.

But now scientists know that each infinitesimal atom is itself a kind of miniature solar system.

Within each atom is a tiny central heavy particle (the nucleus). Whirling around the core are two other kinds of particles called the protons and neutrons. Around the core move tiny satellites, as our planets move around the sun. These outer spinning satellites are the electrons.

It is the core of the atom which fired the imagination of physicists from the time it was discovered. For it was conceived as a packet of tremendous energy in almost unbelievably concentrated form.

The great challenging problem became the question of how to break up that concentration, how to get the energy out and use it.

Not all atoms are alike. That had to be kept in mind at the start. Some are small, in their way, and fairly simple. Others, in their ways, are large and complicated.

The atoms of uranium, for example, are the largest and most complicated of all. Uranium is the heaviest of the elements. While the atoms of hydrogen, the lightest of elements, are small and simple. A billion billion hydrogen atoms weigh only an ounce.

BUT the uranium atom, although complicated, bared the atoms. It was tedious, baffling work, but the stakes were beyond calculation.

They fought on in their laboratories, but in their quest of atomic energy they were a thwarted army. Yet occasionally as they shot invisible sub-atomic "bullets" at the invisible cores of still other atoms they did make hits. When they did they got little spurts of energy, but no giant effect that they were searching for.

STILL: in the battle against these atomic forces, they made "minor" gains. One was the ability to transmute the elements—one with another—and do it on a scale that had great potential benefit for medical research. Transmutation of the elements had been the dream of alchemists for centuries, but when scientists at last accomplished it, it seemed a minor thing alongside the utopia that could come when the energy of the atoms could be released and harnessed.

Then scientists got a new "bullet." It was the new atomic particle—the neutron—discovered by Prof. James Chadwick of England. As its name hints it is electrically neutral. Protons always bear a positive electrical charge, electrons are always negative. But the neutron, being neither attracted nor repelled by either was able to slip into the strongest electric fields of the atoms and disrupt and change their structure.

Through the 1930's, as the war approached, scientists bombarded every element known to man with these neutrons. In the end, just as the war was about ready to break, they bombarded uranium with the neutrons too and found it could not only be nicked, but split in half.

There are several kinds of uranium, each designated by its number, which is fixed by the number of its protons and neutrons. Most of the uranium in the world is U-238. Allied types are called U-234 and U-235.

Now it is known that the Allied scientists not only found U-235 an excellent subject for attack; they also found that they were able to make an entirely different substance which served their purpose better.

This they obtained by work on the most common type of uranium. They transmuted a part of it into a new man-made element, which they called neptunium. The neptunium, thus obtained, quickly changed itself into another new element, which they called plutonium.

Plutonium, like U-235, is unstable. It is continually breaking up, tiny bit by bit. It was this instability that made it just what the scientists wanted as a substance they believed could be smashed, its atoms dividing one by one, and with each division releasing incalculable energy.

(Next week The American Weekly will describe the pioneer experiment in splitting the uranium atom and give an eye-witness account of the scenes at the famous Washington laboratory of Carnegie Institution, where the two famous Nobel Prize winners, Niels Bohr of Denmark and Enrico Fermi of Italy, first set American scientists on the trail to success. It is the trail which in six years permitted Allied experts to release atomic energy for war and for peace.)

RALLY DAY SET FOR RELIGIOUS EDUCATION WEEK

President Truman Urges Spiritual Training

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS

Tomorrow will be rally day in many Protestant Sunday schools. It will inaugurate the 15th annual religious education week sponsored by the International Council of Religious Education which represents 40 denominations and 183 local, state, and provincial councils.

Synagogs tomorrow will observe the annual children's harvest festival, when gifts of food are placed on the altar for distribution among the needy.

President Urges Study

In a recent letter to Dr. Roy G. Ross, general secretary of the international council, 203 N. Wabash av., President Truman urged the council to use its extensive coöperative enterprise to foster and extend religious education among the nation's children.

"The 15th annual religious education week is a national event of significance," the President's letter said. "At a time when stars hang in the windows of the nation's homes to honor the absent warriors; when millions of Americans live in temporary homes, . . . it is important to urge that the religious education of the country's children be fostered and extended. It is likely that there are millions of youngsters who need initial and basic religious instruction.

Religion Gains Attention

"Chaplains with our armed forces report constantly on the increased interest in religion among our fighting men. On the home front, too, there is increasing attention to religion. Probably never before in our history have our people shown such deep and abiding faith."

Dr. Ross, who said yesterday that there are 14 million youths in the country not receiving religious instruction, announced that at least 90 per cent of American Protestantism, as represented in the council, will take part in community observances of the week.

Truman Orders Censor's Office Abolished Nov. 15

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28 (AP)—President Truman today issued a formal order abolishing the office of censorship as of Nov. 15. The office has been in the process of liquidation since soon after V-J day.

Religious News Notes

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. George J. Casey, J.C.D., vicar general of the archdiocese, will be celebrant at the 11th annual Red mass at noon tomorrow in Holy Name cathedral sponsored by the Catholic Lawyers guild of Chicago. The Rev. Edward V. Dailey, chaplain to the guild, will preach. This service honors St. Thomas More and St. Ives, patrons of the legal profession, and marks the opening of the law courts. . . A victory thanksgiving service will be held at 4:30 p. m. tomorrow in St. Stephen's Episcopal church, 3533 N. Albany av. It will be attended by American Indians of the city and the Rev. Irwin St. John Tucker, rector, will offer a memorial for those Indians killed in action. . . . A local Youth for Christ campaign will open at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow in Lorimer Memorial Baptist church, 7300 St. Lawrence av., the Rev. I. Cedric Peterson, minister. Meetings will be held every afternoon thru Oct. 5, led by Mel Johnson and Bill Bihl, and with Johnny Hallett as song leader. . . . The Catholic club of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago will meet Monday night in Grace church, Oak Park, the Rev. Dr. Harold Holt, rector. The Rev. Darwin Kirby Jr., St. Luke's, Evanston, will speak at the dinner. The Very Rev. Alden Drew Kelley, dean of Seabury-Western theological seminary, will preach at Evensong. His theme will be theological education. . . . For the conclusion of Succoth in Emanuel congregation, 701 Buckingham pl., Dr. Felix A. Levy will conduct a consecration service for children attending the religious school for the first time.

Marking the observance of national newspaper week which begins Monday, Bishop J. Ralph Magee of the Methodist church, Chicago area, paid tribute to the press for its coöperation, saying: "The public owes a debt of gratitude to our American newspapers. Democracy is greatly advanced thru the news medium. The Crusade for Christ in the Methodist church was immeasurably aided by newspapers." Bishop Magee is national director of the crusade. . . . Brigadier Dallas Leader, territorial youth secretary for the Salvation army, announced there were more than 1,000 entrants from the 11 central states for the annual speaking contest of whom 200 are Chicagoans. Finals will be held Nov. 10 at the Temple corps, 1512 W. Madison st. . . . The annual concert for the Century male chorus on Wednesday night in the First Congregational church, Ashland and Washington blvds., will be a benefit for the Evangelical home for children and aged, at Bensenville, the Rev. Alvin J. Munsterman, superintendent, announced. Sponsor of the concert is the Evangelical men's auxiliary of northern Illinois, William Schug, president. The chorus, numbering 40, will be conducted by the Rev. Siegfried A. Recht, pastor of Trinity, 2200 N. Damen av. . . . The Rt. Rev. Msgr. James J. Horsburgh, archdioceson director of the society for the propagation of the faith, will present the missionary mandatum to the Rev. James W. Cox, S.J., and the Rev. Daniel T. Rice, S.J., at 4 p. m. tomorrow in St. Ignatius church, 6550 Glenwood av. A reception to the new missionaries who are assigned to the Patna missions, India, will be held in the school hall, 1300 Loyola av.

The Very Rev. Edward L. Hughes, O. P., prior and pastor of St. Pius church, announces that the Dominican fathers will erect a $200,000 building on the site of the present priory, Ashland av. and 19th st., which will be the headquarters of the Dominican order in the middle west. It will be a four story structure with parish offices and confraternity centers, chapel and refectory, and living quarters for 26 Dominicans on the upper floors. The new priory will also be headquarters of the shrine of St. Jude Thaddeus. . . . The Veterans of Foreign Wars, in conjunction with the 46th national encampment, will hold their annual memorial service on Monday night in Orchestra hall. Thomas McGuffey, chief of staff, Illinois department, made the announcement. The Rev. Patrick Lydon, national chaplain, will conduct the service. The eulogy on the Spanish war and World War I. will be delivered by Dr. Jacob Singer, Temple Mizpah; that on World War II. by the Rev. Dr. Harrison Ray Anderson, Fourth Presbyterian church.

Rabbi Morris Gutstein, Humboldt Boulevard temple, secretary of the Chicago Rabbinical association, will lead the thanksgiving assembly at the opening of the 23d academic season of the College of Jewish Studies on Wednesday night in Bialik hall, 220 S. State st. . . . The patronal feast of St. Michael's church, Cleveland av. and Eugenie st., will be observed at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow. The Rev. Edward Fastner, pastor, will offer the mass and preach on the subject, "The Great Archangel." . . . The Rev. James A. Magner, procurator of the Catholic University of America, Washington, D. C., will discuss his book, "Personality and Successful Living," at the opening session of the Charles Carroll forum's ninth season Sunday afternoon, Oct. 7, in the Morrison hotel. This lecture will be basic to the season's series on the theme, "Problems of Reconstruction and Peace."

3 New Polio Cases Put Total for Year at 172

Three new cases of infantile paralysis were reported yesterday to the Chicago health department. The total number of cases here since Jan. 1 now stands at 172. Of the 172, 13 have died. For the same period last year, there were 122 cases and 6 deaths. No new cases were reported in Cook county outside the city. Matthew Hoff, 7, of 1508 Washington st., Waukegan, became Lake county's first polio victim this year when he died yesterday.

TRY TO CONNECT RIDE KILLING TO FINERTY DEATH

Hammond and Gary police yesterday were investigating the possibility of a link between the murder early yesterday of Alexander Chase, 45, a minor Lake county hoodlum, and the slaying March 23 of Lawrence Finerty, brother of Mayor Joseph Finerty of Gary.

Alexander Chase

Chase, who lived in a hotel at 764 Washington st., Gary, was found dead of three gunshot wounds in 169th st. just east of Grand av. in Hammond. Detective Capt. Sandor Singer said Chase had been taken for a typical gangland ride.

The victim, an ex-convict, with a long record in racketeering, may have been suspected as a stool pigeon, police said. Also, some investigators suggested, his death may start a series of shootings expected in some quarters to arise from the Finerty murder. Finerty's death has been ascribed to a political or gambling feud.

PAINTER TO FACE COURT MONDAY ON RAPE CHARGE

Edward J. Kulczyk, 39, of 4214 Berkeley av., an unemployed painter, yesterday denied robbing and raping the 42 year old wife of a sailor, in response to questioning by Assistant State's Atty. Samuel Papanek. The state's attorney's office announced, however, that Kulczyk will be charged with robbery and rape and will appear in Felony court Monday. Kulczyk was arrested Thursday after he was identified by the victim. Police found in Kulczyk's room a watch which the woman said was stolen from her.

SAFETY STICKER ROAD BLOCKADES SPOILED BY RAIN

Rain early yesterday spoiled the debut of Edward J. Gorman's road blockades to detect motorists who have not obtained safety stickers for their automobiles.

Gorman, who is city vehicle license commissioner, didn't disclose the location of his "detector" in advance, but at 11 a. m. motorists on the Outer dr. at 31st. were halted for inspection by park police.

The 5 per cent of the 315 stopped who didn't have the safety stickers required by law were given a choice of a $2 ticket or an immediate inspection in the safety testing lane at that location. No one was found who was willing to part with the $2.

Forty per cent of the stickerless cars were declared unsafe. The drivers were given 10 days to have repairs made and report again.

CAPT. GRASSIE NEW NAVY CHIEF AT GREAT LAKES

Capt. Herbert J. Grassie, 51, yesterday assumed command of the Great Lakes Naval Training center, replacing Commodore Robert R. M. Emmet, 57, who will report to the naval hospital at Bethesda, Md., for a physical examination.

Capt. Grassie, whose home is in Cohasset, Mass., had been commanding officer of the U. S. S. Idaho in the Pacific since Aug. 2, 1944. In World War I., he served aboard the U. S. S. Pennsylvania and armed transport vessels.

Commodore Emmet had been commanding officer at Great Lakes since Feb. 11, 1943. He had been awarded the distinguished service medal for heroism displayed in the North Africa campaign.

POSTPONE QUIZ ON PHYSICIAN'S DEATH IN JAIL

An inquest into the death of Dr. Emil J. Hoglund, 61, of 133 N. Scoville av., Oak Park, retired physician who was found unconscious in the elevated station at Lake and Halsted sts. on Thursday, was postponed yesterday until Oct. 18 to permit a chemical analysis of his body. Dr. Hoglund died in the Des Plaines st. police station after his arrest on a disorderly conduct charge. On his body at the time of death were found 10 capsules of a drug which has been identified and a box of white powder which has not been analyzed yet.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Ella McB. Rainey

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 28 (AP)—Mrs. Ella McBride Rainey, 87, of Carrollton, widow of Henry T. Rainey, former speaker of the house of representatives, died today at Michell Farm sanitarium near Peoria. A native of Harvard, Neb., she had served as secretary to her husband during the 15 terms he served in the house. Speaker Rainey served in the house longer than any other Democrat from north of the Mason-Dixon line, representing the 20th Illinois district. He died Aug. 19, 1934.

Funeral services for Mrs. Rainey will be held Monday at 2 p. m., at the Simpson funeral home in Carrollton. The Rev. J. T. Lilliard, Jerseyville Episcopal church pastor, will officiate. Burial will be in Carrollton cemetery.

Henry Levi

Henry Levi, 80, of 1369 Hyde Park blvd., former president of David Levi & Co., wholesale food distributors, died yesterday in Michael Reese hospital. He had been a resident of Chicago for 54 years and had been in the food business for 49 years. He is survived by his widow, Hermine, and two daughters. Services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Monday in the chapel at 936 E. 47th st.

Mrs. James Smith

Services for Mrs. Jane Rodger Smith, 79, a resident of Oak Park for 46 years, will be held at 2 p. m. Monday in the chapel on Austin blvd. at Lake st., Oak Park. Mrs. Smith died Thursday at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Sue Simpson, 3732 Clinton av., Berwyn, where she and her husband, James, lived. Another daughter, Mrs. Jean Uckerman, and a son, James D., also survive.

Mrs. Esther Rinear

Services for Mrs. Esther Rinear, 93, of Antioch, a lifelong resident of Lake county, will be held at 2 p. m. today in the chapel at 1055 S. Main st., Antioch. She died Thursday. Mrs. Rinear was the widow of William Rinear, former village president of Antioch. She is survived by a son, Leverett L., of Fond du Lac, Wis.

MORRISON HOTEL LEASEHOLD SALE ASKED OF COURT

Circuit Judge Julius H. Miner yesterday was asked by the Chicago Title and Trust company, trustees of the estate of the late Capt. Edward W. Morrison, to approve sale of a leasehold in the Morrison hotel to Albert C. Wetten, real estate operator, for $1,083,333.

The leasehold is the property of the Edward W. Morrison trust, which under the millionaire's will was created to establish a home for the aged.

Judge Miner held that the transaction was too important to be put thru on a single bid, and suggested a 60 day delay to permit the property to be advertised. Wetten, who was in court, agreed. Also in court was Assistant Atty. Gen. Albert Mesirow, who said he believed the home for the aged fund would be better served by retaining the leasehold, which, he said, pays $65,000 annually.

Judge Miner continued the matter until Tuesday for further consideration. Wetten was understood to be acting on behalf of the First National bank, which occupies the property involved. Capt. Morrison died Dec. 4, 1929, at the age of 93.

G. H. TAYLOR, 80, FORMER REALTY LEADER, MISSING

George H. Taylor, 80, of 1217 N. State st., former president of the Chicago Real Estate Board and former head of the Chicago Mortgage Bankers association, has been missing from his home since Wednesday, his stepson, L. M. Prince, 1316 N. Dearborn st., reported to Hudson av. police yesterday.

Prince said his stepfather, who is employed as a real estate salesman by the Percy Wilson Mortgage and Finance company, 134 N. La Salle st., was last seen about 11:30 p. m. Wednesday at State and Division sts.

Taylor, whose wife died in 1934, lived alone in a rooming house at the State st. address, Prince said. He said he believed his stepfather had only $10 or $15 on his person, and expressed a belief that the elderly man may have suffered an attack of amnesia.

Close Belvidere Schools in Outbreak of Polio

Belvidere, Ill., Sept. 28 [Special]—Five local grade schools were closed today by the board of education following a polio flareup here. Two cases have been reported in the four days since the fall school term opened Sept. 24.

Navy Patrol Bombers Collide; 6 Lost, 6 Rescued

Wilmington, Cal., Sept. 28 (AP)—Two navy patrol bombers collided over Catalina Island yesterday, costing the lives of six men aboard one plane, the navy announced today. The six on the other plane were rescued by a fishing boat. The missing included: Army Flight Officer Harley R. Larson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis B. Larson, 1442 N. Jefferson av., Mason City, Ia. Ensign Walter Wright, pilot, 2819 Mackim rd., Flint, Mich., was one of those rescued.

Another New Aid to Homemakers

This new clothes dryer, manufactured by a large electrical equipment company, performs its complete operation in approximately the same time required by a washer made by the same firm. This permits washing a second load of clothes while the first is being dried.

Electrical Company Will Offer New Appliances at Old Prices

BY EDITH WEIGLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Mansfield, O., Sept. 28—One of the nation's largest electrical equipment manufacturing companies just has announced that its new appliances, soon to be reaching trade channels, will be sold at their last pre-war price levels, adding it hoped that increased costs wil be offset by increased efficiencies and an expanded volume of production.

No longer is this peaceful city in the Louis Bromfield country given over to the making of war materials. The enormous factory we saw is now turning out washing machines instead of gun stabilizers, refrigerators instead of fuselage sections and cargo floors, and dishwashers, electric roasters, electric dryers, and home freezers instead of binoculars, tank telescopes, wing flaps, and radio equipment.

After three years of laboratory testings and experimentation it is producing home freezers that have the outward appearance of refrigerators, and tentative plans are for getting it to the buying public by the first quarter of 1946. We saw one of these North Pole boxes today. Six cubic feet in size, it is a companion piece to the firm's refrigerator of like capacity and takes up no more floor space.

Open the big door and you see an interior divided horizontally into three sections, each with its own door, which drops down and pushes in to form a shelf. The top section is kept at a temperature of from 10 to 20 degrees below zero and is for freezing foods. The other two are zero cold all the time and are for storing frozen foods.

You open only the section from which you wish to remove something, and then virtually all the items stored are in plain sight, so only a second or two is needed to take out what you want. The freezer we saw was not jam packed by any means, yet was holding 132 pounds of frozen meats and vegetables, correctly wrapped or packaged. In a near-by home freezer, 16 cubic feet in size, 400 pounds of foods may be stored. An intermediate size also is being made.

Defrosting need take place only every six to nine months and is accomplished with the minimum of bother. Just insert a pan of hot water in the top section and in about 20 minutes the work is finished and you're ready to switch on the cold once more. The other two sections you leave alone, contents and all. For as long as 72 hours food will remain frozen in these compartments, even with the current off, if the door is closed. You remove food only from the top section.

The regular line of refrigerators made by this company will be in the hands of distributors early in October with the reappearance of three of its most popular models. No radical changes have been made here.

We watched the automatic washing machine go thru its cycle, washing, rinsing, and damp-drying a nine pound load in less than 30 minutes.

A little water softener was added, at the beginning, and only about a quarter cup of soap flakes was needed. This machine, weighing about 300 pounds, is cushioned against vibration and makes very little noise.

It will be available, the company hopes, by next February or March. And a few months after that the firm's automatic clothes dryer will make its debut. It will look exactly like the washing machine — same size, same sloping front. By using it the home manager can disregard the weather, as no longer will an outdoor clothes line be needed. And while one batch of clothes is being washed the previous batch can be dried, as this dryer will complete its cycle in approximately the same time as the washing machine.

Electric ironers are again coming off the assembly lines, as are 18 quart capacity electric roasters with a "Look In" glass panel which shows the cook just what's cooking.

This is the fifth in a series of stories by Edith Weigle, home furnishings editor of The Tribune, who is visiting factories thruout the middle west to give Tribune readers a first hand report of the newest items in household equipment as they are coming off the assembly lines.

More Chicago Men Returning from Services

BY JUDITH CASS

At home and out of the navy is F. Strother Cary Jr.; expected next week is Lt. Alexander B. Maley, and due in Lake Forest this week-end, or very shortly, are Col. John F. R. Seitz and Lt. Col. Albert B. Pattou. Mr. Cary, who served in the Pacific as a lieutenant, was released in Washington, D. C., where his wife and her brother, John L. Fortune, joined him for a holiday before making the trip home this week.

Lt. Maley, also of the naval reserve, has arrived in Washington, D. C., from Europe, and will be in civilian clothes when he returns next week to join his wife and young Timmy and Eleanor in their Crilly ct. apartment.

Col. Seitz has been overseas continuously for three years and has had only five days' leave since Pearl Harbor. His services from D-day in France on to Germany have won him many decorations. Eagerly waiting to become reacquainted with their father are Jeff, Helen, and Raymond, who was born in Hawaii. After ten days' leave Col. Seitz will report to Fort Leavenworth.

Col. Pattou sailed from the continent Monday after two years' duty in Europe, and expects to be released from the army upon his arrival.

At home on a 15 day furlough is Sgt. Alex MacArthur, son of the Alfred MacArthurs of Libertyville, who expects to be released shortly from the army. Mr. and Mrs. MacArthur have returned from a visit with their daughter, Mrs. Henry B. Gardner Jr., and her four children. Lt. Gardner was killed on Okinawa in May.

Sgt. Agar Jaicks, who served with the marines in the Pacific for two years, has been released, and after a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson A. Jaicks, in Lake Forest, has entered George Washington university in Washington, D. C., to continue his education.

Lt. and Mrs. Jack W. Thompson have arrived from Mare Island, Cal., where Lt. Thompson was stationed with the naval reserve medical corps, to spend five days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Thompson of Astor st. When Lt. Thompson leaves Monday for overseas duty, his wife will remain in Chicago until his return.

Birth News

The twin boys born yesterday in St. Luke's hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Otto Schulz [Jane Lawrence] bring the number of their children to six, for waiting in their Evanston home to welcome the little boys to their nursery are Barbara, Jim, Dorothy, and Betsy. The youngsters are grandchildren of Mrs. Otto Schultz of Kenmore av., and of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick K. Lawrence of E. Delaware pl. Mr. Lawrence also is in St. Luke's, recovering from pneumonia.

Mr. and Mrs. William T. Kirk IV. [Nancy Scribner] are being congratulated on the birth Thursday in the Evanston hospital of their first child, a daughter. The little girl has been named Edith Goodrich, for her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Kirk of Morristown, N. J. Her maternal grandparents are the Gilbert H. Scribners of Winnetka.

On the Calendar

Because there has been so much rain, the hunter trials scheduled by the Longmeadow Hounds for tomorrow at the Longmeadow stables in Northbrook have been postponed until Oct. 14. The grounds are too wet and soggy, and there is little prospect of their drying, the trials committee, headed by Stewart Boal, decided yesterday after consulting the weather bureau. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest S. Ballard have postponed a tea they planned for tomorrow after the trials to the 14th, but Col. and Mrs. Clark J. Lawrence are going ahead with a hunt dinner planned for tonight in their home.

Franklin P. Smith will be host at a small family gathering in Lake Forrest tomorrow to observe his 81st birthday anniversary.

The Roycemore school will celebrate its 30th anniversary with a tea from 4 to 7 p. m. tomorrow at which Mrs. James L. Thatcher, former head mistress, and Mr. Thatcher of Sharpes, Fla., will be special guests.

The Philip A. Starcks, the Robert B. Emerys, the L. D. Hunts, and Dr. and Mrs. Melford E. Zinser are among the Lake Geneva and Delavan Lake residents who are opening their homes to patients from Vaughan hospital for a "Purple Heart week-end" today and tomorrow, arranged by the Lest We Forget committee. The service men will be entertained at the Big Foot Country club tonight.

Wedding News

In a small family ceremony at 4 p. m. today, Miss Betty Black, daughter of Mrs. Archibald T. Black of Winthrop av., will become the bride of Robert Proesel of Lincolnwood, son of Mrs. Robert Proesel of N. Spaulding av. The wedding will take place in the Highland Park home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren A. Peterson, brother-in-law and sister of the bride, with a larger reception following at 5 p. m.

In a ceremony in Bond chapel at the University of Chicago today, Miss Dorothy Jean Hager, daughter of Jack Hager of Flossmoor, will become the bride of Maurice Lester Ross Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross of the Shoreland hotel. A wedding breakfast will follow in the Idlewild Country club in Flossmoor. Mr. Ross was elected to Phi Beta Kappa at the University of Chicago, where his bride also received her degree. They will live in Chicago.

The marriage of Miss Lauretta Holleb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Holleb of Lake Shore dr., to Corp. Leonard Novak of the army, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Novak of Sacramento blvd., took place at 7 p. m. last Thursday in the Continental hotel, with a dinner following there. Corp. Novak recently returned from 27 months in the European theater. He and his bride, who met while they were classmates at the University of Illinois, will have a short wedding trip to Turkey Run, Ind., after which he will report to Camp Grant on Oct. 4.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

The Letter You'd Like to Write

Dear Boss: I am tired. I'm quitting this game;
My head has gone dizzy, my back has gone lame:
My skirt is all shiny, my hand paralyzed
From taking dictation. So help my poor eyes!
I've finished the brief in the Hammersmith case—
A sloppy memento of this awful pace.
The writ of attachment was served on the bank;
Defendant just called and he thinks it's a prank;
Miss Pewster was in and she asked that you phone;
Your wife's raising ned—says she's too much alone;
Your stamps are all gone, and you need a new chair.
Your suit could stand pressing; remember your hair;
I cleaned out the bottles and cigaret butts;

For the WCG Copybook

My favorite quote for white collar girls is George Sand's: 'Guard within yourself that treasure, kindness—know how to give without hesitation, how to lose without regret, how to acquire without meanness."

DIAMOND LIL

How Time Flies

She is a white collar girl trying to hold down two jobs, that of business woman and home-maker. Quite weary, she settled down one evening to a basket of mending when a well-meaning friend brought in a bushel of tomatoes already quite ripe. Our thrifty WCG looked the situation over and hastily made her plans. There would be enough for plain canned tomatoes, chili sauce, and tomato juice. Being a good manager she began with the chili sauce, because that would take longest to cook. A glance at the clock told her it was 7:40. "I can clean this job up by 10," she thought. Hurriedly, she cut celery and onions for the juice, and got cans ready for sterilizing. Then it was 8:45. She stirred the chili sauce, skinned tomatoes, got them cooking, wiped the perspiration from her brow, and stirred once more. Now it was 9:50. "I must be slowing down," she thought, "Can't make any headway." But when the tomatoes were all canned and the kettles washed, the chili sauce still hadn't thickened. It was 10:55. At last she was done—it was 12 o'clock! As she went to her room she glanced at her bedroom clock. The hands of the kitchen clock had stuck, moving up one hour with each five minutes. Our WCG had done three big jobs of canning in exactly two hours time. It was 9:40!

Music Motifs Put Rhythm in New Jewelry

BY REA SEEGER

Much of the bright new gold metal costume jewelry has been designed with a musical motif. Whether you are a music fan or not, this glittering gold array of clip-pins, ear rings, brooches, and bracelets provides distinctive accents for all the new fall suits and the slim wool dresses.

The musical theme has been cleverly sustained in every piece. Tiny clefs are ear rings, while larger sizes, in pairs or alone, make effective chest pins and clips. The bracelets are available in both the link affairs and in the stunning rigid two inch wide models.

The rigid bracelets simulate a bar of music with the treble clef and music quarter and eighth notes so realistic you can almost hum the rhythm. The flexible link bracelets are made in the same way, minus the rigid lines.

Both silver and gold metal are used. The gold is particularly effective with black, dark shades of gray, winter navy blue, brown, and bright colors. The silver models will shimmer discreetly with gray and pastel tints as well as with dark tones and the high colors.

The bracelets are somewhat expensive, but the beautiful workmanship and the very unusual designs justify the outlay. The brooches, clips, and ear rings are reasonably priced. They have the same clever detailing and workmanship as the bracelets. If you want harmony illustrated in gold, this new costume jewelry is timed for your fall wardrobe.

Also worth checking are the stunning pieces of gold dipped plastic jewelry. They are especially distinctive when worn three or four on the lower half of the long sleeves of dresses and suit jackets.

"Mozartiana" Weak Sister of Balanchine Ballets But Danilova and Franklin Help

SURELY it is quite safe to call "Mozartiana" the dullest of Balanchine's ballets. The man never did anything quite that insipid before, so let's be generous and pretend he never will, again. It's as if he said to the dancers, "O, just go ahead and do something," except in the case of the prayer, where Dorothy Etheridge's partners are funereal beanpoles plumed and tasseled like a hearse, and in awkward and artificial variations contrived for Alexandra Danilova, whose personal splendor made fastidious work of what in a lesser dancer would have been clumsy vulgarity.

Still, even the lovely sight of Danilova is comforting in a season which has used her parsimoniously, without a single "Swan Lake" to its name, an irreparable oversight when in this prima ballerina assoluta the Ballet Russe has the great Swan Queen of our time. Her role in "Mozartiana" is no more than a crumb when you want a feast, and how Christian Berard could bear to cripple her beauty with that crude white costume is more than I can guess. At least he atoned later by dressing her superbly in black velvet and starched lace with green-gold laurels in her hair and there, my friends, you have ballet in the grand manner. Take a good look. It seems to be vanishing.

Frederic Franklin, who has true balletic bearing eloquently enmeshed in the highest of high spirits, danced vividly all that he had to do, which amounted to more scraps, and at least gave Danilova a partner worthy of her brilliance. But Balanchine was utterly in their debt for any distinction that crept into his haphazard way with the Tschaikowsky orchestration of Mozart tunes, and Danilova's black costume was the only decorative note worthy of the Berard signature. His single setting in a town square was an indifferent essay in his usually brilliant style, and his costumes for the corps de ballet were not only undistinguished, but downright ugly. They even thickened willowy waist lines with coarse white corselets.

Nijinska's "Chopin Concerto," danced to the work in E minor with Rachel Chapman as competent piano soloist and Ivan Boutnikoff at the orchestral helm, opened the evening in less than its most persuasive ballet style. It is by no means a great work, but it can have great charm when the performance carries authority. Nathalie Krassovska and Maria Tallchief skimmed thru it expertly enough, but the ensemble was weak and the male ensemble in particular suggested a ballet class not quite ready for graduation.

However, the Civic Opera house was sold out and apparently the audience was happy. At least the cash customers could stay, if they liked, to see Leon Danielian repeat "L'Apres-Midi d'un Faune" and to catch the season's first revival of "Schéhérazade," with Tallchief as Zobeide and Franklin as the slave.

Notes

The Detroit Symphony orchestra has its own facilities for making and distributing records, plus a new unbreakable plastic record, because of the affiliation of Reichhold Chemicals with Cosmopolitan Records. Henry H. Reichhold is the orchestra's president. . . . Lauritz Melchior is a Knight Commander of Dannebroge as a result of singing at the birthday party for Christian of Denmark. . . . Speaking at Liverpool the other night, peppery Sir Thomas Beecham remarked that no composer has contributed anything new in the way of orchestra sound since Berlioz. . . . Luther Adler has replaced Ricardo Cortez in the rehearsing cast of "Beggars Are Coming to Town." . . . And despite big box office response, "Polonaise," the Jan Kiepura show to Chopin music, has called in Stella Adler to brush up the directing before the show tackles New York.

Weddings Announced

Announcement is made of the marriage Aug. 4 of Miss Betty Jane Nelson, daughter of Mrs. Byron H. L. Nelson of Champlain av., to Robert Heath, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Heath of Wilmette. The families are friends of long standing, for the bridegroom's father and the late Mr. Nelson were officers in the same battalion of the 33d division in the first World war. The wedding reception was held in the Heath home. The bride has been serving as an air line stewardess for three years. She and Mr. Nelson are at home in Los Angeles, where he is in business.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Wilson of Baltimore, Md., formerly of Indiana av., announce the marriage Sept. 8 of their daughter, Lois Eileen, to Lt. Willard C. Mackey Jr. of the marine corps reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mackey of Rockford, Ill. The ceremony took place in St. Andrew's chapel, Annapolis, Md.

At a cocktail party in their Lake Shore dr. apartment recently Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lasker announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Eileen Margaret Boyle, to Lt. Arthur Donald Lazerus of the army, son of Mrs. Arthur C. Lazerus, also of Lake Shore dr. Miss Boyle was graduated from Mundelein college. Her fiance, a graduate of Northwestern university, is stationed in Seattle, Wash. He served for more than a year in the South Pacific.

Announcement is made of the marriage Sept. 14 of Miss Phyllis Jane Schutz, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Schutz of Sunnyside, Wash., to Lt. [j. g.] William John Warmington, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Warmington of Evanston. The ceremony took place in St. Luke's church, Evanston, with a reception following in the Georgian hotel. The bride attended the University of Washington and the National University of Mexico and was graduated from the school of speech of Northwestern university. She has been working in Mexico for the last year and while there was gradauted from the Pan-American school of aviation. Lt. Warmington was graduated from Northwestern and from the University of Illinois medical school. He and his bride are at home in Corvallis, Ore., where Lt. Warmington has reported for an internship in the navy hospital.

From Hollandia, Dutch New Guinea, comes news of a marriage there on June 6 of Capt. Michael M. Goldman of the army air forces, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bennett Goldman of N. Central av., and Lt. Dora M. Klatsky of the army nurse corps, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Klatsky of Worcester, Mass. The bride wore a wedding gown which had been sent from Australia. Capt. Goldman now is in Japan.

Aid Given by Y. W. in War Torn Areas Told to Chicagoans

The extensive aid that the Young Women's Christian association has given the homeless in war torn areas abroad, and plans for expansion of that relief program into the most ambitious of the association's history were outlined yesterday by Mrs. Maurice T. Moore of New York, chairman of the Y. W. C. A. foreign division. Mrs. Moore spoke at a luncheon given by the Chicago Y. W. C. A. in the Loop center.

It was to the accomplishments of the Y. W. C. A. in China that Mrs. Moore directed most of her praise. Establishment of numerous food kitchens to assist with the feeding of around 50 million refugees now flooding that country were described, as were the unique "vest pocket" industries sponsored by the association. About 20 persons comprise an "industry" group, which is instructed in a specific job, such as weaving, spinning, and other essential occupations. It was thru such groups, working under great handicaps, Mrs. Moore explained, that all blankets for the Chinese army were furnished.

Native women have been and are being taught to write at Y. W. C. A. centers so they may pen their own letters to husband and sweethearts. Educational programs, both for young people and adults, also have been undertaken.

An ambitious program for relief of homeless and destitute women and girls in Belgium, France, Holland, the Philippines, and many other countries was touched upon. Mrs. Moore, who was born in China, is the daughter of the late Henry W. Luce, educator. She also is chairman of the National United Service organizations council and will speak on continued needs of the U. S. O. at a luncheon Monday in the Y. M. C. A., 19 S. La Salle st.

Thru the Looking Glass

The woman who can step up to a cosmetic counter and unerringly choose a face powder in a tint to play up and pick up the natural tones of her complexion and harmonize with the kind of colors she wears has an accomplishment of no small importance. The choice of face powder can make or break make-up perfection. The coat of powder that is obvious to the onlooker is a definite flop. The perfect powder tint is the kind that blends with the make-up and costume color so subtly that it is undetectable. And the texture of the powder itself is as important to its ultimate success as the color.

It isn't the easiest thing in the world for most of us to select face powders, but the job has been made quite simple by one fine cosmetic house. For some time now women have found the wide range of colors this house offers is a haven of refuge when they're out shopping for powder.

From a delicately creamy tint to a rich, deep tan the colors are all perfectly blended to harmonize with almost any costume color you could name. You'll find among them the right complement for anything from stark black to vibrant fuschia. There's the right shade to give warmth to the skin when the outfit tones down complexion highlights and tints that will soften when the clothes colors are bright and lively.

We don't know of more beautifully textured powders than these. They're light and airy as feathers and smooth on in a flawless coat that stays put for practically hours. They give the skin a beautiful, soft finish. The powder is a distinct pleasure to use, sifting on smooth and easy as silk.

INSTALMENT XVIII.

HEIRS DISCUSSED

Mr. Izenga had hardly finished breakfast the next morning when Lt. French's long Rolls coupe curved in between the ivy covered brick gateposts of the drive.

"That was a nasty crime," French began. His dark blue eyes were hard. "I've had plenty of experience with unpleasant deaths. Shooting and stabbing are bad, but they suggest one quick, impulsive act. Strangling a person is different. The killer has time to repent and to relax his hold before life is finally crushed out. It takes cold blood to complete that kind of crime. I hate stranglers."

Mr. Izenga was jolted by the violence of the lieutenant's quiet voice. Suddenly it began to matter a lot more to him that the killer was found than that any one was protected.

"Do you know any one who hated Mrs. Pomeroy?" French asked.

After earnest thought, Mr. Izenga said, "No, I don't know any one who hated her that much. But I'm afraid Letitia, for all her gracious ways, had a hard, ruthless streak. You don't get two million dollars off a bush. You take it away from other people. I can give you a list of several who had reason to dislike her. That is, if it's understood that I am not accusing any one of them."

"That's what I want, Mr. Izenga. Just a few leads. I don't want to pin this crime onto just any one, simply to make an arrest. We don't work that way. Let's consider Mrs. Pomeroy's heirs first. Her family, and friends."

"Why always pick on the heirs?"

"Because the obvious has a way of being true, Mr. Izenga. For instance, her brother, Mr. Ridge Dawson. Is there any reason why he should want her dead?"

"I can see no reason, lieutenant. Mr. Dawson lives rather extravagantly and has numerous obligations. They bickered at times, like her families, but they were really devoted.

"And her son, Bennet Pomeroy?"

"Bennet was 23 when his father died and left him a hundred and thirty thousand. He put it into an annuity at once and has not done a stroke of work since. Living with his mother, he seldom uses half his income. It simply piles up. So he surely doesn't need money. He and his mother got on very well. He did not mind being dominated and at heart they were quite close to each other."

French gave Mr. Izenga a searching look. This was how he saw his friends.

"And this brings us to Huntley Price."

"Huntley!" Mr. Izenga exclaimed. "You aren't wasting time considering him, I hope."

"We're wasting time considering every one, but one person," French said dryly. "Trouble is, we don't know who is the one, yet. Price gets fifty thousand, doesn't he?"

"Yes, but . . . but . . ." Mr. Izenga was exasperated. "He is about the last person who would want Letitia dead. She was determined Erica should marry him. In fact, she tried to force it, as you saw by her will. Huntley and Mrs. Pomeroy were more congenial than any other members of the family and I think he feels her death more."

"That leaves the Dukes," French said.

"Yes." Mr. Izenga was firm. "And here's where I leave you. I cannot discuss the Dukes. To be frank, I'm too prejudiced."

"Then, Mr. Izenga, you think it possible that one of the Dukes could be responsible for this?"

"Please, please! I said nothing of the sort."

"Mrs. Duke paid you a visit last evening, Mr. Izenga. Have you anything to report on that?"

Mr. Izenga's jaw opened a little. "I've told you I cannot betray confidences."

"Not even to trap a murderer?"

"Mrs. Duke is not in that . . ." Mr. Izenga's memory cut short his words.

French was staring at Mr. Izenga. "Mrs. Duke has a very bad temper. It's a wonder she has never gotten into trouble thru it in the past," French probed.

To his surprised relief, French did not press the point. "The maid also says that the Dukes were not home the night of the murder."

"Why believe the maid," Mr. Izenga protested.

"Lie detector test."

Mr. Izenga had an inspiration. "Why don't you investigate Lucianna Duprez, lieutenant? There's a first class suspect for you. She hated Mrs. Pomeroy.

"We aren't forgetting Duprez. She swears she was in her apartment at a few minutes before twelve that night. She doesn't seem interested in a lie detector test. I don't like to force that till I have something on her. Have you any suggestions?"

Mr. Izenga hesitated. "Let me see, Lucianna lives in the Parker Arms apartment house. Yes, I think I might be able to help you out there. By the way," he asked boldly, "I suppose you have checked on Ridge Dawson?"

French laughed. "I think you and I will get along swell, Mr. Izenga. Yes. I think we know where Mr. Dawson spent the night, tho he lies like a gentleman."

"And Toby Newcomb?" he went on, "I was rather surprised to see him at large after that ring business."

"I'm looking after Newcomb. You needn't worry about him." French always looked sarcastic whenever Newcomb was suspected, Mr. Izenga noticed.

"I don't know about you, lieutenant, but I'm frank to say I don't know a thing about the man. I understand the only job he ever held was that of a waiter. Yet he must be at least 40."

"Forty? Toby Newcomb 40?"

"Certainly. His hair is retreating and that hard, rough manner of his may very likely be the result of a life of crime. I can see him killing somebody and not having an atom of remorse."

French openly gasped. "Mr. Izenga, are you sure you have heard nothing about Newcomb? Is this feeling of yours pure intuition?"

"Yes. Of course, I'm not accusing him. I don't know anything as I tell you."

"I see."

Mr. Izenga gasped, "Lieutenant . . . am I right?"

"What? About Newcomb? No. No. Please don't get any wrong impressions about him," French said impatiently. "We'll take care of Newcomb. You look after that Pomeroy-Dawson tribe. Some one in that lot is guilty.

Trying to throw me off the scent, Mr. Izenga told himself.

Mr. Izenga said: "We're planning the funeral at 2, Friday, after the inquest. Is that all right?"

French sighed. "That inquest."

"I know the sheriff," Mr. Izenga mused. "Very, very well. I was thinking of seeing him this morning."

"Has any one ever told you you're remarkable?"

Mr. Izenga only smiled modestly.

French went out to his car and switched on the two way radio, to headquarters. "Bill French speaking. Put a good man onto Mrs. Duke's past, sergeant. See if there's any old gossip about her temper getting her into trouble. I struck a nerve there. Keep it clean and quiet."

Cranberries are coming to market now, and there'll be many more later, for the crop is a big one this year. We shall have to sweeten our cranberries with honey or sirup again, but that won't impair the flavor of our sauces and relishes.

Fall really is here. You can tell by the variety of apples in the market, especially the eating fresh kinds like Jonathan, delicious, and winesaps. For my money the red, juicy Jonathan can't be beat.

Beef is the meat we see most of these days, and that's fine for most families. Americans are notorious beef eaters, altho pork is popular, too. Lamb is fine for a change now and then. Lamb seldom is braised or cooked with water because it is such a tender meat that dry broiler or oven heat is sufficient to cook it and preserves the most flavor. But there's something to be said for the way chefs in one of the big hotels fix leg of lamb—by simmering it in water and serving it with caper sauce.

The caper sauce could be made with consomme or broth from another meat and served with a roasted leg of lamb, too. Here's a good recipe for a change from the mint sauce which so often accompanies lamb.

Caper Sauce for Lamb

- 2 tablespoons butter
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1½ cups lamb broth or other meat stock [well seasoned]
- 3 tablespoons capers
- 1 tablespoon minced parsley
- 1 egg yolk
- ½ cup cream

Melt butter, add flour, and blend over low heat. Add broth gradually, cook and stir until thickened, then add capers, parsley, cream, and beaten egg yolk. Add salt and pepper if necessary. After adding egg and cream avoid overheating. Get the sauce just hot and serve at once. If it must wait, keep it in the top of a double boiler.

Chicken chow mein is a good choice for a luncheon or late supper. It may be prepared ahead of time and simply reheated for service. Buy canned fried noodles to go with it, or fry your own. To do so, cook noodles tender in boiling, salted water, drain dry and fry until crisp in deep hot fat.

Chicken Chow Mein

[Serves six]

- 1 4-pound stewing chicken
- ½ cup diced green peppers
- 2 large onions, diced
- 1 cup diced celery
- 1 cup sliced fresh mushrooms
- ½ cup butter or margarine or cooking oil
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 5 tablespoons soy sauce
- 2 hard cooked eggs
- Fried noodles

Simmer chicken slowly in water to cover, seasoned with salt, pepper, a bay leaf, and a stalk or two of celery. When tender, allow to cool in broth, then remove meat from bones, saving half of the breast meat for garnish. Cook vegetables in the butter or oil until tender, but do not allow them to brown. Add cornstarch mixed to a paste with a small amount of water. Add soy sauce and about ½ cup of the chicken broth. Cook until smooth and thickened. Add diced chicken, heat, and serve over fried noodles with narrow strips of chicken breast meat and sliced hard cooked eggs as garnish.

Practical Aprons

These practical aprons each can be made from one yard of 35 inch material. Style No. 3469, which has an effective ruffle along the hem, also requires 6⅝ yards of binding. Style No. 3731, a dainty apron with a heart and arrow motif on the pocket, requires 3½ yards of rickrack braid for trim.

Order Clotilde patterns from Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY. Print name and address; state size. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing. The fall and winter fashion book, on sale at Tribune Public Service offices, is 15 cents; 12 cents if ordered by mail with a pattern.

Household Forum

—By Louise Bargelt—

Mrs. Ed S., South Bend, Ind.—When weather is damp and warm, I store my kid gloves in a dry, sealed glass jar. This also is helpful in keeping suede gloves fit.

Mrs. B. T., Elgin, Ill.—To make sure that baking powder is fresh, I put a teaspoon of it in a third of a cup of water. Unless this mixture bubbles actively, I don't consider it fresh enough to use safely.

Ella A., Oak Park—I can always fasten my curtain tie-backs evenly and quickly if I pull down the window shade to the desired level, and then use the bottom of the shade for a measure.

Anna H., Milwaukee, Wis.—If you want to give a roasted fowl a smart and professional looking "glaze," try spreading over it about one-half cup of tart jelly which you have beaten with a fork.

Mrs. Ed S., Peoria, Ill.—It is a good practice to store soiled clothes in containers which are free from glass, splinters, nails, etc.

$5 PRIZE RECIPE

Whipped Cream Biscuits
[Makes 18]

- 1 cup cream, whipped
- 2 cups flour
- 1 tablespoon baking powder
- ¾ teaspoon salt

Add sifted dry ingredients to whipped cream, and mix thoroly. Pat dough out on floured pastry cloth and cut with biscuit cutter. Place on greased cooky sheet, and bake in a hot oven, 450 degrees, for 12 to 15 minutes.

Girl, 15, Told: Enlarge Your Dating Circle

BY SHEILA DALY

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

Some high school fellows complain because their mothers put too much sugar on their breakfast cereal or neglect to sew the missing buttons on their shirts. And a few young gals make with the long and gloomy faces because their fathers cut their allowance or when dating deadlines become a little strict around home. It may be a small complaint, or it may be a serious one, but it's usually hard to take the corrections and restrictions that parents seem so capable of giving.

Here's a letter from a young gal who has family troubles, but big:

"I'm 15 and a junior this year. I've been dating a certain fellow from our school since last January. We usually go out about twice a week, and very occasionally three times. But for the last few weeks, as soon as we finish dinner at night and my mother and I are clearing the table, she asks why I go out with only one boy. Then when I go into the living room after the dishes are finished, my father and mother talk about my going out so much. They seem to think I'm the only girl who dates just one boy, tho I try to explain that I'm not. I know they like him and they know he comes from a nice family. Its not that he's too old for me either, because he's 16 and a senior. What do you suppose their objection is?"

When a gal begins to date, she often takes a what-a-big-girl-am-I attitude and wonders why her family can't realize that suddenly she's quite grownup. Just because one or two fellows want to spend their evenings with her, she feels very adult and able to take care of herself. But 15 is still too young to date one fellow exclusively. If you'll just take time to brush the stars from your eyes, you'll find a lot of fellows you'd like to be dating. When the world is so full of a number of things, why aren't you dating more than one king?

Inquiring Camera Girl

THE QUESTION

If you could grant your child one thing that he or she would always possess what would it be?

WHERE ASKED

Chicago Museum of Natural History.

THE ANSWERS

Pvt. Walter Salmi, Virginia, Minn.—The most uncertain factor in the lives of children and grown ups is health. If I were to give my child one thing, it would be the assurance that all during his life he would be healthy. Then he would be able to devote his time to the utmost enjoyment of living.

Mrs. Ralph Pauly, housewife, 982 Division st., Green Bay, Wis.—I would grant that my child have a sound mind and intelligence. With the ability to reason and plan, almost any obstacle can be overcome. An intelligent person is usually self-sufficient, ambitious, and capable of making the best of any situation.

James G. Cunningham, assembly worker, 4052 Kedvale av.—Something that can never be taken away once it has been obtained is education. Therefore, I would wish my children to have the best education that money can buy, including college and specialized training. Education can change the course of any one's life.

Mrs. J. F. Griffiths, housewife, Niagara Falls, Ont.—Health is everything in life. A person who is healthy shouldn't complain about a thing. I know when I don't feel too well I think, 'If I just got rid of this headache nothing else would matter.' What is anything in this world if you don't have health and energy?

Mrs. John Williams, housewife, 1675 Burgess rd., Cleveland, O.—What could possibly mean more to any one than true religion—complete trust and faith in God? With this faith a person is automatically endowed with all the finer things in life, the only things that are really worth while. This is what I would give my child.

Kenwood Garden Club Will Meet on Monday

Hillcrest, the summer home of Mrs. Fred Lorish near Palos Park, will be the setting for an all-day meeting Monday of the Kenwood Garden club. Laden with box lunches, members will gather there at 11 a. m. and before the luncheon hour will forage thru wooded areas for specimens of plant life. Mrs. Arnold Maremont will preside at the business session, the first of the season. Mrs. Maremont succeeds Mrs. Raymond Lukins, who has gone to Greensburg, Pa., to live.

Rules Given for Teaching Orderliness

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

If you have read the three recent articles in this short series about orderliness in children, what degree of it is reasonable for you to expect consistent with a pleasant, easy use of the house by your family [for after all, it is their home, too], you may be interested in a brief summary today of some definite points to keep in mind. These will have as their background two aims:

One is that a degree of orderliness is good discipline for the children, and will set standards which will be a help to them later in life.

The other aim is that it is only right for your housekeeping to be made as easy as is reasonable, remembering always that children will be children.

Here are the suggestions:

Make it reasonably easy for your child to be orderly.

Do so by having a place for everything.

Have those places — shelves, clothes hooks, containers for toys, and so forth—convenient for your child to reach and use.

Don't expect too much of the children in strict and constant orderliness, but try to hold them to what you do ask them to do.

Don't nag about it. They will always need some reminding; so do it in a friendly human sort of way. Praise does a lot, and sometimes turning to with them on a clearing-up job.

Appeal to their sense of fairness when they are old enough to understand that this is their share of the family work.

Mrs. Wright Tells Voters League Need of Aid for Europe

Speaking before the Illinois League of Women Voters here yesterday, Mrs. Louise Leonard Wright urged congressional action to increase food allotments this winter for Europe's liberated countries. Mrs. Wright told the league representatives that Europe faced the most acute food shortage since the outbreak of the war and warned against grave political repercussions if means are not quickly found to revive starving populations. Mrs. Wright studied the food problem in France and England last spring.

The first post-war meeting drew a record attendance of league leaders to the La Salle hotel for a full day of departmental conferences and round tables.

Mrs. Wright, director of the Council on Foreign Relations and acting foreign policy chairman of the state league, addressed the general luncheon session, which was presided over by Mrs. Walter T. Fisher. It was the first full assembly since Mrs. Fisher was elected state president.

Business Women's Group to Hear Pianist-Composer

Members of the Alliance of Business and Professional Women of Chicago and their friends will hear Henry Jackson, pianist-composer, in a program this afternoon in the Cordon club. There will be a tea afterward, with Miss Anna Doetsch and Mrs. Alva Lowrey in charge.

Infant's Wear

BY ELLEN BRUCE

Infants require a variety of accessories, the most useful being crocheted bootees, shoes, and caps. This group is one of the easiest possible to make. The bonnet is done in a simple stitch and edged with a shell stitch. The shoes and bootees are done in single crochet.

For instructions in crocheting the infant's accessories, No. 191, send 15 CENTS in coin [wrap coin securely] to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth av., New York 1, N. Y.

Tall Girls' Club Starts Out to Obtain More Comfortable Bus Seats

One hundred and fifty willowy members of the Tall Girls' Club of Chicago formally declared war on their hometown yesterday at a meeting in the Morrison hotel.

In their own words, they are "promoting the things we need and want." To be specific—clothes made for the long figure, beds "in something else besides juvenile size," long stockings, and most important of all, adequate leg room in the city's street cars and buses.

As for their post-war dating problems, the girls, whose membership is limited to single women over 5 feet 9 inches, maintain it's no trouble at all. "So many of our girls are getting married that we have a hard time keeping the membership up to its 150 quota," Miss Jewel Wolkenhauer, the club founder, said.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 28—Dorothy McGuire never wastes time. She got hold of a script of "They Dream of Home" while working on "Some Must Watch," liked it, went straight to Producer Dore Schary, asked for a part in it, and got it. Eddie Dmytryk will direct the picture. Eddie is sure making strides. . . . I'm glad Metro waited for Rouben Mamoulian before doing "Jumbo," the story of the big top. Rouben did mighty well by "Oklahoma!" and "Carousel," and he's persuaded Richard Rodgers to do the musical score. Speaking of elephants—they're more faithful and friendly than many people. . . . Caesar Romero finally gets to play a Latin lover in "City of Flowers." He also gets a vacation with pay to Puerto Rico, where they're shooting the picture. Barbara Whiting will go along, too.

Truckin' on Down to the Studio

Myrna Loy couldn't be late for a radio show, so when her car ran out of gas in Westwood she hailed a truck, and that's how she arrived at CBS—windblown, dignified, but on time. . . . Alan Ladd has hired a lawyer for his fight with Paramount. . . . When Orson Welles and Alex Korda settled down to discuss international affairs the sparks could have started a conflagration. . . . Want to know how Orson Welles gets his Sunday comments on the air? He works from the den of his home, which, incidentally, is built on five levels. The front door is left open so the bell won't ring at the wrong time. Rebecca, his daughter, is perambulated down the lane and stays there with nursie. The dogs are locked up. Rita remains in bed on the top floor but listens thru her own bedside radio. Last Sunday the open door invited a stray mongrel into the den, and for a few moments it was a question as to whether the comments would be canine or human. It seems to me this peaceful little scene has all the elements of an atomic bomb.

Turnabout in the Entertainment World

Both Gene Buck, a founder of ASCAP and its president for many years, and the present prexy, Deems Taylor, are visiting Hollywood. Gene is showing every one pictures of his two handsome sons—of Gene Jr., who has won many army decorations and still is in Nuernburg, Germany, and of George, who has reënlisted in the air forces for another three years. Deems was introducing his new bride. Their being together takes me back 25 years, when Deems came down from New York City to Great Neck, Long Island, to dine with me. I took him over to Gene's house and tried to interest him in some of Deems' songs for "The Ziegfeld Follies." Then we went on to Raymond Hitchcock's house. Hitchy needed new ditties for "Hitchy Koo." But no sale. Now Deems follows Buck as president of ASCAP. . . . Angela Lansbury's engagement ring, designed by her bridegroom, Richard Cromwell, is right pretty. It's a plain gold band criss-crossed with a diamond studded band. . . . Ida Lupino no longer looks at her daily rushes—it makes her too nervous, it is rumored. . . . If Charles Bickford has his way, R. K. O. will borrow Otto Preminger to direct him in "Desirable Woman," but I'll bet 20th Century-Fox won't lend Otto.

Overflowing with Flowers

Agnes Moorehead has 24 pictures in a current magazine, yet her name in the ads for "Our Vines Have Tender Grapes" is so small you have to get a magnifying glass to see it. I think I'll send Metro a subscription to the magazine and let 'em know what they've got. . . . Lynn Bari was greeted by a dressing room overflowing with flowers the first day she reported to work on "Shock." . . . Dane Clark is hitch-hiking to work these days—he's taking off poundage. . . . Teddy Lynch and John Garris, Metropolitan opera tenor, will make some recordings for Boris Morros. The first one will be "All the World Is Waiting to Waltz Again," written by Gordon and Revel. After that comes a musical montage of three-quarter rhythm by Strauss, Jerome Kern, Victor Herbert, and Noel Coward.

An Inscribed Cigaret Case

The Charlie Morrisons had the biggest crush I've seen yet for Emil Coleman's going away. Donald Nelson was caught in the middle of it. To hear yourself think you had to go out on the porch. Emil showed me a gold cigaret case, a present from his boss, which was inscribed: "To Emil Coleman . . . people will say we're in love . . . and it's true. Dora and Charlie Morrison." . . . Peggy Cummins, the English miss who came over for "Cluny Brown," didn't waste a moment but picked up her romance with Bob Landry the day she arrived.

Kitchen Pointers

By Mary Meade

What is the best method for removing feathers from ducks and geese?"

They usually are dry picked. To do this, first pluck the pin and tail feathers; then the small feathers from shanks and inside of thighs; finally pluck remaining body feathers. Grasp only a few feathers at a time and pull downward in the direction the feathers grow to avoid tearing the skin. Some cooks dip the bird in melted paraffin and then plunge it into cold water. The paraffin is pealed off, bringing the pin feathers and down with it.

"Is there a difference between a conserve and a preserve?"

Yes, a conserve is made of several fruits, chopped into small pieces, with raisins or nuts, in a thick sirup. It resembles marmalade in consistency. A preserve is made from one fruit, left whole or in large pieces. It's canned in either a thick or thin sirup and the fruit is clear and retains its shape.

"Can anything be done to sirupy jelly to make it thicken?"

Jelly may be reboiled if the reason for the failure is known. If too much sugar was used, reboil it with unsweetened fruit juice using half as much juice as jelly. In case it lacked acid, add 1 teaspoon of lemon juice or citric acid to 2 quarts of jelly and reboil to the jellying point. Remember, some jellies set slowly, so give them at least a week to become firm.

THEATER OF AIR TO START MUSIC SEASON TONIGHT

'Naughty Marietta' First on W-G-N Series

The Chicago Theater of the Air's curtain rises on another season of broadcasting streamlined grand opera and operettas tonight. The opening production is to be Victor Herbert's familiar "Naughty Marietta." As in other years Marion Claire will sing the leading roles. Morton Bowe, young Metropolitan Opera tenor, will sing the leading male role tonight. The Theater of the Air shows will be broadcast over W-G-N, WGNB, and the Mutual Broadcasting System from 9 to 10 o'clock. They will originate each Saturday evening in Medinah Temple before 4,500 guests.

The Theater of the Air tonight will salute the Chicago Girl Scout organization on the occasion of its silver anniversary. Four thousand uniformed Girl Scouts will be guests.

Colleen Moore to Appear

The broadcast will include a musical-dramatic "Saga of Scouting," dedicated to the organization, with Colleen Moore, the actress and a leader in scouting, as narrator.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will speak during the broadcast on "Navigation Thru Astronomy."

Music for the production will be provided by the Theater of the Air orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber. Ruth Slater, contralto; Philip Blackman and Earl Wilkie, baritones, will sing supporting roles.

Girls to Give Program

Prior to the broadcast a one hour Girl Scout program will be presented. This will include a mass flag ceremony and community singing led by Holland Engle, W-G-N announcer.

A review of the growth and development of girl scouting in Chicago will be presented. Mrs. George O. Byrd, president of the scouts' board, will speak on plans for the future.

Dr. Frances W. Bergman will lead the 100 voice scout choir in several selections. This will be the group's first public appearance after months of practice.

EMINENT SCIENTIST INTERPRETS A-BOMB: END WARS OR PERISH

Dean Frank C. Whitmore of the school of chemistry and physics of Pennsylvania State college asserted last night that the atomic bomb has given the world the choice of abolishing war or perishing. In accepting the Willard Gibbs medal, one of the highest awards in American science, he addressed the Chicago section of the American Chemical society in the Furniture Club of America, 666 Lake Shore dr.

Dean Whitmore

"It cannot be outlawed by some international meeting of well meaning old ladies of both sexes," he said. "It must be outlawed in the only possible way, namely, by the abolition of war."

Dr. Whitmore is an authority on mercury drugs, has developed a general theory of molecular rearrangements in organic chemistry, and is doing research on aviation fuels, lubricants, explosives, synthetic rubber, and penicillin. He was head of the chemistry department at Northwestern university from 1925 to 1929.

TRUCK DRIVER ROBBED BY TWO

Gabriel Olesinski driver for a meat distributor at 6342 Wentworth av., told police yesterday that two men boarded his truck at Paulina st. and Jackson blvd. and forced him to drive into an alley, where they robbed him of $100 and the keys to the truck.

MASS MURDERS OF 38 CHARGED TO 20 IN MEXICO

Workers Smuggled Into U. S., Robbed

Laredo, Tex., Sept. 28 (AP)—Twenty men charged with the wholesale slaughter of 37 men and a woman were held tonight in the Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, jail, across the border from here.

Prosecutor Emilio Villalobos said the men were charged with smuggling workers into Texas for farm work and then robbing them of their wages and killing them upon their return to Mexico.

The prosecutor charged the slayers used small skiffs to get the workers across the river into Texas and then back into Mexico.

Nineteen bodies were found near Brownsville, six at Mission and 13 at Hidalgo in the lower Rio Grande during July and August. Villalobos said the bodies were those of workers who had been killed and thrown into the river. All bore marks of violence.

Pockets Turned Out

They were fully dressed, but with the pockets turned out.

The body of the woman, Villalobos said, found near Brownsville, Tex., had gaping holes in the hands and feet, leading to the belief she was crucified in an effort to learn where she kept her money.

American and Mexican officers have been working on the case for several weeks.

Face Death Penalty

Villalobos said the men will be tried under an emergency law which makes the death sentence mandatory in case of conviction. The accused men will be tried singly.

[In Washington Sen. Chavez [D., N. M.] said that congress should investigate the reported slayings. "The effects of this situation on the good neighbor policy will be disastrous and will be felt for many years to come," he added.]

HOPE, CANTOR HEAD STARS ON COMMUNITY FUND'S BILL TONIGHT

An all-star radio show will be broadcast from the Hollywood bowl in Hollywood, Cal., from 10 to 11 o'clock tonight in connection with the opening of the Community and War Fund drive. The program will be carried by W-G-N-Mutual. Bob Hope and Eddie Cantor head the list of radio notables who will salute 60,000 fund workers thruout the nation. Dinah Shore, Orson Welles, Lionel Barrymore, and the orchestras of Kay Kyser and Meredith Willson will be heard.

That hayloft revelry will be louder than usual at the 8th Street theater tonight. The National Barn Dance, emanating from the theater, will be celebrating its 12th birthday. Besides all the regulars, Skip Farrell, Sally Foster, and Pat [Uncle Ezra] Barrett will be on hand for the festivities.

Bill Slater and Al Helfer, who have been broadcasting baseball in New York, have been picked to give the play by play reports of the world series, starting next Wednesday, over W-G-N-Mutual. The Mutual network is the only one broadcasting the series. Bill Corum, New York sports writer, will do between innings color.

4 LIFERS SEEK RELEASE THRU FEDERAL COURT

A petition for a writ of habeas corpus in behalf of four men now serving life sentences for the murder of a customer during an attempted holdup of a grocery in 1935 was filed in the federal District court yesterday by Attorneys Abraham Teitelbaum and George Bieber.

The convicts seeking their freedom are Alex Shapiro, Bruno Austin, David Sinnenberg, and Morris Jacobs. The petition alleges that the men have completed serving a 1 to 14 year term for the attempted robbery and that the life sentence should be voided because of the statement of the son of the owner of the grocery that he shot the customer in the exchange of shots with the robbers.

A previous plea of the convicts based on the same statement was denied recently by Chief Justice Harold G. Ward in Criminal court. Judge Ward ruled the robbers became responsible for the murder by attempting the robbery."

$925 JUKE BOX STOLEN

3,000 WORKERS MEET FOR START OF FUND DRIVE

More than 3,000 workers last night met in Orchestra hall to launch the 1945 Chicago Community and War Fund drive. As part of the program, Danny Kaye, stage and screen comedian, helped open the National War Fund drive over his regular CBS program at 9:30 p. m. from the stage.

Solicitation of contributions will begin Monday morning.

Three executives of the Community and War Fund appealed to the workers and Chicagoans to make their quotas with a "great outpouring of generosity." They were Clarence B. Randall, vice president; Walter P. Paepcke, general chairman of the drive, and William S. Street, chairman of the public relations committee.

Per Capita Gift Goal Told

Chicago's per capita gift of $2.50 to the fund must be increased this year if the goal of the drive, $14,040,700, is to be reached, James A. Cunningham, vice chairman of the campaign, told 1,200 workers of the business division yesterday at a luncheon in the Grand ballroom of the Palmer House.

The business division of the drive must raise $10,200,000 toward the goal, $6,800,000 of which is expected to be obtained by the special gifts committee, Cunningham explained. The remainder must be solicited from 1,100,000 employes and 6,000 firms thruout the city, he said.

Paepcke reported that $2,980,000 already has been contributed, altho the drive does not open officially until Monday, and that another $600,000 has been promised.

"We must urge every Chicagoan to contribute one hour's pay for eight weeks," Paepcke said.

Kelly Pledges Help

Mayor Kelly, as head of the government section of the business division, pledged the coöperation of Chicago—"the greatest patriotic city in the country."

Altho the atomic bomb hastened surrender, the Japanese were doomed before the first one was loosed on Hiroshima, John S. Knight, editor and publisher of the Chicago Daily News who witnessed the surrender ceremonies aboard the U. S. S. Missouri in Tokyo bay, told the campaign workers at the luncheon.

GI Gets Permanent Wave; He's Converting to Peace

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 28 (AP)—A battle hardened overseas veteran, Sgt. Charles Cling of Pasadena, Cal., stopped off at Pittsburgh for one of the strangest things—a permanent wave. That is, it seemed strange until Cling, his hair tied in curlicues, explained today he's getting ready to return to his peace time job of a professional dancer.

APPROVE 5½ MILLION IN IMPROVEMENTS AT 5 NORMAL COLLEGES

Gov. Green was advised by the Illinois post-war planning commission yesterday to authorize construction of buildings and other facilities, to cost about 5¼ million dollars, at the state's five normal colleges. The commission, required by law to make recommendations for state post-war improvements, met in Chicago.

Among the construction items urged were: An auditorium and an administrative building at the college at Normal, $1,600,000; a training school unit at the Carbondale college, $1,600,000; library buildings at the institutions at De Kalb and Charleston, $600,000 each, and a science building at Macomb, to cost about one million.

Altogether the commission recommended expenditures totaling about 12 million dollars for buildings and improvements at state institutions.

NINE DOWNSTATE WAR NURSERIES END TOMORROW

Nine Illinois nurseries operating under the Lanham act for children of war working mothers will close tomorrow, making a total cut of 50 per cent in the number of federal child care centers since V-J day, William G. Harder, division supervisor of the federal works agency, said yesterday.

Centers closing tomorrow include those at Marion, Jacksonville, Illiopolis, Freeport, Alton, East Alton, Wilmington, Quincy, and De Kalb. Harder said all of the areas have war contract cancelations which nullify the need for child care centers.

SOCIAL WORKER PROMISES TO BE MORE SOCIABLE

When Jay Vaughn, 57, of 1238 N. Clark st., appeared before Judge John J. Griffin in Chicago av. court on a disorderly conduct charge yesterday, the judge asked him what he did for a living.

Vaughn, who was accused by George Pierce, manager of the hotel in which he lives, of participating in a drunken brawl, told the court that he was a social worker for the bureau of public welfare.

"You social workers usually come here to tell me what to do with people," Judge Griffin said. "What do you recommend for yourself?"

"I guess I'll have to cut down on my drinking," Vaughn admitted. His companion, Joseph Framus, 40, of 5710 Higgins av., a railroad brakeman, also was charged with disorderly conduct. Judge Griffin continued the hearing until Oct. 5.

U. S. IS EXPECTED TO YIELD RULE OF WARD'S SOON

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28 (AP)—The government soon expects to relinquish control of properties seized last December from Montgomery Ward & Co., it was learned today.

A reliable source said President Truman is preparing an executive order returning plants in seven cities to company control and may issue it tomorrow. The plants were taken over by the army after the company failed to comply with war labor board orders on wage rates and other issues.

It was said that under a plan developed by the office of war mobilization and reconversion the government will pay back wages to fulfill a WLB order and the company will make a reimbursement later.

WHAT THE NEW Martin 202 MEANS TO AIRLINE PILOTS

PASSENGERS aren't the only ones who will benefit from the modern design and all-around efficiency of the new Martin 202 transport. For this plane is the answer to a pilot's dream! Unusual convenience, visibility and dependability make the Martin 202 the easiest aircraft of its type to handle—while every new electronic device including radar, help lessen the pilot's burden, reduce fatigue and nervous strain. Look at the facts listed below and you'll see why the 202 opens a new era for airline pilots! THE GLENN L. MARTIN COMPANY, BALTIMORE 3, MD.

FACTS FOR AIRLINE PILOTS ABOUT THE NEW MARTIN 202

- All controls are located forward and within easy reach of pilot to eliminate necessity of turning around—control handles are identified by different shapes and colors—separate consoles for pilot and co-pilot—positive locking device for all control surfaces.
- Anti-icing equipment consists of 4 interconnected combustion heaters emptying into a common chamber, thus giving standby capacity. Wing, empennage and propeller are heated.
- Separate flight group instruments for pilot and co-pilot, yet entire panel is visible to both—offset control column minimizes concealment of panel by control wheel and also permits easy entry and exit.
- More comfortable, completely adjustable pilot's seats . . . adjustable rudder pedals—exterior lights to illuminate nacelles and leading edge of wing while in flight—emergency controls overhead, accessible to both pilot and co-pilot.
- Both main and nose wheels retract upward and forward. Landing gear gives positive emergency extension by gravity and girloads, is automatically locked down in emergency. Dual main wheels, steerable nose wheel.
- War-proven power plant—pressure fire extinguisher system—fuel tanks outboard of engines, away from cabin—simple fuel transfer system—200 amp. generator on each engine giving adequate standby power—Mareng elastic fuel tanks.
- High visibility, bird-proof windshield is heated and double-glazed, has clear vision panel and windshield wipers.
- Adjustable stabilizer interconnected with flaps to avoid large change in trim and stick forces—laminar, low-drag wing designed for optimum stalling characteristics—new, highly efficient ailerons.
- Reversible pitch propellers—Martin war-tested oil warm-up and dilution system for cold-weather starting.

• The Martin 202 is engineered specifically to meet Air Transport Association specifications. Not just designed for the airline but by the airline—custom-built by Martin—to the most exacting standards of the air traveler.

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 28—Five players on the University of Illinois football squad, which arrived late this afternoon for tomorrow's engagement with Notre Dame, were here two years ago when the Irish whipped them, 47 to 0. That debacle, still a rankling memory, sets the tempo for tomorrow's battle which is the opening contest for Notre Dame in its 10-game schedule.

Illinois wants to win. These words are insufficient to describe the intensity of feeling over this intercollegiate football game. Victory over Notre Dame has been an unattainable goal since the scoreless tie of 1937, the year when Ray Eliot, head coach of the invaders, reported to his alma mater as assistant line coach. Thruout summer practice and for the last four weeks Illinois has drawn a bead on Notre Dame. Victorious tomorrow, Illinois conceivably may be the team to upset the forecast that Minnesota or Ohio State will win the Western conference championship.

If Illinois is beaten, Eliot must restore confidence and morale while Notre Dame will move on to other scenes with the backlog of an achievement which many of its followers now believe beyond reach.

These Have a Grudge

Capt. Ralph Serpico, Bill Butkovich, Larry Forst, Eddie Bray, and George Bujan are the veterans who recall the licking received in 1943. All except Butkovich started that game and he now holds the key to Illinois' attack by his assignment as quarter back in the T formation.

Thirty-five Illinois players arrived at 6 p. m. after a 200-mile trip by bu. from Champaign. The final drill was held there, altho Notre Dame officials previously had announced that the invading squad would practice in the Notre Dame stadium.

Notre Dame ticket headquarters also said this afternoon that tomorrow's crowd would be 35,000 with hope of an increase if weather conditions are favorable. Today's cold drizzle stymied advance sales, which also have suffered from the gasoline strike.

Illinois' advance agents, Doug Mills, director of athletics and Charles Flynn, enthusiastic entrepreneur of publicity, are as nervous over this game as if they were equally responsible with Coach Eliot for the result.

It Will Be for Keeps

In brief, Illinois wants to win, to repeat the declaration in the second paragraph and thus the thousands tomorrow will see a November game played on the last Saturday in September.

Illinois' advantage, according to Flynn, is in assignment of players. The uncertainty of the last two years is over. So, today Illinois definitely has established six linemen in jobs which it did not have a year ago. Bill Heiss, once a full back, is now at left end and he also can back up the Illini line. Lou Agase, who started at end, is a tackle. Stan Sprague, formerly at center, is the right end. Larry Forst, who missed last season because of injury, has moved from tackle to guard.

Les Bingaman and Serpico have alternated at tackle and guard, but the more agile Serpico now is a tackle as he was for the Notre Dame game last year, while Bingaman will hurl his 277 pounds against young Bill Walsh, Irish center.

Hugh Devore, Notre Dame coach, stands pat on his lineup for tomorrow with the reservation that Bill Leonard, freshman right end, will not start if his injured leg still handicaps his running.

With fair weather, Notre Dame possibly will rely on Frank Dancewicz and George Ratterman to forward pass for victory. Illinois definitely will base its bid on a rugged, determined line. This may add up to a splendid defensive battle.

THEY'RE ENTERTAINING THOSE ILLINI

Old Michigan Gridiron Feud Flares Today

BY ARCH WARD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 28—There probably will be football games of wider interest played in Michigan this fall than tomorrow's contest between the University of Michigan and Michigan State college, but none will transcend this one in importance to the followers of the two schools.

For Michigan State, tomorrow's engagement marks its return to major football. The Spartans, whose football ranks were depleted by the war, abandoned the sport after the 1942 season. They resumed competition last fall with an all-civilian team that won six of its seven games.

Unless Michigan's gasoline shortage intervenes, a crowd of more than 50,000 will attend. State will be seeking its first victory over a Fritz Crisler-coached Michigan team. The Spartans won four in a row before Crisler took charge at Ann Arbor in 1938. The series dates back to 1898 and State has won only six of its 38 meetings with the Maize and Blue.

Guard Is 17 Years Old

Michigan, victorious over Great Lakes but beaten by Indiana, has a team of great potentialities. Its personnel appeared equally as good and probably better than Indiana's, but inexperience caught up with the Wolverines when the pressure was on.

Crisler plans only one change in his starting lineup. John Lintol, letter man guard, came out of the Hoosier scrap with an injured knee and his place will be taken by

20,000 WATCH AS GRAZIANO K. O.'S GREEN IN THIRD

New York, Sept. 28 (AP)—Amid scenes of wild confusion, with managers and seconds coming to blows in the ring, Rocky Graziano knocked out Harold Green in the third round of their 10 round bout in Madison Square Garden tonight before a sellout crowd of more than 20,000.

Rocky flattened Green with a sharp right to the chin in 1:49 of the third.

Green managed to get to his feet after the count of 10, then rushed after Graziano. Graziano threw his robe away and the two struggled to reach each other as managers and seconds whirled around the ring in disorder.

It's 21st Today for Wisconsin and Marquette

BY HARRY WARREN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Madison, Wis., Sept. 28—A crowd of 40,000 is expected to swarm into Camp Randall stadium tomorrow for the 21st renewal of the football rivalry between Wisconsin and Marquette, the game marking the opening of the home football season for the Badgers.

Both Marquette and Wisconsin officially opened their seasons last Saturday, the Badgers playing Great Lakes to a scoreless tie on the rain soaked gridiron at the naval center and the Hilltoppers losing a 14 to 13 decision to Purdue university in Lafayette, Ind.

Weather Outlook Gloomy

While neither the game at Great Lakes nor the one at Lafayette was played under favorable conditions because rain fell constantly, tomorrow's contest may be an encore of last Saturday's from a weather standpoint. Moreover, to add gloom, weather experts admit they would not be surprised to see a temperature of around 40 degrees at game time tomorrow.

Marquette has been established as a 9 to 5 favorite, but since players of neither of these traditional rivals take forecasts seriously and they usually wind up playing the game anyhow, Wisconsin followers refuse to grant anything in the way of a victory for the Hilltoppers until the final gun is sounded.

Marquette's optimistic viewpoint on tomorrow's game apparently centers on Bill Hickey, former St. Ignatius High school star of Chicago, who does most of the passing Indiana's Hoosiers, rated a right smart outfit off of last week's triumph over Michigan, and Northwestern's young Wildcats will open the local phase of the 1945 Western conference football season in Dyche stadium at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

It will be the 25th meeting between the two in a vendetta dating back to 1899. The Wildcats hold a marked edge in the series, with 15 decisions to Indiana's nine, six of those in a row prior to the Hoosiers' 14 to 7 victory last season.

The weatherman, currently in one of his most ornery moods, promises no cessation in his cantankerousness, allowing that he may add cold weather to a continuation of the moisture he has been sending down thru most of the last week. The Wildcats should be favored by such, since they had plenty of practice in dealing with damp going while taking an 18 to 6 argument from Iowa State last Saturday. If the W. M. doesn't relent the visitors may find the elements a trying novelty, for they enjoyed ideal conditions in defeating Michigan in Ann Arbor last Saturday.

Get Windy Reception

Coach Bo McMillin brought his young men in at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, just in time to be greeted by a shift in the wind which lashed the 12th street station as they stepped off their train. They adjourned to the Edgewater Beach hotel, then moved on to a brief workout under the east stands of Dyche stadium, the Wildcats following them with a similar session.

The Indiana starting lineup this afternoon will include seven tried and true workmen and four freshmen. Outstanding among the latter, of course, is George Taliaferro, 190 pound Negro half back from Gary, Ind., who had himself a day of it in the Michigan game. George netted 95 yards in 20 rushing plays, giving him an average of 4.75 yards per attempt. He showed a gross profit of 104 yards, but was dropped three times for losses totaling 9 yards. Since Indiana came out of the contest with a net aggregate of 165 yards by rushing, Taliaferro was responsible for .576 per cent of its ground gains.

Taliaferro Pitches 'Em

In addition, Taliaferro completed three out of three passes for a net of 22 yards. George, of course, isn't the only pitcher on the Hoosier eleven, Quarter Back Ben Raimondi, junior from Brooklyn, N. Y., being adept in the tossing department, also.

Altho the starting set does not include their names, the 25,000 customers who are anticipated at Dyche stadium if the weather should take a turn for the better may expect to see three familiar Hoosiers in action. They are John Cannady, Owensboro, Ky., 210 pounder, at center and full back; Pete Pihos at end and full back, and Howard Brown at guard. The last named two have just rejoined the squad after European combat duty which earned Brown a Purple Heart and Pihos, former Austin of Chicago star, four battle stars.

Out to Avenge Defeat

Lynn Waldorf and his associate coaches at Northwestern are not unduly upset about the quality of the Indiana personnel, for they feel that their boys, judged by their work against Iowa State, are capable of avenging last season's licking by the Hoosiers.

Waldorf will start four freshmen, even as Indiana. The Wildcat yearlings are Tackle Charley Hagmann, Guard Paul Schuetz, End Ken Wiltgen, and Quarter Back Don Laser. Supporting these youngsters will be Capt. Max Morris, Northwestern basketball star; Center Ray Miller, Half Backs Bruce Bairstow and Dick Conners, and Full Back Bill Travers.

St. Louis—Double header against the Reds today and a single game tomorrow, all in Cincinnati.

American League
Detroit—Single games today and tomorrow in St. Louis.

BY EDWARD BURNS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 28—The Cubs are ready for the pennant clinching ceremonies here tomorrow. Hank Borowy is counted on to preside at the festivities in the first game of the Pirate-Cub double header. If something unexpected and unforeseen should happen to bring defeat to the ex-Yankee, Claude Passeau and the lads surely should take care of things in the second game.

The Cubs have won 11 of the 19 games played with the Pirates this season.

They're All Relaxed

Inasmuch as the Cubs arrived here today assured of a tie for first place, even if the Cardinals win their final three in Cincinnati and the Cubs should lose their three here, complete relaxation was evident among all the players, many of whom were jittery in the home final Wednesday, and a few of whom seemed still to have slight cases of nervousness during the sweeping of yesterday's double header from the Reds.

All the boys confidently expect the first post-war pennant race to be over about 2:30 o'clock Chicago time tomorrow afternoon, certainly not later than sundown. And, of course, a Cardinal defeat or a rainout in Cincinnati or here, would accomplish the same purpose.

The Cubs, unless the Tigers fold up in St. Louis, will return to Chicago Monday morning, gather up some of their property and depart for Detroit and the world series Monday afternoon. It seems like a rather odd 500 mile detour but desirable to all hands.

Cards Are Baffled

Don Johnson, who suffered a neck injury in yesterday's game with the Reds, will be unable to play against the Pirates, but should be ready for the world series.

It is said the Cardinals still can't understand how they virtually are frozen out of their fourth championship when they have beaten the Cubs 16 times in 22 tries, with five of the Cubs' meager success total being decided by only one run or in extra innings. If the Cards could calm themselves and study the team against team standings for the season thruout the National league they would not be consoled but they would know in detail just what hit them.

Here are some comparisons and contrasts:

	W.	L.
Cubs vs. Brooklyn	14	8
Cards vs. Brooklyn	13	9
*Cubs vs. Pittsburgh	11	8
Cards vs. Pittsburgh	12	10
Cubs vs. New York	11	11
Cards vs. New York	16	6
Cubs vs. Boston	15	7
Cards vs. Boston	13	10
Cubs vs. Cincinnati	21	1
*Cards vs. Cincinnati	10	9
Cubs vs. Philadelphia	17	5
Cards vs. Philadelphia	13	9

*Three games to play.

While some of these ratios are perplexing an explanation may be that the Cardinals saved their powder for the big town teams, the New York Giants, who won 25 of their first 32 games, and their perennial targets, the Cubs. While they won 32 out of 44 with the Giants and Cubs, the Cards so used up their energies that they frequently were bowled over by teams which were soft for the Cubs, who took on each club as the schedule indicated.

According to word from Cincinnati, the Cardinals will send Red Barrett, their ace, and Ken Burkhart against the Reds in tomorrow's double header. The home club will use Bob Bowman and Howard Fox on the mound.

TIGERS TO USE TRUCKS TODAY

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

The staggering of Detroit's Tigers toward the American league pennant can, mathematically, come to a successful conclusion today and at the same time the threat of the Washington Senators, now reduced to the possibility of a tie, could be definitely erased. The latter's chance for a deadlock and a play-off on Monday, depends on the Tigers losing not only today's game in St. Louis but also the season's final there tomorrow.

If the Tigers win today and thus assure the world series opening in Briggs stadium, Detroit, instead of elsewhere next Wednesday, it may be a story of the wandering boy who came home in time to lift the mortgage on the old homestead.

The boy is 26 year old Virgil Trucks, a one time Tiger who came out of the navy a few days ago and immediately declared himself ready to break thru the last barrier between the Detroiters and a world series role.

Virgil to Start Today

Steve O'Neill, the Tiger manager, admitted yesterday before starting from Detroit for St. Louis that it would be Trucks today and that previous pitching plans for the windup had been junked. But the decision to start the fire baller who went into the navy March 2, 1944, wasn't made in desperation. Trucks, it so happens, is ready and if he proves fit today he also may prove ready next week against the Cubs—at least it is safe to say the Cubs will be there.

AUSTIN DEFEATS STEINMETZ 6-0, ON KICK-OFF RUN

Lane Tech Beats Taft; Calumet Wins

BY DAVID CONDON

Left Half Back Rocco Mavigliano yesterday ran 85 yards with the opening kick-off for the only score of the game as Austin High school's football team started defense of the City league title it shares with Tilden by defeating Steinmetz, 6 to 0, before 2,800 in Key Branch stadium.

Rain, which caused postponement of many games, slowed the progress of those which were played and most offensives bogged down on muddy fields.

After the early touchdown, a second quarter Austin drive was halted on the Steinmetz 1 foot line when the first half ended. Late in the fourth period the west section champions again threatened, only to lose the ball on downs on the 10 yard line.

Lane Beats Taft

Alex Cichanski scored three touchdowns to lead Lane, defending north section title holder, to its second straight league triumph as the Indians beat Taft, 21 to 14, in Winnemac park. Cichanski scored one touchdown in each of the first three periods, on runs of 13, 12, and 13 yards. Chet Hulbert kicked the three extra points.

Lane led, 7 to 6, at the end of the first period after Taft had scored on Ray Ratchek's 2 yard plunge. Earl Wurthman had run 38 yards before being downed on the 2 to put Taft in scoring position.

Wurthman scored a touchdown in the fourth period on a 2 yard plunge, and the Taft eleven gained two more points on a safety when Ratchek punted to Lane's Dick Kieres, who fumbled on the 8 yard line and recovered in the end zone.

Calumet, 12; Harper, 0

Calumet opened its south section campaign by scoring in the first and fourth quarters to defeat Harper, 12 to 0, in Shewbridge field. Ed Ferraro ran around left end from the 25 yard line to give Calumet a 6 to 0 lead at half time. In the fourth period, Hugh Willett's attempted punt from the Harper 12 yard line was blocked, with Left End Al Perry recovering behind the goal line for Calumet.

The important south section clash between Fenger, defending section champion, and Parker, was postponed until 7:30 p. m., Monday, in Shewbridge field. Another south section contest, the South Shore-Morgan Park game, has been rescheduled for Monday afternoon in 83d-Yates stadium. The postponed west section game between Crane and Kelvyn Park will be played this morning in Hanson Park.

In the South Suburban league the opener between Kankakee and Thornton Fractional in Calumet City was postponed until Monday at 7:30 p. m.

FRESHMEN PACE DETROIT'S 32-0 ROUT OF ALMA

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 28 [Special]—The University of Detroit celebrated its return to collegiate football after a two year absence by routing Alma college tonight, 32 to 0. Three of the Titans' five touchdowns resulted from long runs.

Guy Brown, Manhattan, Kas., freshman, sped 65 yards for one. Joe Parke, Detroit freshman, got away for 38 yards, and Don Gupe, transfer from Marquette university, set up a third with a 46 yard dash to the Alma 4. Full Back Jack Simmons, transfer from University of Maryland, scored once on a 2 yard smash, and Brown ran 9 yards for the final tally.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN

The Murlogg farm entry of Fighting Step and Bergolater will go postward today heavy favorite to capture the 16th running of the $15,000 Hawthorne handicap, a mile and a furlong affair which has drawn a field of 12 candidates.

Fighting Step will be in quest of its fifth consecutive victory, having accounted for the $50,000 American Derby at Washington Park and the $10,000 Autumn handicap at Hawthorne two weeks ago. His season's earnings for Mrs. Frank B. Murphy and Miss Susan Kellogg of Evansville, Ind., total $102,225. Bergolater has won six of 11 starts and $13,275.

Take Wing a Threat

While Daily Trouble is expected to give Fighting Step a run for his money, the real threat is Mrs. Clyde Troutt's consistent Take Wing, a 7 year old gelding which will carry only 114 pounds.

Yesterday's crowd was held to the lowest of the season, 6,341, by an all day rain. Wagering totaled $671,575.

Azizi Wins Skokie

Mrs. E. E. Robbins' Azizi, 5 year old daughter of the imported Pharamond II., won the $2,500 Skokie purse, featured sixth race, scoring by one and one-half lengths over Dave Hurn's Hop Picker, an entry with Gal Ann. Hurl Hom Harl was third in a field of 10 at six furlongs. The winner, ridden by J. W. Martin, paid $12.20.

Tigers Put It Up to Trucks in Game Today

he knows how to handle pitchers, hustled down to St. Louis Wednesday night as soon as word was received that Trucks was headed that way. In St. Louis Trucks pitched and Richards caught 'em yesterday and after the workout Richards had the Detroit park on the long distance phone. His advice was that Trucks is a compact 190, five pounds under his 1943 figure, and able to pitch as good as he ever did.

They Call Him Second Feller

If Trucks really is primed, O'Neill is not taking much of a chance because there have been baseball men who rated Trucks another Bob Feller. In 1942 the Birmingham lad won 14 games for the Tigers. In 1943 he boosted his winning total to 16 while losing 10 for a neat earned run average of 2.84.

O'Neill's aim, of course, is to get over the last hurdle without calling on Hal Newhouser, the lefty with 24 victories, a procedure that would leave the ace man in proper trim for the world series opener. Or keep him available in the event of a playoff with the Senators being necessary. This doesn't mean however, that Newhouser wouldn't be rushed to the rescue today if Trucks, or Stubby Overmire should show signs of weakening in the late innings.

ASSOCIATION IN THIRD STRAIGHT POSTPONEMENT

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 28 (AP)—For the third straight time, cold weather and wet grounds forced postponement tonight of the fifth American association title play-off game between the Louisville Colonels and the St. Paul Saints.

BEARS WORK LIKE BEAVERS IN LAST DRILL AT CAMP

They Will Be Green Bay Bound Today

BY EDWARD PRELL
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Collegeville, Ind., Sept. 28—The Bears this morning wrapped up all the things they hope to do to the Packers on Sunday in a 2 hour and 45 minute drill. They worked thru despite intermittent showers, knowing this was the last time their cleats would sink into turf until Sunday afternoon in their 54th National Football league game against Curly Lambeau's Packers in Green Bay, Wis.

Later in the day, and on into the evening, there were strategy meetings. Tomorrow morning the squad of 31 Bears will leave the St. Joseph college campus for Chicago, 80 miles away. Shortly after noon the Bears at last will be on their way to Green Bay. This is the game they have been pointing for since training started and this also is the game that the Packers have been awaiting.

Turner Is Big Loss

The Bears think they're better in some positions than they were last year. All agree the major loss was that of Clyde [Bulldog] Turner, giant all-league center, who was called by the army. Fred Mundee has done a creditable job at center, but the old Notre Dame star would be the first to agree he's no Turner.

Good Right Halves

Right half—High Gallarneau, Al Grygo, Charley Mitchell. The latter will see much action on defense Sunday. Gallarneau will be making his first appearance with the Bears since 1942. Ray [Scooter] McLean also has decided on a comeback. He will arrive in Green Bay on Sunday by plane.

Full back—Jim Fordham, Gary Famiglietti, Joe Vodica, and Jack Hunt. Fordham and Famiglietti will be used offensively, with Vodica backing up the line on defense. Hunt is a newcomer who led the nation in scoring a few seasons ago as a member of the Marshall [W. Va.] eleven. He also passes and kicks.

Vodica, a Chicago lad who never played college football, has been shifted to full back. He was with the Bears two years ago and has returned after being in service.

ZUPPKE GIVES HIS LORE FREE TO CUBAN TEAM

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 28 (AP)—Bob Zuppke is back in the football coaching business again, this time outside of the United States. Zuppke, whose University of Illinois football teams won seven Big Ten championships during his 29 year regime, announced today he had accepted a position as advisory football coach at the University of Havana in Cuba.

The 66 year old strategist, who resigned from Illinois in 1941, said he planned to leave for Cuba Oct. 10, if he could make plane reservations. Zuppke said he would serve on the University of Havana staff without pay.

Zuppke served in a similar capacity at Auburn for several weeks last summer. He said the University of Havana has an enrollment of 1,600 and had four games scheduled against service teams in Cuba this fall.

Longer Illinois Coot Season to Start Monday

The Illinois coot hunting season, 14 days longer than usual, will open Monday, Livingston E. Osborne, state director of conservation, said yesterday.

Osborne said the United States fish and wildlife service which regulates all migratory fowl hunting, approved a state season from Oct. 1 to Dec. 31.

The director said the mudhen stock was plentiful this year in Lake and McHenry counties, northwest of Chicago, where coot hunting is concentrated. He reminded Chicago hunters that altho the season opens at 5:18 a. m. [central time] Monday it would be 6:18 a. m. by their timepieces, since the city will continue to observe daylight saving time.

Two war veterans with the Indiana football team, which meets Northwestern today, relax in the Edgewater Beach hotel. They are Pete Pihos (left) end, and Howard Brown, guard.

It's 21st Today for Marquette and Wisconsin

from the T formation for Coach Tom Stidham's Hilltoppers. Then the fact that Johnny Rudan, who will captain Marquette tomorrow, will operate at full back again, adds greatly to the hopes of the visitors.

Hilltoppers Have Edge

A perusal of the charts of both teams shows that Marquette has a slight edge in average weights, 188 for the Hilltoppers and 184 for the Badgers. The lines of both teams average 188, but the Hilltoppers will enjoy a bulge in the back field, 185 to 177.

Coach Stidham is expected to call frequently on letter men for service. In addition to Rudan they include: Bob Quinsey, Bob Telk, Paul Glasener, Bill Heinkel, Karl Plath and Bob Lodde. Four former Chicago players are in the starting lineup for Marquette: Hickey; Frank Romeo of Cicero; Jerome Kwilosz of De La Salle and Edward Castans of Fenwick.

Coach Harry Stuhldreher said tonight he will start the same squad that operated against Great Lakes with two exceptions. Ray Mals will open at left end instead of Bob Hanley and Charles Lehman will start at right half back instead of Charles Chaney.

See Rudan-Thompson Duel

Should wet weather prevail tomorrow and thus cut down the efficiency of Marquette's passing attack, the game is expected to resolve itself into a ground gaining duel between Rudan and Jerry Thompson, Wisconsin's left half back. Thompson operated at full back for Wisconsin last year and from that station became the Badger's best ground gainer. Against Great Lakes last Saturday Thompson was the sparkplug of the Badger attack and Rudan was in the same role with Marquette against Purdue.

SOX OPEN FINAL SERIES TODAY IN COMISKEY PARK

The White Sox, whose sole hope now is to avoid slipping down to seventh place in the American league standings, will close the season with single games against the Cleveland Indians in Comiskey park today and tomorrow.

The Sox have no mathematical chance of overhauling the Indians, who hold fifth place, but may be caught by the seventh place Boston Red Sox. The latter, a game and a half behind Jimmy Dykes' club, will meet the Yankees in New York today and tomorrow.

SCHLEICH SAYS HE'LL PASS UP PROS THIS FALL

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 28 [Special]—Vic Schleich, former Iowa Seahawk and University of Nebraska tackle, said today he will not play professional football this fall. He explained that Tom Gallery, general manager of the Brooklyn football Dodgers, had told him a National league rule bars any player who has signed a post-war contract with the All-America conference.

Schleich, discharged from the navy, has signed with the Cleveland Browns in the All-America conference for 1946.

At Indianapolis, Ind.—Bob Simmons beat Bobby Fowler [10]. Leroy Scales beat Jack Hill [6].
At Boston, Mass.—Sal Bartolo beat Maxie Shapiro [10].
At Detroit, Mich.—Bill Eddy and Leroy Willis drew.

BLUEJACKETS TO TAKE ON PURDUE AT GREAT LAKES

The touchdown hungry Great Lakes Bluejackets still are looking for a punch, but since their 0 to 0 tie with Wisconsin last Saturday they have come up with an added defensive factor in Marty Wendell, former Notre Dame full back, who will start today against Purdue at the naval center.

The Bluejackets have played two games, losing their opener to Michigan, 27 to 2, and holding Wisconsin to the scoreless tie last Saturday. Purdue had a lot of trouble beating Marquette, 14 to 13, last week.

Marion Motley, the big Negro full back who was injured in the Michigan game and missed the Wisconsin clash, will be absent again, this time because of illness in his family. The Bluejackets also will be minus the services of Ronald Wendt, tackle, who was injured against the Badgers and will be unable to play.

Probable starting lineups:

Great Lakes		Purdue
O'Connor	L. E.	Wachold
Harvey	L. T.	O'Brien
Foley	L. G.	Clymer
Adair	C.	Kodba
Lamoure	R. G.	Glasener

Stuart Wilkins, 1944 all-state prep selection from Canton, O. Wilkins is only 17.

Michigan's back field will be aided by Bob Nussbaumer who had only five days practice before playing against Indiana. Joe Ponsetto already is recognized as one of the top quarter backs in the middle west and Walt Teninga, freshman tail back from Chicago's Morgan Park High school, has given convincing evidence of his ball carrying talent.

State Uses Z Formation

Michigan State will have a veteran back field with the exception of Bob Ludwig, freshman left half back from Muskegon. Ludwig's passing and running in recent workouts have earned him a starting assignment. The Spartans' biggest threat will be Jolting Jack Breslin, Battle Creek, Mich., senior, who is dangerous in an open field, an accurate passer and a hard plunger.

Considerable interest centers in the effectiveness of Charley Bachman's Flying Z formation, an adaptation of the single wing which the State coach has favored for many years. The full back stands a step ahead of the tail back and all plays are supposed to fake at the middle of the line before their ultimate destination is revealed.

Young Iowa Team to Face Flyers Today

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 28 [Special]—Iowa will open its 57th football season here tomorrow with a youthful team opposing Bergstrom field of Texas.

The Troop Carriers, whose team averages 25 years of age with a line averaging 206 pounds, were deprived of a last minute workout today when only one of the three transport planes arrived on schedule.

Hawkeyes in Brief Drill

The opening lineup will average 188 pounds with five members making their first starts in intercollegiate football. These newcomers include Ralph Woodard, Bill Kay, Louis Ginsberg, Jack Hammond, and Bob Gustafson, the game captain from Rockford, Ill., who played as a freshman here in 1942.

Niles 1938 Regular

Among the remaining Hawkeye starters, Paul Fagerlind, Nelson Smith, and Jack Kelso played for Iowa last season, Jerry Niles, the keyman and passer, was a regular in 1938, Herb Braun played in seven games for Minnesota last fall, and Ira Lund gained some experience at Iowa State Teachers.

The lineup:

Iowa		Bergstrom Field
Woodard	L. E.	Hires
Kay	L. T.	Connelly
Ginsberg	L. G.	Katz
Lund	C.	Reed
Fagerlind	R. G.	Rogers
Hammond	R. T.	Spears
Gustafson	R. E.	Dunn
Niles	Q. B.	Banas
Kelso	L. H.	Price
Smith	R. H.	W. Davis
Braun	F. B.	Mayne

Referee—John O'Donnell [St. Ambrose]. Umpire—Fred Winter [Grinnell]. Field judge—Wiley Hartzell [Simpson]. Head linesman—Vic Young [Colorado].
Radio broadcasts: KFH—St. Louis; WTAM—Cleveland; WKRC—Cincinnati; WCOL, WBNS, and WOSU—Columbus.

BUCKEYES WARM UP TODAY WITH MISSOURI TEAM

Columbus, O., Sept. 28 [Special]—Ohio State university's football team, defending champion of the Western conference, will open its season tomorrow against the University of Missouri. It will be their fifth meeting with the Tigers still seeking their first victory. Attendance is expected to exceed 40,000.

Ohio has three 1944 regulars in the starting lineup in Guard Warren Amling, Tackle Russell Thomas and Full Back Ollie Cline.

Hackett Unable to Play

Capt. Bill Hackett, brilliant guard, who is suffering from an inner cerebral pressure, the result of an automobile accident late last year, still is unable to play. Paul Sarringhaus, left half back and a veteran of the 1942 team, will be acting captain.

Besides Sarringhaus, service dischargees slated for action with the Ohioans are Bud Kessler, end; Thornton Dixon, a tackle who played with the Buckeyes in 1941, and Robin Priday, substitute quarter back on the 1942 eleven.

Giant Tackle Is Kicker

Heading Missouri's lineup is Jim Kekeris, 280 pound tackle-full back who also handles the place-kicking chores. According to Acting Coach Chauncey Simpson, Bill Dallastatious, veteran runner, punter and passer of the Tigers, will not see action. The Tiger half back suffered an ankle injury two weeks ago. Lineups:

Ohio State		Missouri
Kessler	L. E.	Eigelberger
Thomas	L. T.	Kekeris
Amling	L. G.	McDaniel
Lininger	C.	Henderson
Redd	R. G.	Riddle
Dixon	R. T.	Quirk
Watson	R. E.	Clevinger
Ehrsam	Q. B.	Brown
Sarringhaus	L. H.	Hopkins
Verdova	R. H.	Brinkman
Cline	F. B.	O'Connell

Referee—R. H. Rupp (Lebanon Valley). Umpire—Grady Skillers (Oklahoma). Field judge—L. A. House (Iowa). Head linesman—C. O. Dollings (Ohio university).
Radio broadcasts: KFH—St. Louis; WTAM—Cleveland; WKRC—Cincinnati; WCOL, WBNS, and WOSU—Columbus.

BUSHER HEADS $50,000 COAST DERBY FIELD

Inglewood, Cal., Sept. 28 (AP)—Fourteen 3 year olds, headed by the filly queen, Busher, today passed the entry box for tomorrow's fifth running of the $50,000 Hollywood Derby at Hollywood Park.

Busher, probably even money favorite, drew No. 13 post position, which may make it difficult for Jockey Johnny Longden to get the Louis B. Mayer filly, carrying top weight of 123 pounds, into the early contention of the mile and one-eighth run.

The entries by post position, with weights and jockeys:

Horse	Weight	Jockey

HOGAN LEADS PORTLAND OPEN BY 4 STROKES

Portland, Ore., Sept. 22 (AP)—Ben Hogan maintained his sub-par pace today to hold his lead at the half way mark of the 72 hole Portland Open tournament. His second round 69, three under par, gave him 134, a margin of four strokes over Harold [Jug] McSpaden, who also came in with a 69 for a midway count of 138. Defending Champion Sam Snead had a pair of 71s.

Cubs Order New Uniforms for Home Series Games

The Cubs will be all dressed up in new world series uniforms when they trot out on Wrigley field a week from next Saturday. The special raiment is being tailored in Cincinnati.

DETROIT LIONS SIGN SZYMANSKI OF NOTRE DAME

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 28 (AP)—Frank Szymanski, who resigned recently as captain of the 1945 Notre Dame football squad, has signed a contract with the Detroit Lions of the National Football league and will play in the Washington Redskins game Sunday.

Szymanski, former Detroit high school star, figured in a recent controversy when Kenneth L. [Tug] Wilson, Western conference commissioner, ruled that any player who made any professional commitments would be ineligible for conference competition. Since Notre Dame abides by Big Ten regulations, there was no course left to the Irish captain but to resign.

TRUMAN CLAIMS COAST SHELF OIL SUPPLY FOR U. S.

President's Step Taken Thru Proclamation

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28 (AP)—President Truman today claimed for the United States the oil and other natural resources of the 750,000 square miles of continental shelf under the high seas.

The continental shelf, generally, is submerged land adjoining the continent and covered by no more than 600 feet of water. It extends in most instances beyond the three mile limit of ownership recognized by international law.

The President also asserted the right of this government to establish conservation zones for the protection of its fisheries in areas of the high seas off the coasts of the United States. The action, accomplished by proclamation, pioneered in a new field of international relations.

Termed Equal to "Conquest"

Chairman Sumners [D., Tex.] of the house judiciary committee said it was "equivalent to conquest."

The President's proclamation said the United States considers "the exercise of jurisdiction over the natural resources of the subsoil and sea bed of the continental shelf by the contiguous nation is reasonable and just."

"The continental shelf may be regarded as an extension of the land mass of the coastal nation and thus naturally appurtenant to it," it said.

"Self protection compels the coastal nation to keep close watch over activities off the shores which are of a nature necessary for utilization of these resources."

Believe Oil Deposits There

The President said the development and discovery of new sources of petroleum and other minerals should be encouraged in view of the world-wide need, and that experts believe portions of the United States continental shelf beyond the three mile limit contain valuable oil deposits.

Oil is taken at present from within the three mile limit off the coast of California and there are geological indications that rich oil deposits extend into the Gulf of Mexico off the coast of Texas.

By directive order accompanying the proclamation, the President reserved administration of the resources of the continental shelf, pending legislative action, under the control of the secretary of interior.

BREAK-UP VALUE

I should like information regarding the indicated break-up value of Engineers Public Service company common stock under the divestment plan.—T. U.

*The final liquidating value will depend largely on the worth of Virginia Electric and Power common stock which, if the plan is carried out, will ultimately be distributed to Engineers common stock holders.

As preliminary steps, Engineers proposes to redeem its preferred stock at $100 a share, or $39,245,500, and to distribute to its common stock holders one-fifth share of El Paso Electric common stock for each share held. This distribution, it is estimated, may have a value of $4 to $5 a share of Engineers. Rights to subscribe to Gulf States Utilities common may have some additional value.

Virginia E. & P. common, nearly all owned by Engineers, is not publicly quoted. Some studies of its probable value have led to the conclusion that Engineers' liquidating value, after retirement of 3 million dollars proposed bank loans, would be equal, under present market conditions, to about $28 a share on the common. Adding the value of the El Paso stock distribution would make an indicated total of $32 or $33.

If the securities and exchange commission should hold that the preferred stock is entitled to a redemption premium, the liquidating value of the common would be lower. The plan will not be carried out until after the Supreme court rules on the company's case involving section 11 of the holding company act.

KAISER-FRAZER SALE OF STOCK HAS '29 GLITTER

Recalls Eagerness to Speculate

BY THOMAS FURLONG

The glittering days of the 1929 bull market when the public clamored to be cut in on each new speculative stock issue were recalled yesterday by the circumstances surrounding the public sale of shares in the newly launched Kaiser-Frazer corporation.

Henry J. Kaiser

The public offering, made Thursday, of 1,700,000 shares at $10 a share was quickly oversubscribed. Most dealers were able to fill only a small percentage of orders from customers. The stock sold yesterday at a premium of more than $3 a share over the offering price.

Prominent Subscribers

The names of individuals prominent in Washington were among those reported by brokers to be subscribers at the offering price. Initial buyers were in a position to take an immediate profit in the stock amounting to about one-third of their investment.

[In Washington, D. C., Henry J. Kaiser told western congressmen he was discussing with the Reconstruction Finance corporation a proposal to finance a Kaiser steel industry thru sale of stock to the public, the Associated Press reported.]

Brokers described the sale as the hottest piece of stock promotion since the 1920s. They recalled the lively competition that existed then for a stock issue put out under a glamorous market name like that of Insull. Positions on the original subscription lists were eagerly sought for because they offered promise of handsome immediate profits.

Cleared Quickly by SEC

One broker observed that if the new company can put on a sales promotion campaign for its new automobile equal to that for the stock it should be able to stand against even the stiff competition it faces from General Motors, Ford, and Chrysler.

Of special interest was the speed with which the issue was qualified by the securities and exchange commission. Clearance was given by the agency within three days of registration. This was described as the quickest approval ever given a promotional issue.

A financial news service quoted Baldwin Bane, director of the SEC finance division, as saying the corporation's registration statement was "one of the best prepared ever to come before the commission." Such praise from the SEC is rare.

Favorite of New Deal

Nowhere is Kaiser's reputation better than in Washington. He has been described as the New Deal's favorite big business man. He has operated extensively thruout the war on funds supplied by government agencies. He has announced that he will seek to buy or lease the huge government financed Geneva steel plant at Provo, Utah, described as the most modern mill of its type.

The new automobile company was promoted jointly by Kaiser and the Graham-Paige interests. Each subscribed to 250,000 shares of its stock for a combined investment of 5 million dollars. The corporation is expected to realize about 15 million dollars from shares sold publicly.

The corporation has signed a lease for part of the Willow Run, Mich., bomber plant, operated for the government by Ford Motor company during the war. Rental starts at $500,000 in the first year and reaches $1,200,000 in the third year.

"No Representation Can Be Made"

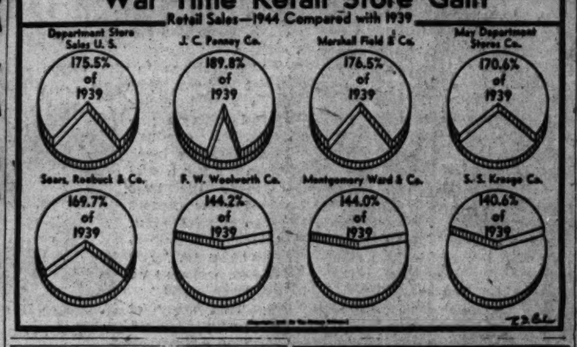
The registration statement filed with the SEC says:

"The Kaiser interests for some time have been engaged in experimental and development work in the automobile field, and the results thereof will be available to the corporation thru the association with it of certain Kaiser personnel. Similarly thru the association with the corporation of certain Graham-Paige personnel and the proposed joint operation with Graham-Paige, the corporation will receive the benefit of the automotive engineering and production experience of such personnel.

"Pending further research, designing, and testing, and the study of various production and supply problems, no representation can be made as the specifications of the Kaiser automobile or the extent to which the experimental and development work heretofore done by the Kaiser interests may be utilized."

War Time Retail Store Gain

Retail Sales—1944 Compared with 1939



Sales at Peak, Profit Higher for Wieboldt

Wieboldt Stores, Inc., yesterday reported record sales and slightly increased profits in its fiscal year ended July 28 and disclosed recapitalization plans in a proxy statement to stockholders.

Sales rose 8.8 per cent to $40,397,615 from the preceding fiscal year's volume. Net income was $831,297, or $2.22 a share, against $800,331, or $2.10 a share.

Samuel L. Hypes, president, said stockholders would be asked to approve the recapitalization plan Oct. 19. He asserted the program would place the company in a "favorable position" for financing expansion and improvements.

Would Issue 50,000 Preferred

Proposed is the issuance in series of 50,000 new cumulative preferred shares and the authorization of 160,000 more common shares. The new preferred dividend rate would range from $4 to $4.25 a year. An initial 35,000 shares of the preferred would be issued, but no common would be issued at that time.

Of the initial preferred series, 13,950 shares would be offered on a share for share basis, with cash adjustment, to holders of the $5 cumulative prior preferred. Another 19,689 shares of the series would be offered in exchange for 6 per cent $50 par value cumulative convertible preferred shares at the rate of 0.51 of a new share for each 6 per cent preferred share held. This exchange would reduce the 6 per cent preferred from 58,606 shares to 20,000.

Remainder Would Be Sold

The remainder would be sold to underwriters for resale to the public. Completion of the program would increase the capital represented by all preferred shares from $4,325,300 to approximately 4½ millions.

Bendix Aviation corporation reported net earnings in the nine months ended June 30 were $10,376,643, or $4.90 a share, compared with $12,159,486, or $5.74 a share, a year earlier.

KEYSTONE STEEL CONTROL BALLOT COUNTING BEGINS

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 28 (AP)—A fight for control of the Keystone Steel and Wire company between the management and the ousted president was adjourned today until 4 p. m. tomorrow to permit counting of proxies among the 757,632 shares of voting stock.

At the annual stockholders meeting the removed president, W. H. Sommer, nominated his personal attorney, R. J. Kavanagh, for one of three posts as director. The slate nominated by the management included the present directors: Sommer, Daniel P. Sommer, and Theodore C. Baer.

Sommer was removed as president by the board of directors June 21, after 10 years of service, and was succeeded by his nephew, Reuben E. Sommer, vice president and general manager.

STEVENS LEAVES POST AS WARD VICE PRESIDENT

Montgomery Ward & Co. yesterday announced the resignation of Rowland S. Stevens as vice president, general merchandising manager, and a director. Neither Stevens nor the Ward management gave any reason, but said the resignation was amicable.

W. H. Norton, retail sales manager, will succeed Stevens as general merchandise manager. Stevens, who started with the company in 1929, became vice president in 1943. Norton has been with Ward since 1932, as retail sales manager since October, 1944.

AMER. LOCOMOTIVE, 2 OTHERS REGISTER LARGE STOCK ISSUES

Three large stock registrations were filed with the securities and exchange commission yesterday, one by American Locomotive company for 400,000 shares of $1 par common stock. Proceeds will be used to reduce preferred stock obligations.

Pennsylvania Power company registered 42,000 shares of $100 par 4.25 per cent preferred stock to be exchanged for present $5 preferred on a share for share basis plus a cash adjustment. All unexchanged $5 stock will be redeemed. The company also registered $9,793,000 of first mortgage bonds to finance retirement of 4 and 3½ per cent bonds and plant improvements.

Monroe Equipment company, auto parts manufacturer, registered 40,000 shares of $50 par 5 per cent cumulative preferred stock and warrants to purchase 40,000 shares of $1 par common stock. Proceeds will be added to working capital.

Halsted Bank Will Be Moved to La Salle St.

La Salle st. will get another national bank and an innovation in Chicago banking—an automobile drive-in deposit window. The customer may enter the bank in his car and deposit his cash without leaving his seat.

The Halsted Exchange National bank, 1929 S. Halsted st., yesterday leased the first floor and basement of the National Republic building, 134 S. La Salle st. It will be renamed the Exchange National Bank of Chicago and occupy its new quarters after Jan. 1.

Drive Thru Building

At the north end of the building a wide, canopied entrance will be cut thru the La Salle st. wall, and the customer may drive his car directly into the bank. After using a special "drive-in window," he will leave the bank thru a new exit in the west wall.

The bank, which leased 16,000 square feet of floor space for 20 years at a reported term rental of 1½ million dollars, will spend $125,000 in remodeling the premises into modern quarters.

Occupants Will Move

The First Federal Savings & Loan association and Clement, Curtis & Co., brokers, occupy the first floor. The First Federal will move soon to the former Tribune building, Madison and Dearborn sts., and Clement, Curtis & Co. has leased larger quarters on the third floor of the Board of Trade building. Kenneth Hunter, vice president of Hogan & Farwell, was broker in the lease negotiations.

The bank, capitalized for $200,000, had deposits of more than 24 million dollars on Sept. 21. R. E. Law is president and Jerry Scandiff vice president and cashier.

New Oil Well Completed by Nu-Enamel in Texas

Nu-Enamel corporation yesterday reported completion of another producing oil well in Montague county, Tex. The Chicago paint company owns interests in 21 producing oil and gas wells.

Bankers Elect Frank Rathje New President

New York, Sept. 28 (AP)—Frank C. Rathje of Chicago became president of the American Bankers' association today, succeeding W. Randolph Burgess of New York.

Frank C. Rathje

Addressing a luncheon ending the two day meeting of the association's administrative committee, Rathje appealed for "re-establishment of the philosophy of thrift" which, he said, "must be the keystone in the reconstruction of our economy."

Rathje is chairman of the board and president of the Chicago City Bank and Trust company and president since 1916 of the Mutual National Bank of Chicago. He also operates a 333 acre farm at Roselle, Ill.

Tennessean Is Vice President

His election, the result of mail balloting, was ratified today by the administrative committee. He was succeeded as vice president by C. W. Bailey of Clarksville, Tenn. S. Albert Phillips of Louisville, Ky., was elected treasurer to succeed Wilmer J. Waller of Washington, D. C.

"America was built by the thrift of her people," Rathje told the committee and division and section officers at the luncheon. "The encouragement of saving is the basic function of banking.

"The accumulation of capital is just as necessary to a sound economy in the future as it proved essential in the prosecution of the war."

Business Financing Essential

Describing financing of business as an essential of the banker's responsibility in peace time, Rathje said, "Reconversion must and is being financed, but beyond that business must be assured of continuing credit. We must not only maintain a sound and prosperous economy, but we must also maintain a land of opportunity with freedom of private enterprise."

Burgess, vice chairman of the board of the National City Bank of New York, said that "banking in the United States is a definite economic force—a force that works with our government and with our citizens in support of our democratic free enterprise."

GRAIN FUTURES DIP AS THREAT OF FROST WANES

Grain futures prices were lower yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade on selling attributed partly to passing of frost threat in the corn belt.

Wheat futures closed 1⅛ to 1¼ cents a bushel lower. Corn was off ⅝ to ⅞, oats ½ to ⅝, and rye ¾ to 1⅛. Barley rose ⅛ to ⅜. Profit taking by professional traders and a pause in the aggressive commission house support of recent trading were factors.

HIKE FLOUR SUBSIDIES

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28 (AP)—The Reconstruction Finance corporation today announced the following wheat subsidies for October, compared with September subsidies: All wheat ground outside the Pacific coast area except that originating in the area, 26½ cents a bushel for October against 19½ cents. All wheat ground inside the Pacific coast area and all wheat originating in the area but ground outside, 27½ cents, compared with 24½ cents.

FAIR DIRECTORS VOTE TO REDEEM ALL 7 PCT. STOCK

Directors of The Fair yesterday authorized redemption on Nov. 1 of all of the 4,524 remaining shares of 7 per cent preferred stock at $143.25 a share. The company then will have outstanding 17,676 shares of 6 per cent preferred and 372,100 of common. Directors also declared the quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share on the 6 per cent preferred.

STOCKS BOUND, TOUCH ANOTHER TOP SINCE 1937

Trading Quickens After Reaction

New York, Sept. 28 (AP)—Led by steels, motors, utilities, and assorted industrials, the stock market today touched another new peak for more than eight years with gains of fractions to more than two points on expanding volume. The close was near the high for the day.

Buying in the metals apparently was inspired by expectations that ceilings for some steel products soon would be eliminated. Reports of large unfilled orders for passenger cars stimulated the automotive group. Power and light issues, especially the low quoted, were traded in sizeable blocks at small advances in further reflection of recent utility dividend boosts.

Selling Light on Reaction

That selling was negligible in the two preceding declining sessions caused the reinstatement of some accounts. The labor outlook still was considered disturbing, but the prospect of mounting wages accentuated market inflation psychology. Dividends and earnings also helped boost prices.

The Associated Press 60 stock average climbed 0.6 to 70.6, a peak since April 21, 1937. The utilities advanced 0.3 to equal their top of March 12, 1937. Of 926 issues registering, 605 were gainers and 149 losers.

CHICAGO LIST HIGHER

Prices were mostly higher yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Of 120 issues traded, 71 advanced and 22 declined. More active in an increased turnover of 37,000 shares were Central and Southwest Utilities and Commonwealth Edison, each up ¼; Asbestos Manufacturing, up ⅛, and Chicago corporation and Middle West corporation both unchanged. Marshall Field and United States Steel bounded to 1945 highs.

RAIL BONDS ADVANCE

New York, Sept. 28 (AP)—Railroad issues moved ahead in today's bond market with many lines registering advances of more than a point. Carriers in the Associated Press average rose 0.3.

UNION POSITION CHALLENGED BY PULLMAN CHIEF

A union attorney's statement that employes of the Pullman company believe they will receive better treatment from Otis & Co. than they have had from Pullman was challenged yesterday by D. A. Crawford, Pullman president.

The attorney, Paul W. Knox, made the statement on the filing of a union petition in the United States District court in Philadelphia Thursday asking approval of the sale of Pullman to Otis. Otis has offered 75 million dollars for the property which has been put on sale thru the court's ordering Pullman, Inc., parent company, to dispose of either its sleeping car or car manufacturing business.

"We have no information supporting the reported assertion that those unions believe they would receive better treatment from Otis," Crawford said. "The Pullman company has negotiated with designated representatives of the various groups of Pullman employes collective bargaining agreements which conform with the letter and spirit of the railway labor act."

Selling Price Increased for Government Cotton

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28 (AP)—The Commodity Credit corporation announced today the October selling price for government cotton will be 23.28 cents a pound, basis middling 15/16 inch, at Memphis. The September selling price was 23.12 cents.

First Poultry Futures Market Will Open in Chicago Monday

For the first time on any produce market, the Chicago Mercantile exchange will begin futures trading in frozen dressed poultry Monday, Oscar W. Olson, business manager, said yesterday.

The innovation in the commodity contract field provides for the delivery of fowls, 4 pounds and above; chickens, 4 pounds up; young tom turkeys, 16 pounds up, and young hen turkeys, 12 pounds up, all frozen dressed, grade A. Delivery dates will be November, 1945, and January, 1946.

Comes After Long Study

The decision to begin poultry futures trading came after months of study and research covering the production, marketing, and processing of poultry, Olson said. With meat scarce and the government asking for increased flocks, the poultry trade believed that a market that would enable them to insure their product from undue price fluctuations by means of hedging would be of value to the country's chicken and turkey farmers, shippers, processors, and merchants, he asserted.

Requests from all over the country for a contract market were received as early as 1942, Olson said. Altho rules and specifications have been set up for some time, the government set-asides of poultry and stagnant prices at ceiling levels did not warrant action until now. Set-asides have been removed, and prices currently are below ceiling.

Heavy Trading Forecast

Observers predicted a heavy trade in the new futures on the basis of the total of inquiries that have been received. The market will comply with United States standards, and government certificates will be required.

The trading unit has been set at 30,000 pounds. Trading hours will be from 10 to 11:45 a. m. on week days and from 10 to 10:45 a. m. on Saturdays.

Davis Urges Increase in Minimum Pay

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28 (AP)—The whole American community should share whatever cost is needed to bring wages up to "a decent standard," William H. Davis told senators today.

"It is no more than Christian ethics," said the former director of economic stabilization in testimony as a private citizen before a senate labor subcommittee, which is considering a bill to raise minimum wages from 40 cents an hour to 65 cents now and to 75 cents in two years.

Davis Says Courage Needed

Speaking generally of how America can rise to the needs of all the people, Davis said:

"The trouble is that everybody thinks he knows the answer. What we need is the courage to go ahead and the humility to recognize that no one man has the complete answer."

Davis suggested that the committee follow the line expressed by President Truman that the 40 cents minimum figure "was inadequate when established" and "has now become obsolete."

To buttress this argument, he added that the rise in the cost of living had outdated the 40 cent limit.

Recalls Price Levels

"At the price levels of today," he said, "it would take at least 55 cents an hour to equal the 40 cents congress intended to give in the 1938 act."

Sen. Ellender [D., La.] raised the question of what the effect of a boost to 65 cents would be "on the group below."

Davis objected that there aren't any groups below, but Ellender said he was talking about small farmers and others. He mentioned "the little manufacturers with eight to 15 employes" who cannot afford production increasing machinery.

PRICES OF MEAT ANIMALS STEADY AS RECEIPTS DIP

Live stock receipts in Chicago yesterday fell below a week ago, but with the exception of hogs, trading was less active than earlier in the week. Steady prices were paid for most of the cattle.

Only 5,500 hogs arrived. Nearly all sold at ceiling prices.

Allocation of Scrap Iron and Steel to End Monday

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28 (AP)—Allocations of scrap iron and steel to mills and foundries will be discontinued Monday.

Shoe Rationing

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28 (AP)—Shoe production has not increased enough to permit termination of rationing Oct. 1, the office of price administration and the war production board announced today.

New York, Sept. 28 (AP)—Shoe production has been speeded to a point where elimination of rationing will be possible in the "near future" the sole leather bureau of the Tanners' council announced today.

Report British May Lower Pound's Value

BY QUENTIN POPE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Sept. 28—The British are planning to lower the value of the pound sterling should the United States reject their demands for American aid without any strings, it was reported here today.

Depreciation of the pound would make sterling areas' purchases in the United States so expensive as to discourage buying.

Believed Move to Displacement

It is believed here the British plan to displace United States goods on the foreign markets in an export war for which England is preparing. Cheapening of the pound would be a move toward offsetting America's superior production technique and merchandising.

The British are troubled about the empire dollar pool, of which they are guardians but not the owners. Of the 14 billion dollars in blocked sterling balances held by the sterling area countries, much represents dollar funds turned over by the dominions and India.

Still Own Their Dollars

Legally, these countries still own their dollar contributions. Their control of them results not from domestic policy, but was undertaken at London's request.

The British are in a situation in which they assert they are dollar poor and the empire lands are dollar rich.

Insiders said any British plan to let sterling slip may result in New Zealand refusing to let curency ride downward with Britain's and other empire lands may adopt a similar course.

Drackett Starts Two New Soybean Plants

The Drackett company, maker of soybean products, yesterday reported construction had been started on two new plants, one for the manufacture of soybean textile fiber and the other for extraction of protein from soybeans. Both will be in Sharonville, O., near Cincinnati.

HOTELS START BIG REBUILDING, REPAIR PLANS

War Time Demands Tax Equipment

BY AL CHASE

Metropolitan Chicago hotels will spend 20 million dollars preparing for post-war business, it was learned yesterday. The city has 1,385 hotels with 135,000 rooms. Most of them have become war casualties thru record business and inability of hotel managers to provide ordinary maintenance.

Never in the history of the city have hotels done such a tremendous business as that of the war time months. Never have managers been so handicapped in trying to replace worn out, lost, and stolen properties. Rooms were in such demand that they usually could not be turned over to decorators or upholsterers even if workers or materials were available.

Equipment Worn, Lost

Carpets, upholstery, drapes, sheets, pillow cases, blankets, toweling, and dining room linens have worn out; dishes and glassware have been broken, and silverware has disappeared. Little of these supplies could be replaced. These necessities now are becoming available.

For the first time in several years Chicago hotel managers are beginning to return their properties to pre-war standards of furnishings, decorations, equipment, and personnel. Many hotels are setting their post-war standards higher than peace time levels. Air conditioning of public rooms will be increased, newer and more efficient kitchens are to be installed, more modern and labor saving equipment is being bought.

Sherman Program Broad

The Hotel Sherman probably has the most ambitious rehabilitation program. The firm of Holabird & Root, architects, made a survey of the property and reported it may cost $1,500,000 and take five years to modernize it.

A new main kitchen will be installed, a new air conditioned lobby will be built, and a large amount of new equipment installed, Jones said. New lighting is being considered.

The Palmer House expects to spend at least a million dollars, altho it has maintained a perpetual program of refurbishing rooms, Leo Kaffer, manager, said. It will expand its air conditioning system to include many more than the 250 guest rooms now equipped.

Bismarck to Spend Million

The Bismarck hotel also will spend about a million dollars on rehabilitation, mostly in major reallocation of facilities to place operations on a more economic basis, said Otto Eitel, manager.

The La Salle hotel plans spending about $700,000. New elevators will be installed. A new refrigeration system, new kitchens, and a $30,000 ice machine are planned.

The Morrison hotel has maintained its program of improving 10 rooms every week, said Managing Director Leonard Hicks. But several hundred thousand dollars will be spent on equipment that could not be had during the war.

Stevens and Congress

The Stevens was not reopened after military use until November, 1943, and it deteriorated little from war time traffic. The Congress, recently reopened, is completing a $1,500,000 program on the remaining 439 of its 970 rooms. The Drake expects to spend more than $250,000 and the Blackstone $100,000.

Outlying and suburban hotels are considering modernization programs. The Windermere will spend $400,000; the Orrington hotel, Evanston, $225,000; the Edgewater Beach, $200,000, and the three Lott hotels—Webster, Parkway, and Belden-Stratford—$400,000.

A CHICKEN FARM GENERAL'S GIFT TO GI THRU V. F. W.

Soldier First in Tokyo Will Get $1,000

Because his commanding general, William C. Chase, was sympathetic to a post-war plan for a chicken farm, Pvt. Paul E. Davis, troop D, 12th regiment, 1st cavalry division, will receive $1,000 at the 46th encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars to be held in Chicago Oct. 2, 3, and 4.

Davis heard that the V. F. W. post of his home county of Ottawa in Oklahoma had offered the prize for the first resident to enter Tokyo. He appealed to Maj. Gen. Chase on the ground that he needed the thousand to buy a chicken farm. The general responded so promptly that Davis is given credit for being the first American into Tokyo in the occupation.

Another to Get $1,000, Too

A second veteran, Sgt. Clarence A. Miller, finance section, 1st air borne army, also will receive $1,000 for being the first Yank from Ottawa county into Berlin. The war department has promised to fly both veterans to Chicago for the convention.

Commander in Chief Jean A. Brunner, Forest Hills, N. Y., and Hazel Miller, Des Moines, Ia., national president of the auxiliary, arrived in Chicago yesterday to make plans for the convention opening. Commander Brunner said the convention will advocate that length and type of service govern the demobilization policies of the war and navy departments.

Green and Murray to Speak

The controversial issue concerning veterans' seniority right in employment, which have been challenged by labor unions, will be thoroly aired at the convention. President William A. Green of the American Federation of Labor and President Philip Murray of the Congress of Industrial Organizations will present the views of their organizations, and Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey will explain the matter as handled by the selective service system.

V. F. W. leaders stressed the fact that the united nations veterans' victory conference in the Terrace room, Morrison hotel, at 10 a. m. Monday, the memorial service at 8 p. m. Monday in Orchestra hall, and the Tuesday meeting in Chicago Stadium, are open to the public.

Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle and Gen. Omar N. Bradley, head of the veterans' administration, will speak Tuesday morning.

Staff Sgt. Junior Spurrier, 22, Bluefield, W. Va., will serve as a member of the American delegation at the united nations victory conference. Spurrier enlisted when he was 17 and served overseas in Company K, 134th infantry, 35th division. He was awarded the medal of honor, distinguished service cross, bronze star, Purple Heart, and French croix de guerre. Scheduled to address the conference is Dean Acheson, undersecretary of state.

TRAFFIC DEATH TOLL IN U. S. UP 26% IN A MONTH

Within two weeks after gas rationing was lifted, the nation had piled up an August traffic death toll that was 26 per cent bigger than the one for August last year, the National Safety council reported yesterday.

In 375 cities with populations of more than 10,000, the toll jumped 57 per cent, the council said.

The council made a plea for "a little extra care by drivers and pedestrians," and said the toll of lives from the August driving spree was 2,430. The total for the first eight months of the year was 15,620.

"All over the country, war worn cars were being driven on war worn tires over war worn roads at a speed too fast for safety—and by drivers a bit war worn themselves," the safety council said.

SHIFT IN NAME OF BALBO DR. TO AWAIT DEMAND

The name of Balbo drive will be changed only if Chicago Italian-Americans demand such action or if a strong movement develops among other groups, Robert J. Dunham, park board president, said yesterday.

The drive was known as 7th st. before Gen. Italo Balbo's historic flight from Italy to Chicago.

The name change was made by the old South Park board in honor of Balbo. Dunham said he is opposed to naming streets or monuments for people in their life time, because public opinion about an individual may change before he dies.

Chief Alvin Ruesch of the Zion police department yesterday began an investigation of an apparent attempt to intimidate Negro residents of the city's southwest side by placing sticks of dynamite on the porches of three homes. Fuses of each of the three sticks of explosives had been burned down approximately one inch and had then been extinguished, Ruesch said. This, he added, indicated an attempt to frighten the dwellers in the houses rather than to blow up the buildings.

AIR LINES SHRINK FROM FINANCING WHITE ELEPHANT

Airlines officials yesterday were plagued by the thought that the new terminal building being built at Chicago airport might have importance only as a sort of memorial hall if the city's future main airport is located one mile south in the Clearing district instead of at the Douglas field northwest of Chicago.

Their worry was intensified by the discovery that the building will cost $200,000 to $300,000 more than the $700,000 the airlines jointly placed in escrow to pay for its construction.

The airlines' spokesmen met most of the day in the Palmer House. It was reported they complained that their engineers had not been kept informed of the changing cost situation. They raised the question: Why continue to build a permanent structure if it is to be abandoned?

Who Pays Added Cost?

En masse, they trooped into the office of Public Works Commissioner Hewitt. A two hour conference there was inconclusive. Another meeting will be held soon.

"My personal opinion is that it is too late to change the specifications for the remaining construction," Hewitt said. "The original plan called for a temporary building, one that we knew would be obsolete in five years, and that's what we're building. The question is whether the city or the airlines should put up the additional money needed to complete the building."

Airlines representatives were A. F. Heino and Walter Swan, United; Hal C. Thurman, Braniff; R. M. Huber and D. H. McCampbell, Transcontinental-Western; R. Averill, Pennsylvania-Central; F. R. Meisch, Northwest, and B. Williams, American.

W. A. Patterson, president of United airlines, said Thursday that his company would not go ahead with its projected 2 million dollars worth of improvements at the present airport until he knew whether it is to be abandoned.

Clew to Kelly's Position

Mayor Kelly in his press conference made a remark which some interpreted as favoring the Douglas site.

"I talked to a man who is unbiased and he said the Douglas field would work out all right," Kelly said. "But I don't want to take part in this. I want the airport selection committee to work it out."

Aviation circles differ whether a single super-airport could handle Chicago's future air traffic because of overhead congestion. At the Douglas site 3,000 acres could be used as soon as it is acquired. The area could be expanded to 5,000 acres by moving railroad tracks.

Youth on the U. of C. Campus

One 13 Years Old

Youngest of 900 new students who have registered in the college of the University of Chicago is 13 year old Carter Colwell, son of the university's new president, Ernest C. Colwell, it was announced yesterday.

Seven Chicago 14 year old students also have enrolled. They are Howard N. Alk, 6124 N. Washtenaw av.; William E. Baker, 1049 W. 79th st.; Judith Binyon, 5536 Kimbark av.; Lois L. Davenport, 420 Evergreen av.; Allen H. Dropkin, 6725 Cornell av.; John E. Frodin, 7536 East End av.; and James A. Geocaris, 6951 Green st.

The new registrants also included 53 World War II. veterans: Dean Clarence H. Haust's son, Price Administrator Chester Bowles' son, and the daughter of Harold C. Urey, Nobel prize chemist, whose work on separation of isotopes resulted in discovery of "heavy water," important in atomic power.

Juvenile Authorities Hold 11 in Loop Theater Thefts

Eleven Negro boys, ranging from 10 to 15 years of age, were in custody of juvenile authorities yesterday after they confessed purse snatchings and stealing from cashier cages of loop theaters. The boys operated in groups, they said, and while one would distract a cashier's attention, another would reach thru the window and grab an loose change. Police estimated the boys had obtained more than $800 in their thefts.

SAILOR INDICTED FOR MURDER IN WOMAN'S DEATH

Daniel Hurley, 19, of Clayton, Mo., a merchant marine warrant officer, was indicted yesterday by the grand jury on a charge of murder in the death of Miss Shirley Stone, 29, a salesclerk, of 5200 Harper av. Hurley has confessed he beat and tore off the clothing of the young woman when she resisted his advances early Wednesday morning. Her body was found at the foot of a basement stairway at 1452 E. 63d st. Hurley said he had been drinking. Alex Napoli, assistant state's attorney, said Hurley would be arraigned Monday before Chief Justice Harold G. Ward in Criminal court.

GIVES SLEEPING MAN 'HOT FOOT'; BOY, 16, IS SEIZED

Marvin Bates, 16, a Chicago boy whose address was not given, was turned over to juvenile authorities in Fort Wayne, Ind., yesterday for giving a "hot foot" to an employe of a carnival concession owner. Police said the boy admitted pouring lighter fluid on the socks of Fred L. Smith, 27, Kendalville, Ind., and setting the fluid afire. Smith is in a Fort Wayne hospital with second and third degree burns on both feet. The boy, also employed by the carnival, told police he resorted to the "hot foot" when other attempts failed to awaken Smith, who was sleeping in a truck.

CHICAGO YANK TELLS HOW GIs SABOTAGED JAPS

Americans in the prison camps at Mukden, Manchuria, carried out a million dollar sabotage program, operated a thriving black market, and made the lives of their captors so miserable that a Jap officer complained, "You Americans are not friendly!"

Tech. Sgt. Guilfoil

This story of ingenuity and spirit against almost hopeless odds by men who had fought at Bataan was told yesterday by Tech. Sgt. John Guilfoil, 25, of 6239 N. Fairfield av., who was released from the prison camp on Aug. 31 and returned home a few days ago.

Guilfoil spent 76 days on Bataan until the surrender on April 9, 1942. He lived thru the Bataan death march, but prefers to avoid mention of it.

He was picked by the Japs to go to Mukden, chiefly because of skill acquired at Lane Technical High school and in the air force.

Wage Sabotage Campaign

The skilled Americans, some 800 or 900 of them, were put to work in the M. K. K. machine tool factory at Mukden. Guilfoil was assigned to a lathe.

"We started work on Nov. 11, 1942," he said. "We all seemed to get the idea at once. It was easy to drop irreplaceable parts down the latrine or into wet cement. Or to break expensive tools. Or to grind too much or too little.

"Some of the men made a deal with the Chinese black market, working thru Chinese laborers that came inside the gate. They stole 34 dynamos and smuggled them out the main gate in carts. The Chinese paid us 34,000 yen for them, took the parts they needed for their own dynamos, and then sold the rest back to the Japs on the black market!"

Million Dollar Loss to Japs

The high point of the factory experience was reached when the Japs in January, 1944, took inventory and discovered they were short more than a million dollars worth of tools and equipment.

"'You Americans are not friendly!' a Jap officer told us," Guilfoil said. "I thought of the death march and my buddies. I guess I agreed with him. Anyhow, they took us out of the factory and put us in a disciplinary camp, doing construction work."

STATUARY FIRMS SUE FOR $500,000 IN STRIKE BY 250

Damages of $500,000 were asked in a suit filed in Superior court yesterday in behalf of five statuary manufacturers against local No. 317 of the Ornamental Plaster and Novelty Workers' union [CIO] and officers of the union.

The suit, filed by the legal firm of Chapman and Annixter, alleged that the five companies lost $100,000 each as the result of a strike of 250 employes called three weeks ago in a dispute over a retroactive wage increase.

The action charged that the union refused to comply with its contract by submitting the grievance to arbitration, and asked that it be ordered to do so.

The employers are the Stern-Good company, Artcraft Statuary Products company, Columbia Art Manufacturers company Florence Art company, and Universal Statuary company.

KANKAKEE UNIT OF MILITIA GETS TROPHY TONIGHT

Kankakee's company G, 5th infantry, Illinois reserve militia, will receive THE TRIBUNE'S trophy for excellence in drill attendance in ceremonies to be held in the Kankakee armory at 9 o'clock tonight.

The trophy will be presented by a representative of THE TRIBUNE to Pvt. Geo. Guimond, 48, on behalf of his company.

The ceremony will start at 8 p. m. with a parade thru the business district by militia units from Champaign, Danville, Pontiac, Streator, and Ottawa. After the presentation the members of the company will entertain at a military ball.

Among the guests will be Brig. Gen. Kenneth MacDonald, the brigade commander, Col. Richard H. Johnson, Lt. Col. Neal A. Young, Lt. Col. Clyde R. Davis, and Lt. Col. Edmund O'Neal, representing Maj. Gen. Leo M. Boyle the adjutant general.

EYE DESTROYED IN TAVERN, HE WILL GET $15,000

Walter Canning, 40, of 718 N. Clark st., a pin boy in a bowling alley, yesterday was awarded $15,000 damages by a jury in the Circuit court of Judge Thomas J. Lynch. The verdict was directed against Sam Ablin and the Shanty Inn, a tavern owned by Ablin at 716 N. Clark st. Canning sued on the ground that his right eye was destroyed when two customers of the tavern attempted to rob him in the washroom. James A. Dooley, Canning's attorney, said that both robbers are serving prison terms.
